Blossom Time On Chestnut Ridge

BY LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

FISHERTOWN, (Bedford Co.) — Chestnut Ridge is one of those areas in Pennsylvania where apples just naturally seem to thrive.

"It's the chert limestone soil we have here," says Larry Wright, owner of 180-acres of apple orchards on the Ridge. "It provides good drainage and, at the same time, holds the water and keeps moisture around the roots of the trees."

"There is also good air movement which helps to keep the frost way." The picturesque ridges give the trees plenty of sunlight in the daytime and, at night, the cold air so essential for good apples.

"The apple growers are like any other farmer," Wright says. "We take a lot of risks. We have to contend with the weather and insects including the gypsy moth. There can be too much water or too little. To add to these problems, we were caught off guard when bad publicity over the use of Alar hit last fall."

Wright, like other apple growers in Chestnut Ridge and probably most of Pennsylvania has not used Alar, a product which is use-

Larry Wright, Fishertown, checks the condition of his apple blossoms. National apple industry leaders said this week they have asked growers to stop using the chemical Alar because of consumer fears. But Wright and most other Pennsylvania apple producers have not used Alar since 1985.

Berks Co. FFA Holds Banquet

BY VALERIE VANTASSEL
Berks Co. Correspondent

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — Kirk Sattazahn received the County Star Farmer award at the Berks County FFA banquet held last Tuesday at the Kutztown Grange. Sattazahn, a senior at Conrad Weiser High School, was named as the State Star Farmer by the Pennsylvania FFA in January during the organization's Midwinter Convention. His program is a diversified one including dairy, crop and livestock enterprises.

Sattazahn was also honored as Berks County's top prepared speaker and as the outgoing county president. He plans to run for FFA State President in June during FFA Activities Week and has been accepted at Penn State University.

Eric Marshall, Twin Valley, and Scott Youse, Oley Valley, were awarded scholarships to attend the Washington Leadership Conference, a national event held each summer in the country's capital.

Marshall was inducted as the county's new president with

"Apple A Day Is Still The Doctor's Orders

BY PAT PURCELL

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) —"Virtually no risks"; "levels are permissable and safe" and "what Alar remains on apples does not represent an unacceptable health risk", Dr. Sorrell Schwartz said repeatedly during the video news conference televised on Monday, hosted by the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association in Camp Hill.

Schwartz of Georgetown University, an advisor of risk assessment on environmental health, told viewers that the Environmental Protection Agency's decision to cancel the use of Alar does not translate into impending disease resulting from its use.

"It is very important to settle the question now that while Alar is being cancelled what Alar remains on apples does not represent an unacceptable health risk," said Schwartz. "My advice to consumers is that there is nothing to be concerned about. It is not necessary to buy Alar free products. Virtually no risks result from exposure to these low levels of Alar."

The video and the following PFA news conference was held in response to the recent airing of the "60 Minutes" program "A Is For Apple" concerning pesticide residue in food, specifically Alar in apples.

President of the American Farm Bureau, Dean Klechner, criticized the program for its lack of balance

Penn State Faculty Members Tour Pennsylvania

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Now that classes are over, new faculty in the College of Agriculture at Penn State have switched roles. Instead of preparing courses and exams, 17 teaching and research faculty left May 15 for an intensive four-day course to learn about the diversity of Pennsylvania.

"Many of our new faculty have come from other parts of the country, or the world, and don't know what Pennsylvania is all about," says Dr. Joan Thomson, coordinator of faculty and staff development for the college. "Some also are unfamiliar with our tradition of outreach and public service. We want College of Agriculture faculty to know the range of Pennsylvania's agricultural enterprises and the scope of Penn State's educational programs throughout the state."

The course schedule includes conversations with state officials and county commissioners, visits to some of the largest and most successful poultry and dairy farms in the country and inspections of

DHI Organizations To Offer Test For Staph Mastitis

BY KARL BERGER
Special Correspondent

FREDERICK, MD — Dairy farmers in the Mid-Atlantic area soon will have access to a new weapon in their never-ending battle against mastitis.

Area Dairy Herd Improvement organizations are gearing up to provide a test for detecting Staphylococcus aureus, a bacteria that is one of the major causes of mastitis. The test should make it easier to identify infected animals and reduce bulk tank somatic cell counts, according to DHI officials.

The ProStaph mastitis test—a registered trademark of the ProScience Corporation of Sterling, Va., the developer and marketer of the test—received full federal licensing in April. DHIA Services Inc. is distributing it to the laboratories that service state and regional DHI units across the country. DHIA Services is the marketing subsidiary of the National Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

Richard Barth, general manager of the Pennsylvania DHIA, said his organization plans to begin

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.)—The grace and charm of an era gone by greeted invited guests to the celebration here among stately trees and a house full of memories. The festivities were initiated to mark Mrs. Mary Schantz's contribution to farmland preservation and to her equal contribution to the preservation of historical buildings.

While Mrs. Schantz had received recognition for her contribution to farmland preservation last year at the annual meeting of preservation official said this assembly of about 100 enthusiasts was called to "just rejoice over what Mrs. Schantz has done."

The farm, located on Springville Road, east of town, is in an agricultural security area and is in the National Registry of Historic Places. Permanent conservation and historic preservation easements have been placed on the property by will and with no cost to the two conservation organizations--Lancaster Farmland Trust and The Historic Preservation Trust of Lancaster County.

The late 17th and early 18th century buildings will be preserved in

Acres Corn Update: Corn futures prices continued to slide lower, settling today from 1/2 to 1-3/4 cents lower. Initial pressure was attributed to follow-through from yesterday's sell-off along with reports of increased overnight movement. Losses were held in check though by short covering at support levels along with some bargain basement buying. Support was provided by continued firmness in the cash markets along with ideas that the current storm system had been oversold. December found support at $2.52 and closed 1-1/2 cents lower at $2.54-1/4. Generic certificate bids weakened late yesterday and remained steady today.

Acres Soybean Update: Soybean futures prices drifted lower today and settled from 1/2 cent lower on the deferred May to 5 cents lower on the November. Selling early in the session was linked to follow-through from yesterday's steep drop coupled with reports of cash price protection this morning. The soft tone remained due to weather considerations with forecasts for showers and thunderstorms over the next few days. Further pressure was attributed to ongoing dollar strength and diminishing export hopes. Prices were underpinned by a firm CIF tone and reports of light country movement. The July option closed 2-1/4 cents lower today at $7.12-3/4 after trading from $7.07 to $7.19, while the November settled at $6.78-1/2 after trading from $6.76-1/2 to $6.87.

Acres Wheat Update: Wheat futures prices ended today's session mixed with the spot May closing 2 cents lower while the other months closed from 2-3/4 to 3-1/4 cents higher. Activity today was choppy with pressure exerted by rainfall potential and harvest progress in the southeast and delta state. Buying late in the session was tied to news that Ag. Sec. Clayton Yeutter spoke of talks beginning soon between the USSR and the U.S. to extend the long term grain agreement. Although the USSR did not tender for its remaining export bonus the expectations and anticipation underpinned prices. Further buying was seen on reports by wire services that 11 villages in the USSR were being evacuated due to high radiation levels lingering from the 1986 Chernobyl accident.

Acres Cattle Update: Live and feeder cattle again finished mixed in a light volume, featureless day. Many traders took to the sidelines early in the session and awaited today's 7-State USDA Cattle-on-Feed Report. Some weakness was noted on reports of fed cattle sales at lower prices with top steers at $76.50 in Western Kansas. Lower boxed beef cut out values along with a decrease in movement added further pressure. Feeders were supported by another increase in the cash index and closed from 15 higher on the spot option to 7 lower on the August. Live lost ground on the front two options 32 and 18 points and closed out on all but one other option unchanged. Today's cattle on feed report showed cattle on feed at 104%, with placements at 101% and marketings at 98%. These figures were within pre-report estimates and were termed neutral to bearish for futures.

Eastern PA & NJ Poultry

Prices were lower when compared to prior week. Trade sentiment was about steady. Offers from producers were very light and short of buyer needs. Processors operated only part time schedules this week and are not full for next week. Light canner product was clearing at steady prices; however buyers were resisting current asking prices for heavy canners.

National Egg Market

Trade sentiment was about steady. Supplies were ample for mostly moderate buying interest. Restaurant and fast food orders were fairly good. Loose eggs usually traded at or below normal relationship to cartoned product. Breakers were able to buy at or below previous week's price levels as offerings increased. Light type fowl availability was in balance with the light to moderate buying interest as the offerings of heavy type fowl incrased.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Trucklot buying interest was light and cautious. Supplies of boneless were ample and slow in clearing, even at today's lower prices. Demand for whole breasts was limited and offerings were available at discounts. Legs and leg quarters were fully adequate for immediate delivery; however, interest was building at some points for later arrivals. Wings were fully adequate to ample at current unchanged prices.

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer

May 17, 1989

Demand for ready to cook whole fryers was only fair today. Supplies of lighter weights were barely adequate but the 3 pound and over sizes were fully adequate. In the parts complex all items were fully adequate for immediate needs. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 72-81 cents. Live supplies were adequate. Average live weights were mostly desirable. Slaughter schedules were moderately heavy. Trade sentiment was barely steady to weak.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

National Maritime Day, May 22

May 22, 1868, The Great Train Robbery by seven members of the Reno gang, who made off with $98,000 in cash . May 25, 1926, birthday of Miles Davis, musician and composer Average length of days for the week 14 hours 54 minutes . May 28, 1929, Warner Bros release first-ever talking film, On with the Show, produced entirely in color To cultivate a garden is to walk with God — Christian Boveé

Ask the Old Farmer: What is a horseboat? I've heard reference to it, but cannot find a definition H L , Iowa A horseboat is a scow-like craft whose two paddle wheels were powered by horse-driven treadmill It was invented by a Mr. Patten for use on Lake Winnipesaukee in N.H Two horses were used.

Home Hints: Use your garden hoe as a measuring stick for planting rows, by painting measured units on the handle

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Rainy and cold; more showers mid-week; then clearing and hot The month ends warmish and wet-ish, in general, weatherwise.

Greater New York-New Jersey: Seasonably warm; then partly cloudy with showers during the middle of the week Clearing and warm for the weekend.

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Warm and rainy; showers with intermittent sun; then ending clear, warm, and pleasant for a terrific weekend. Enjoy!

OPINION

Eat Two Apples

Since the Alar scare, scientists, educators and farm leaders have jumped up to say it isn't so. But apparently many viewers of the "60 Minutes" TV program titled "Intolerable Risks: Pesticides in Our Children's Food," believe the biased report that apples are instruments of bad health.

Derl I. Derr, president, International Apple Institute, this week reiterated the industries contention that the use of Alar poses no imminent hazard to human health. But because of a $50 million drop in sales due to consumer fears, the institute has recommended to their member growers not to use daminozide sold under the trade name Alar. If members comply, this means that spraying will not be done in June or early July, and when the crop matures in the fall, the already low levels of Alar will be reduced to virtually zero.

Of course, Pennsylvania growers and processors have refused to use the product since 1985. Our local growers saw in advance this possible threat to the industry and took steps to keep themselves clean. But other growers across the nation did not. And now everyone, including Pennsylvania growers, suffer.

We must learn from these experiences. The veal industry took it on the rump several months ago. And other commodities will likely be hit in the future.

Therefore, representatives of agriculture must begin to anticipate areas of business where they could be degraded in the market place. They must take steps to clean up their own problems before a group or an individual person, not sympathic to agriculture, feels the need to use public opinion to get the job done. Pennsylvania growers and processors look very smart right now.

And Agriculture must take the initiative to tell the consumer in advance how safe their food supply really is. If anti-farm groups can set up booths in shopping malls to tell crowds of people who flock to their side how bad farmers treat their animals or produce their food, agriculture can also set up the same booths and tell the crowds who would flock to their side how well we treat our animals and how safely we produce our food.

We have hid behind our barn doors long enough. We have allowed our opponents to be unopposed in their well-financed opinions. At least unopposed until after the damage has been done.

Now is the time for all good men and women of agriculture to come to the aid of their way of life.

And now is the time to eat two apples. One to keep the doctor away. And one to help the apple industry fight back the fears created by "60 Minutes."

NOW IS THE TIME

By Jay Irwin
Lancaster County Agriculture Agent

To Check Stored Pesticides

The shelf life of most pesticides, when stored in their original container, is usually several years. The greatest problem with stored pesticides comes from freezing temperatures. Cold over-winter temperatures may cause a breakdown of the emulsifier in liquid materials. These materials may not mix properly when added to the spray water.

To determine if the pesticide will still mix properly with water, follow this easy procedure: (1) place ½ pint of water in a small container, (2) add ½ teaspoon of the pesticide, (3) shake or stir thoroughly (you should get a milky mixture), (4) let stand for about one hour. The spray mix should remain an even milky mixture. If an oily scum or layer forms on top, or if a layer of curds appear on top, don't use the material.

To Keep Cows Cool

Now is the time to start making preparations for keeping cows cool this summer, according to Glenn Shirk, Extension Dairy Agent. The proper use of shade, air and water will help. Barns, if well ventilated, can serve as excellent shades for cattle. An added advantage is barns also provide cows with a clean, comfortable place to rest, close to a convenient supply of feed and water. Most barns are also designed to be cleaned easily once or twice daily, and this is important for helping to prevent disease and fly problems. For good ventilation open the barns up as much as possible. If necessary, remove siding and floor boards (ceilings), and open roof ridges; or install fans to circulate and exchange air.

The use of sprinklers to wet cows periodically and the use of fans to evaporate the moisture and cool the cows can improve cow comfort, too. Contact the extension office for information on: Cow Comfort, Sprinkling Systems, Shades and Evaporative Cooling; in Lancaster, call 717-394-6851.

To Continue Forage Feeding

Dairymen and beef cattle producers should continue to feed some dry matter while the animals are on pasture. The feeding of hay or silage, when the cattle are turned out to pasture will result in more uniform production. Also, keeping some dry matter in the ration will help prevent serious scouring and bloating.

Some producers provide this forage by way of a portable hay or feed bunk in the pasture area. The animals should consume some of the dry forage along with lush spring pasture. The hay should be fed early in the day, before the herd goes to the new pasture. Later in the season the stored hay or silage will continue to be useful when growth slows down due to dry weather and high temperatures.

To Be Aware of Ticks

It seems like there is a season for everything... well the tick season is here. These pests may be on almost any dog or person that walks through uncultivated fields or woody areas from May to September.

Ticks await their victims on low-growing shrubs and on tall grass. They attach to, and feed on the blood of dogs and humans as well as many other animals.

The control the American dog tick, first clean the area of tall grass and weeds on which ticks await their victims. Also treat bushes 20 to 30 feet on either side of paths with Sevin, Diazinon or Lindane. The dog should also be treated with a 5% Sevin dust at weekly intervals, or as needed, to control ticks.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHAT'S YOUR 'NEW NATURE'?

May 21, 1989

Background Scripture:
Ephesians 4:17 through 5:20.
Devotional Reading:
John 3:1-5.

Most of us have been brought up in some semblance of Christianity. Unlike the Ephesians and others to whom Paul addressed some of his letters, we've never known a way of life that was completely antagonistic to Christian values. Even if we haven't had a great deal to do with the church, the moral values of the church are pretty much normative for our communities.

So, when Paul writes, "Put off your old nature which belongs to your former manner of life and is corrupt through deceitful lusts" (4:22), there doesn't seem to be any revelance for us. We don't have a "former manner of life" that we need to "put off."

THE LIKENESS OF GOD

Paul's admonition, however, is more relevant than we might at first suppose, particularly if we focus on his call to "put on the new nature, created after the likeness of God in true righteousness and holiness" (4:24). Whereas none of us may have an "old nature" to give up, none of us are ever so far along that we don't have a "new life" to put on. For morality is not just a matter of the things from which we abstain, but also of the things to which we aspire. And Paul gives us a lofty standard on which to set our sights: "Therefore be imitators of God, as beloved children. And walk in love, as Christ loved us and gave himself up for us a fragrant offering and sacrifice to God" (5:1,2).

There was a time not too distant when the churches were the moral beacons of the community. People may not have consistently lived by those standards, but there was little doubt what kind of morality the churches stood for. I don't think, that is so true any more. The morals of the surrounding society usually infiltrate the churches and Christianity's moral leadership is no longer evidence. In morality, Christians seem to follow rather than lead.

THE FRUIT OF LIGHT

I believe that Christians must reassert the moral standards of Christ. All of us, even if we have no "old nature" to give up, can certainly aspire to a higher level of moral life. In Ephesians, Paul was concerned with the kinds of things that are not one bit obsolete today: being truthful (4:25), handling anger and hostility (4:26,27,31), doing honest work (4:28), abstaining from sexual debauchery (5:), and treating others with Christlike love (4:32, 5:1,2). There's nothing out of date with any of those concerns. Nor do I know anyone or any congregation that ever fulfilled completely Paul's admonition: "and be kind to one another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, as God in Christ forgave you" (4:32).

"Consistency and uniformity are two things we like about SoyPLUS.®"

"In our opinion, consistency is one of the big factors in getting cows to milk. That's why we rely almost totally on corn silage for roughage in our herd – less than 3 lbs. of haylage is fed on a dry matter basis. We like the uniformity in corn silage – it doesn't vary as much as hay or haylage. Consistency and uniformity are two things we like about SoyPLUS. We've been feeding SoyPLUS for four years, and it's the same product, load after load.

"However, because we don't feed any hay, our ration requires a blend of solvent meal and SoyPLUS. We were feeding 70% solvent soybean meal and 30% SoyPLUS, but we recently switched to a 50/50 ratio and the cows are milking better. Our ration is balanced for 16½% protein.

"In the past several months, our cows have been milking really well and production has been climbing. We're hopeful that we'll soon reach 26,000 lbs. of milk."

ATTENTION TOBACCO GROWERS

Golden Leaf Tobacco Company Would Like To Encourage You To Increase 609 Tobacco Production In 1989.

We have just returned from an overseas tobacco selling trip and the news is good!

Our orders have increased for 609 tobacco over the past several years, and we could have purchased much more of the 1988 crop had it been available. Surplus government stock has been depleted, and U.S. grown tobacco inventory is at its lowest level in years.

Our goal has been to establish a strong market for Pennsylvania 609 by personally visiting manufacturers overseas and here in the US. Our goal has been met!

The outlook is good for 1989 as more US grown tobacco is needed for cigarette production both in the US and overseas.

It is our desire to continue to work closely with each of you. We are daily continuing our efforts to build the 609 tobacco demand into a lasting market that will carry into the future. Our company prides itself on a relationship with the farmers based on honesty, integrity and loyalty. If we can be of service to you please feel free to call.

ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK: CASH - steady FUTURES - steady to weaker.

Acres Hog Update: Live hog futures reversed direction again this week and managed to close from unchanged on the February option to 62 points higher on the July. Buying was in response to spillover from limit gains in all of the pork belly options along with reports of steady to higher midday wolesale product prices. Gains were tempered by higher than expected runs yesterday along with ideas that today's run would also be higher. Today's slaughter at 311,000 compares with last year's figures of 301,000. Bellies were pushed higher by expectations for renewed retail demand for bacon featuring.

OUR REPS ARE SPECIALISTS IN YOUR FIELD.

Field work to a TELMARK® sales manager means just that. Our representatives conduct business where you conduct business. On the farms. In the fields. At the sites. They're local people with ag backgrounds. Which means they understand your business and speak your language. Most of all, they recognize how a lease through our AGRI-LEASE® program can help your business grow.

This program, provided exclusively by TELMARK, is dedicated to agriculture and agribusiness. It allows our reps to speak with confidence. Drawn from their own experience and over 20 years of agribusiness experience from TELMARK. For complete details about our AGRI-LEASE program, contact your dealer, local TELMARK representative, or call us at 315-449-7964.

M&W MOWERS

The right cutter for the job.

You spend months choosing the right tractor or combine for the job, so why buy the first rotary cutter you see? When you choose an M&W Prairie Clipper® Rotary Cutter you get a cutter built for reliability and serviceability. The flexible box section design absorbs shock because strength is built in, not added on. The special blade design increases the cutting capacity with less power. Heavy 1 5/8" blade pins allow blades to be changed quickly using only one wrench. Standard features include gearboxes designed for the job, adjustable side skids, replaceable oval blade pans, a 9,000 pound 8" clutch on PTO shafts and adjustable wheel spacings on all pull-type models. Complete chain shielding is available on all models. Don't go shopping for a cutter thinking all cutters are the same. Before you buy, see the M&W Prairie Clipper, the right cutter for the job.

One on One

What's the best approach to solving a farmer's problem? At Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, we believe it's one-on-one. Face-to-face, informal meetings between our field representatives and our members.

Our field representatives are a crucial link between Atlantic and its members. The cooperative can pay out a record amount in patronage, equity and premiums, yet our members rely on the personal service they receive.

Each of our field representatives is trained to help dairy farmers produce better milk and make more money. They are experts in improving milk quality and milking systems, and are well-versed in farm construction and equipment.

Would you like to be a part of this one-on-one approach? Then call or write today. Get to know the advantages of Atlantic membership.

BIG BALE CHOPPERS

from KIDD give regular bale economy from big round bales.

For animal feed, bedding or mulching the Kidd Big Bale Chopper provides either or both sides delivery controlled from the tractor seat. It saves on hay, straw and labour. And with air box adaptor, it blows material through a 7 inch dia. flexible hose, ideal for landscaping applications. For animal feed, it chops and shreds hay to provide better digestion and increased growth rates and, for bedding, it means less waste. For mulching it can be used around strawberry plants or apple trees with considerable saving on straw and labour.

Ireland, U.S. Dairy Industries Com

Editor Note:

During April, the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council sponsored a dairy tour of Ireland where we visited dairy farms and processing plants to understand better the Irish dairy industry and to compare their methods with ours.

Here's Part 1 of a comprehensive article about the comparisons of production, processing and promotion between the Irish and the United States dairy industries.

WILLIAMSPORT (Lycoming Co.) — The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council (ADADC) sponsored an eight-day tour of the Republic of Ireland from April 8-16. The 28-member tour group included dairy farmers and industry representatives from the states of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Through a combination of plant tours and farm visits, the group was able to compare Irish dairy production, processing and promotion methods with those of the United States. On their first day in Ireland, the visiting Americans were greeted by the U.S. Ambassador to Ireland, Margaret Heckler, who told them, "Ireland is a country with a glorious history and a young population--about half are under 26 years of age."

Known as the "Emerald Isle" because of the mild, damp climate that encourages growth almost year round, Ireland has about the same area as South Carolina. There are four provinces and 32 counties, six of which are known as Northern Ireland. The other 26 counties form the Republic of Ireland with a population of about 3½ million.

Agriculture is a major industry, contributing 10% to the Gross National Product and 25% of total exports, including live animals and beverages. About 162,000 are employed in farms, plus 43,000 in related industries.

Production By Quota

Through visits with Irish dairy farmers, cooperative leaders, dairy processors and promotion executives, tour members learned that Irish production levels are highly restricted under the European Community (EC) quota system which just completed its fifth year on March 31. Production above allowable quotas is assessed a penalty called a "Super Levy." This year's national Super Levy is about 10 million Irish pounds ($15 million). Some Irish farmers have had their milk checks withheld since the first of the year to cover their portion of the Super Levy. A few larger farmers are expected to pay several thousand pounds. If farmers had not been feeding milk to their calves and other livestock since Christmas, plus having had a very wet March, the quota overages would have been even higher.

Irish production is highly seasonal with 14% more milk produced in June as in January because of the nine-to-ten-month pasturing season, with very little concentrate needed. Irish cows average 8,500 lbs. milk production compared to 13,750 lbs. production in the U.S., but Irish farmers' feeding costs are minimal. In Munster, Ireland's largest dairy province, farmers may only feed a half ton per cow all year. Because of the damp weather, they do not raise alfalfa, corn or soybeans; they raise grasses. Efficient use of grasslands is the key to profitable dairy farming under a quota system. The average farm milks 23 cows on 55 acres. The group visited a dairy research farm and three other dairy farms, one of which is also a farmhouse cheese operation.

The Agriculture Institute, established in 1958 with grant money from the U.S., conducts research in all aspects of Irish agriculture at seven research stations, one of which is Moorepark Research station devoted to dairy and pigs.

Their primary goal over the past thirty years has been the development of a low-cost, high-output dairying system, styled after New Zealand's dairy industry. Research included determination of stock-carrying capacity of Irish grassland per cow (from 3 acres/cow to 1.2 acres/cow) and increasing profitability of milk production from Irish grassland by nitrogen use and white clover. Research continues in cost-efficient feeding to encourage more winter lactation. Other successful husbandry research projects are earlier breeding of heifers and improved health and hygiene practices. They also compare milking systems.

Product research has included UHT (ultra-high temperature) products, high protein products and butter quality research, including development of a more spreadable butter by feeding a whole soybean feed. Consumer costs are anticipated to be 12 cents/lb. higher than regular butter. In general, like their U.S. counterpart, Dairy Research Inc. (DRINC), Moorepark Researchers concentrate on process development rather than product development.

One of the farm visits was to the Walshe Family farm, owned by the president of the Young Farmers Association (Macra na Feirme) Padraic Walshe, and his parents. Their 75-acre farm has a quota of 55,000 gallons plus a leased 45-acre farm and attached 14,000 gallons quota. They milk 64 cows, large for an Irish farm, and also raise beef (64 animals and 47 calves) plus 17 replacement heifers.

Seamus O'Grady (left), Irish dairy farmer hosted Ida and Allen Risser, Leola, on a tour of his 150-acre farm in County Tipperary. O'Grady milks 80 cows, while the average Irish dairy farmer milks 23 cows on 55 acres. The Rissers, (Ida writes for Lancaster Farming), were among 28 dairy farmers and industry representatives from Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey who toured dairy farms and processing plants on the third annual spring dairy tour sponsored by the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council.

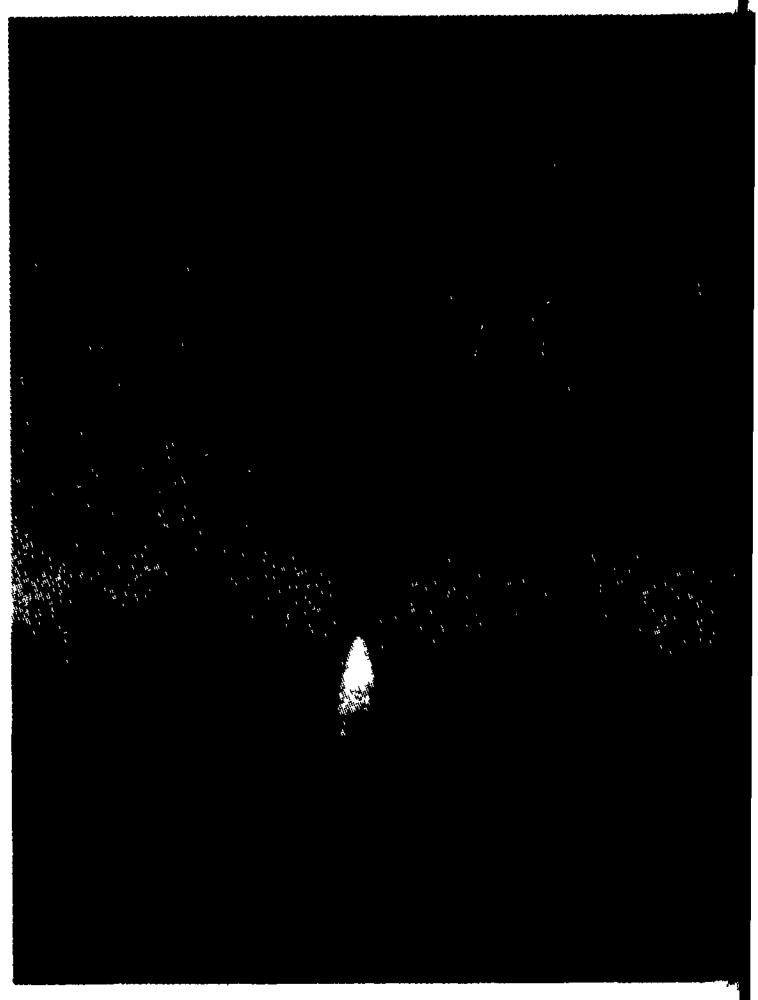
They ship their milk to the nearest large cooperative, Avonmore, and get the equivalent of $14.70/cwt. Some farmers may get as much as three to four dollars/cwt. more based on premiums for seasonality and other factors. This year, the Walshes fed as much as possible to their calves and pigs but still went over quota. They are not sure how much over quota they went because there is a pool of milk from those who were under quota called "flexi-milk" which may offset a portion of the Super Levy they will have to pay.

Another farm visited by the group was the Seamus O'Grady farm, in the heart of County Tipperary. He milks 80 cows on 150 acres with a quota of 76,000 gallons. Production last year was 11,680 lbs./cow with 3.72% average butterfat. He gets $15.10/cwt. from the Thurles Cooperative two miles away. He milks in a 10-unit herringbone milking parlour. He has 70 weanlings overwintered on silage and 70 calves reared on whole milk. Machinery includes a John Deere tractor, a silage grab, fertilizer spreader and slurry tanker. Two years ago his farm won an award for quality of milk, regularity of supply, yields, and good management.

The Thurles Cooperative where he ships milk paid as high as $21/cwt. for winter milk. They are a small but profitable 30-year-old cooperative with 200 members, 100 active. They make two-thirds of their money on fluid milk, one-third on supplies--feed, fencing, chemicals, etc. They market their fluid milk in a 20-mile radius of the plant.

Processing For Export

Dairy processing in Ireland is geared primarily to export as only about 30% of their production is processed for home use. About two-thirds of dairy exports are casein and caseinate ($300,000,000) especially to the



pared On Foreign Tour

U.S. Skimmed milk powder is distributed among the European Community (EC) countries.

The group toured Avonmore's milk processing plant in Ballyragget near Kilkenny which is the largest and most modern single processing plant in western Europe. It is owned by Avonmore cooperative's 11,000 shareholders. There are about 4,800 suppliers producing 140 million gallons of milk (Imperial gallon = 10 lbs.) or 1.4 billion lbs. annually.

Avonmore Foods, PLC (Public Limited Corp.) is a large multipurpose agribusiness with an annual turnover of 300 million pounds ($450 million). The dairy processing sector contributes about half of this annual figure. The remainder comes from its animal feed and fertilizer--they sell more fertilizer than any other organization in Ireland. They also have 46 retail branches, are developing a meat business, and hold shares in many other businesses, from insurance to oil distribution. The milk processing division now handles over 122 million gallons of milk and 80 million gallons of whey each year with a peak processing capacity in excess of 700,000 gallons of milk and 500,000 gallons of whey each day.

The 10-acre plant manufacturers cheese; butter and dairyspreads; casein and caseinate; and milk powders. Because of the seasonal unevenness of Irish milk production, the large Avonmore processing plant closes in November for about 12 weeks while channeling milk intake to a smaller plant. This saves labor and other operating costs.

The highest amount of milk is produced in May and June. Avonmore has "peak week" about the 3rd week of May when deliveries are 550,000 gallons/day. At this time about 300 additional seasonal workers are added to the usual 1400 employees; they are on three shifts. Surplus milk is sent by ferry to Scotland for processing, all within 36 hours.

Farmers are offered premiums for winter milk; but some farmers prefer to ease up around Christmas, so they dry off their cows to avoid having to pay higher feed costs during these winter months before the grazing comes in around March.

Because of the EC quota, the Ballyragget plant has had their input reduced over the past five years by about 14 million gallons (10%), which is one of the major reasons why Avonmore recently wanted to purchase the smaller Westmeath Coop. with about 13.5 million gallons of (quota) milk production/year. But they faced a private competitor, Food Industries--a giant in the meat industry--who outbid Avonmore. When Westmeath Coop. members voted, the results (55% to 45%) put the cooperative into private hands, which has put the future of the cooperative movement into question.

One important change at Avonmore is the reduction in making butter and the partial conversion to dairyspread manufacture. In 1984, Avonmore was making 140 tons of butter per day; five years later the plant is down to 90 tons of butter each day with these new products added: Avonmore Light Dairyspread, low fat dairyspread, and Golden Spread, a blend of butter and dairyspread. Butter is manufactured in 1/2 and 1 lb. packages and bulk packages of 25 kg. (55 lbs.)

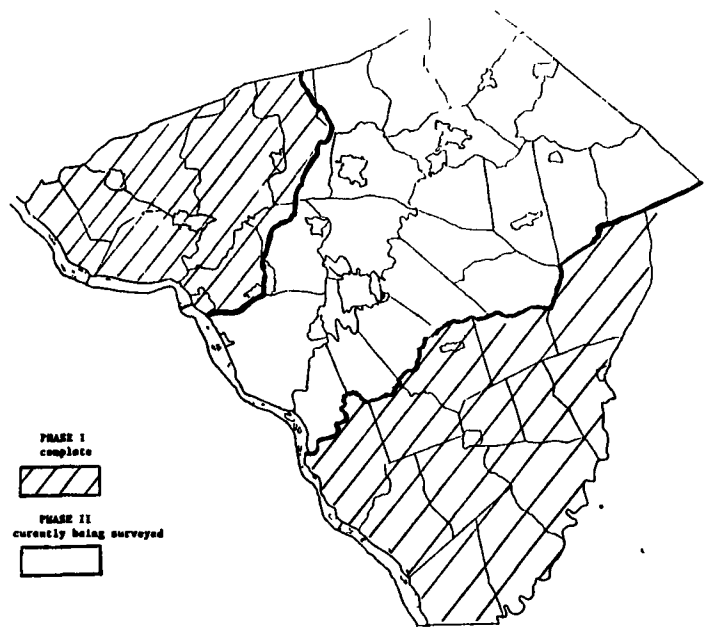
Nutrient Management Surveys Conducted In Conestoga Watershed

LANCASTER — The Lancaster Conservation District has begun conducting nutrient-management farm surveys in the Conestoga Watershed. The Conestoga Watershed area includes the north-east quarter of the county, plus all townships surrounding Lancaster City. The Conservation District already has subcontracted interviewers to collect information in the 20 townships of the Conestoga Watershed in May when weather does not permit corn planting, and throughout June. More than 600 farmers will be contacted for information related to water quality, and as to how they manage their manure and fertilizer applications.

The purpose of the survey is to get a better picture of nutrient balances based on manure in the various townships. The same information was collected in the other watersheds of Lancaster County for the Chesapeake Bay Assessment Project. In the Phase I report completed at the request of the Citizen's Advisory Committee of the Lancaster County Solid Waste Authority, it was found that there are a number of townships which do not have serious manure problems when the nutrient balance is based solely on the available manure nitrogen. The District is interested is seeing whether manure is a serious problem in any of the townships within the Conestoga Watershed. In 1982 the Lancaster Conservation District completed a "208 assessment" study that gave an idea of the magnitude of agricultural nonpoint source pollution. Unfortunately, the questionnaire used at that time did not gather all the information needed to make the detailed nutrient management calculations. With the increased emphasis on water quality, we can no longer generalize to come up with practical solutions. We need to know how various farmers manage their manure, and how the crops use the nutrients of the applied manure. Once we have the information and do the calculations for a representative sample of farms, we will have a better idea of whether a specific township has a serious problem with excess manure.

Approximately 20 percent of the farmers will be contacted in each township. Manor Township feels this type of study is important enough to justify having information collected for all farms in their township. The schedule shows that all field surveys are to be completed by the end of June, so the computer work can be done in time for the report to be released by the end of July. Anyone interested in obtaining more information about this survey should contact Gerald Heistand of the Lancaster County Conservation District at 299-5361.



The Lancaster County Conservation District has begun interviewing farmers in the Conestoga Watershed on their nutrient management practices. This is the second phase in a project initiated by the Citizen's Advisory Committee of the Lancaster County Solid Waste Authority.

Thompson Bull Acquired By Landmark Genetics

HUGHSON, CA — Fountain-Farm Queens RALPH-et, Reg. #2047227, a young Holstein bull bred by Harry E. & Aliene Thompson, Carlisle, has been selected for sampling in the young sire proving program of Landmark Genetics. His semen has just been released for use in herds on official DHIA test throughout the United States.

As a member of Landmark Genetics' "GO" (Genetic Opportunity) program, RALPH is undergoing thorough testing. He has successfully passed his health tests and the goal now is to get a minimum of 50 daughters milking in 40 herds across the U.S. for a high repeatability on his first proof.

Kevin Carhart, Regional Sire Analyst for the International, artificial breeding company, said, "We've selected this youngster because of his outstanding bloodlines."

RALPH is a son of Rotate, a sire known for big, rough, hard-working, high testing daughters, with wide muzzles and rumps.

RALPH's Excellent 92 point 2E dam has two records over 28,000M and two records over 1,000 Fat. RALPH's two exceptionally fine uddered dams are both Excellent in the Mammary.

RALPH's grandam is a big, fine 93 point 3E daughter of Jet Stream with four records over 22,500M and 800F. Her dam is a really fine 89 point Elevation daughter with lifetime credits of 109,520M 4.3% and 4,718F.

With the size, quality and udders of this maternal line you can expect RALPH to work hard to improve strength, stature, width and milk yield.

Semen from RALPH, according to Kevin Carhart, will be available for sampling in the "GO" herd program for the next 60 to 90 days.

and absence of scientific substantiation of its claims against the apple industry.

A report "Intolerable Risks: Pesticides in our Children's Food" was published by the National Resources Defense Council, an environmental group, in February of this year. In the report, the NRDC estimated the health risk to preschoolers during their first six years of life. It was on this report the "60 Minutes" segment was based.

In a letter to the executive producer of the show, Klechner stated on behalf of the AFB, "Before discussing some elements missing from your report, "I want to emphasize that the segment lacked balance and perspective--that is, what is the scientific community saying about the risks of pesticide residues on food? On March 1, the National Academy of Science's National Research Council, in its report on diet and health, said . . . 'there is no evidence that pesticides or natural toxins in food contribute significantly to cancer risk in the United States'".

"With specific reference to daminozide, the chemical used on apples, your report stated that the EPA had known since the early 1970s that it was a human carcinogen and had not taken action to remove it from use. In fact, in 1985 the EPA proposed cancellation, but the agency's own scientific advisory panel, which is independent and made up of prominent scientist, rejected the data gathered between 1973 and 1978 as invalid and unreliable. NRDC relied on this data for its report."

During the video conference, Schwartz criticized the NRDC report. Although the NRDC took a scientific approach to the issue, in the executive summary the council attempted to put their findings inappropriately into a "body count".

"It is very important to not translate computer generated numbers into body counts of children," Schwartz stated.

The NRDC and the resulting program resulted in a lot of publicity which has gotten consumers wrongly concerned, Klechner said during the conference. This concern has cost apple growers thousands of dollars.

What Klechner classified as "clearly a bogus situation" has cost the apply industry nearly $140 million. Klechner said all commodity farmers should be concerned about the publics' attention to pesticide use in agriculture.

"I'm afraid this is the first major battle of a prolonged war," said Klechner."Consumers are confused. Education is badly needed to bring the issue out of the emotional spotlight into a factual spotlight."

Keith Eckel, PFA president, speaking at the Camp Hill news conference which followed the airing of the video conference, said PFA was concerned because the situation establishes a dangerous precedent.

"PFA is concerned that arbitrarily any pesticide can be removed from use in the production of the most safe and wholesome food in the world based only on emotion, not fact," said Eckel.

He added that although the "60 Minutes" report lacked credibility, "the question was created in the minds of consumers".

Eckel noted that prior to the chemical and mechanical revolution in U.S. food production, one in three people were involved in agriculture. Today that figure is one in every 45 to 50 people.

"It would destroy the economic basis of our society if we had to move just 1/3 of our population into food production. Also, the Alar scare focuses attention on those areas of food production which affect the public health the least."

Eckel added the Alar scare is a miniscule supposed threat which diverts attention away from the main concerns of a healthful diet.

Dr. Manfred Kroger, professor of food science at Penn State University, chastised consumer agencies which "fan the fears of the public concern with improper data". Kroger added, the television program took a puny concept and blew it out of proportion.

He explained that pesticides are like anything else in the environment which are not harmful at low levels.

"A balmy wind blowing or a cup of coffee a day won't hurt us. But a hurricane or a pound of coffee a day can. The risks from low levels of Alar are totally nil, negligible, zero," said Kroger.

Kroger emphasized that although the public's concern was not warranted, for the most part consumers have lost faith in the country's food production industry and it's up to the agriculture industry to re-educate the public. And of the many nutritionists who helped to fan the fire of public concern over pesticide use, many have now taken a second look and are back on the band wagon to assuage the unfounded fears of consumers.

But a lot of nutritional damage has already been done, according to Kroger. And in the end it will be the consumers who lose a nutritional battle by deleting healthful fruits and vegetables from not only their diets, but also the diets of their children.

By fall, no Alar will be used by the nation's apple growers. The majority of producers have not used the growth regulator for several years. Pennsylvania growers stopped using the chemical in 1985 when the EPA began their study on the effects of Alar. However, Pennsylvania's apple growers have still suffered from the hysteria sweeping the country. Prices have dropped and continue to do so, according to Guy Donaldson, PFA vice-president and John Peters, both growers from Adams County, Pennsylvania, members of Monday's news conference.

Most of the public does not realize that UDMH, what the NRDC has identified as being a potential carcinogen, is not present unless the product is heated. Fresh apples do not contain UDMH. Pennsylvania's processors have not received apples treated with Alar in two years.

Soybean Farmer Honored

CENTREVILLE, MD — George O. Morris, a farmer from Centreville, has been named by the Mid-Atlantic Soybean Association and American Soybean Association as the winner of the DuPont Young Leader award.

The DuPont Young Leader award, now in its sixth year, honors soybean farmers in 26 states that are leaders on the farm and in the community. To be considered for the award, a farmer must apply his leadership skills to lend direction to the U.S. soybean industry.

The MASA participates in the leadership program to encourage young farmers to be actively involved in the association's activities around the state.

The runner-up was James L. Musser of Mt. Joy, Pa.

State winners receive an expense-paid trip for two to the 1989 Soybean Expo is Des Moines this summer, courtesy of DuPont, makers of Classic, Assure, Canopy, Preview and other soybean herbicides. Winners also receive an expense-paid trip to DuPont's headquarters in Delaware for a leadership training seminar in December. Runners-up will receive 50 acres of prescription weed control from DuPont.

Simmental Association Fills Education, Research Position

BOZEMAN, MT. — Bruce E. Cunningham has been named manager of education and research for the American Simmental Association (ASA).

Cunningham will receive his PhD in Animal Breeding and Genetics from Michigan State University (MSU) this month. His doctorate dissertation research involved the investigation of the existence of sire x dam breed interaction for birth weight and weaning weight in Simmental field data. While at MSU, Cunningham served as graduate student representative to the University Committee of Academic Policy and graduate student representative on the Department of Animal Science Computerization Committee.

A native of Tuttle, OK, Cunningham received his bachelor's in animal science from Oklahoma State University (OSU). He competed on the OSU Meats Judging Team, and subsequently served as an assistant coach of both the OSU and MSU meats judging teams.

"Bruce Cunningham will play a key staff support role," said ASA Executive Vice President Earl B. Peterson. "He'll be called on to interpret USDA and university research findings; to stay abreast of sophisticated modern sire evaluation techniques; to establish rapport with university scientific and teaching personnel; and to provide educational materials needed by the American Simmental Association membership."

"I am extremely grateful to have the opportunity to work for a progressive Association like ASA," said Cunningham. "ASA and its members have an outstanding image in the beef industry as breeders who embrace new ideas and methodology."

ASA is a national association dedicated to the enhancement of the Simmental and Simbrah cattle breeds. Association members include purebred cattle producers, seedstock suppliers, cow/calf operations and commercial feedlot operators. The Association works closely with individual state Simmental/Simbrah associations and is a member of the World Simmental Federation.

Youse as the vice president. Completing the 1989-90 slate will be: secretary, Pam Harrison; treasurer, Keith McGowan; reporter, Duane Stump; sentinel, Rodger Bashore; chaplain, Jeannie Seidel and Jr. advisor, Randy Balthaser.

Trophies were given in 22 contest areas with the Oley Valley chapter garnering five team and 12 individual awards closely followed by Twin Valley FFA with four team and 10 individual winners.

The following first place teams and individuals were honored: Agronomy, Oley, Jeremy Deysher; Land Judging, Oley, Scott Youse; Dairy Judging, Oley, Josh Pollack; Dairy Foods, Oley, Scott Youse; Pleasure Horse, Twin Valley, Carrissa Charron; Livestock Judging Oley, Tim Tothero; Wildlife, Twin Valley;, Steve Pavlesich; Forestry, Twin Valley, Steve Pavlesich; Meats, Oley, Jeremy Deysher; and Small Gas Engines, Twin Valley, Jason Trego.

A number of FFA'ers won individual contests including: Greenhand test, Jason Trego, Twin Valley; Chapter Farmer test, William Zuber, Conrad Weiser; Corn, Dean Wagner, Oley; Small Grains, Rodger Bashore, Oley; Interview, Marybeth Hassler, Twin Valley; Conservation Speaking contest, Jonathan Bickel, Conrad Weiser; Creed Speaking, Pam Klinger, Conrad Weiser; Extemporaneous Speaking contest, Steve Tice, Tulpehocken; Prepared Speaking Contest, Kirk Sattazahn, Conrad Weiser; Farm Management, Karen Fessler, Conrad Weiser; and Salesmanship, Brian Batdorf, Tulpehocken.

The Star Farmers and agribusinessmen from each chapter received a $50 saving bond. Chaper Star Farmers were as follows: Chris Blatt, Conrad Weiser; Marlin Musselman, Tulpehocken; Dennis Cooper, Kutztown; Marybeth Hassler, Twin Valley; David Epting, Hamburg; and Rodger Bashore, Oley Valley.

Three agribusinessmen were recognized: Daniel Nonnemaker, Twin Valley; John Kleinfelter, Conrad Weiser; and Jesse Dixon III, Hamburg.

All six chapters selected Star Greenhands including: Dale Stauffer and Harvey Krill III, Tulpehocken; Todd Rabenold, Kutztown; Margaret Yarmush, John Parsons and Kyle McVaugh, Twin Valley; Brenda Waits, Hamburg; Wendy Jesiolowski, Oley Valley; and Lorraine Gechter, Conrad Weiser.

Blossom Time

ful in regulating the growth of an apple since 1985.

"At that time," explains Wright, "The apple growers came under scrutiny by EPA over the use of Alar which was suspected of having traces of carcinogens. It was taken to the Scientific Advisory Council where a series of tests were undertaken. To this day, there has been no proof that Alar is harmful."

"But, then, Ralph Nader's group got in on the act and raised so much fuss that many of our markets would not accept apples if Alar was being used. So, most of us stopped using it completely in 1985."

"Then, last fall, it was determined that there are still processors and markets buying apples which have been sprayed with Alar and the hysteria began all over again. It's as though we are guilty until proven innocent."

"We have one group of apple growers saying we don't use Alar and one group admitting they do, but claim it is not harmful."

"As a result, the apple growers in America have had to spend more than a million and a half dollars trying to set the public straight. We as apple growers are not out to poison anyone."

"The unfortunate thing is that Alar is an excellent product and it has been shown by one scientist that on a scale of 1 to 1,000 your chances of getting cancer from this chemical would be about .01."

Alar would have been useful last summer when the hot, dry weather caused the apples to come on too quickly. "It would have been useful, but none of the apple growers on the Ridge used it," Wright says.

So far this spring, Wright thinks that things look pretty good for this apple season. "We've been getting a good bit of moisture and that will help even if it dries up later in the summer," Wright says.

There were a few cold nights recently which didn't do the apple blossoms a great deal of good, but at the same time, there was no major harm done in Bedford County.

"We will have some damage just from last year's drought and heat," Wright feels. "The new buds developing last year were affected by that severe weather. Therefore, the buds are not quite as strong as we would like."

The Wrights raise McIntosh, Cortland, Paula Reds, Red and Golden Delicious, Jonathan, Red Rome, Staymen, Red York, and a few Granny Smith apples. "There are growers who insist that the best Stayman apples in the world are grown at Chestnut Ridge," Wright comments.

The Ridge apples are marketed in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, and Harrisburg. Processing apples are sold in Adams County to Knouse Foods and Duffy-Mott.

"It's surprising to most people just how many apples are needed per season," Wright says. "Adams County grows five or six million bushels of apples each year. There are about 12 to 13 million bushel statewide. But Knouse Food uses 11 million bushels of apples just for their own apple products."

Among the newest apple products which have been selling well are the applesauces flavored with other fruits and the apple based pudding packs.

"I've heard that there is nothing you can do to an apple that will make it taste bad," Wright says. "Now, if we can just get the public to believe us when we say that we also feel there is nothing better for you than apples and we, as apple growers, are doing all we can to make the eating enjoyable and safe."

Farm Is A Farm--Forever

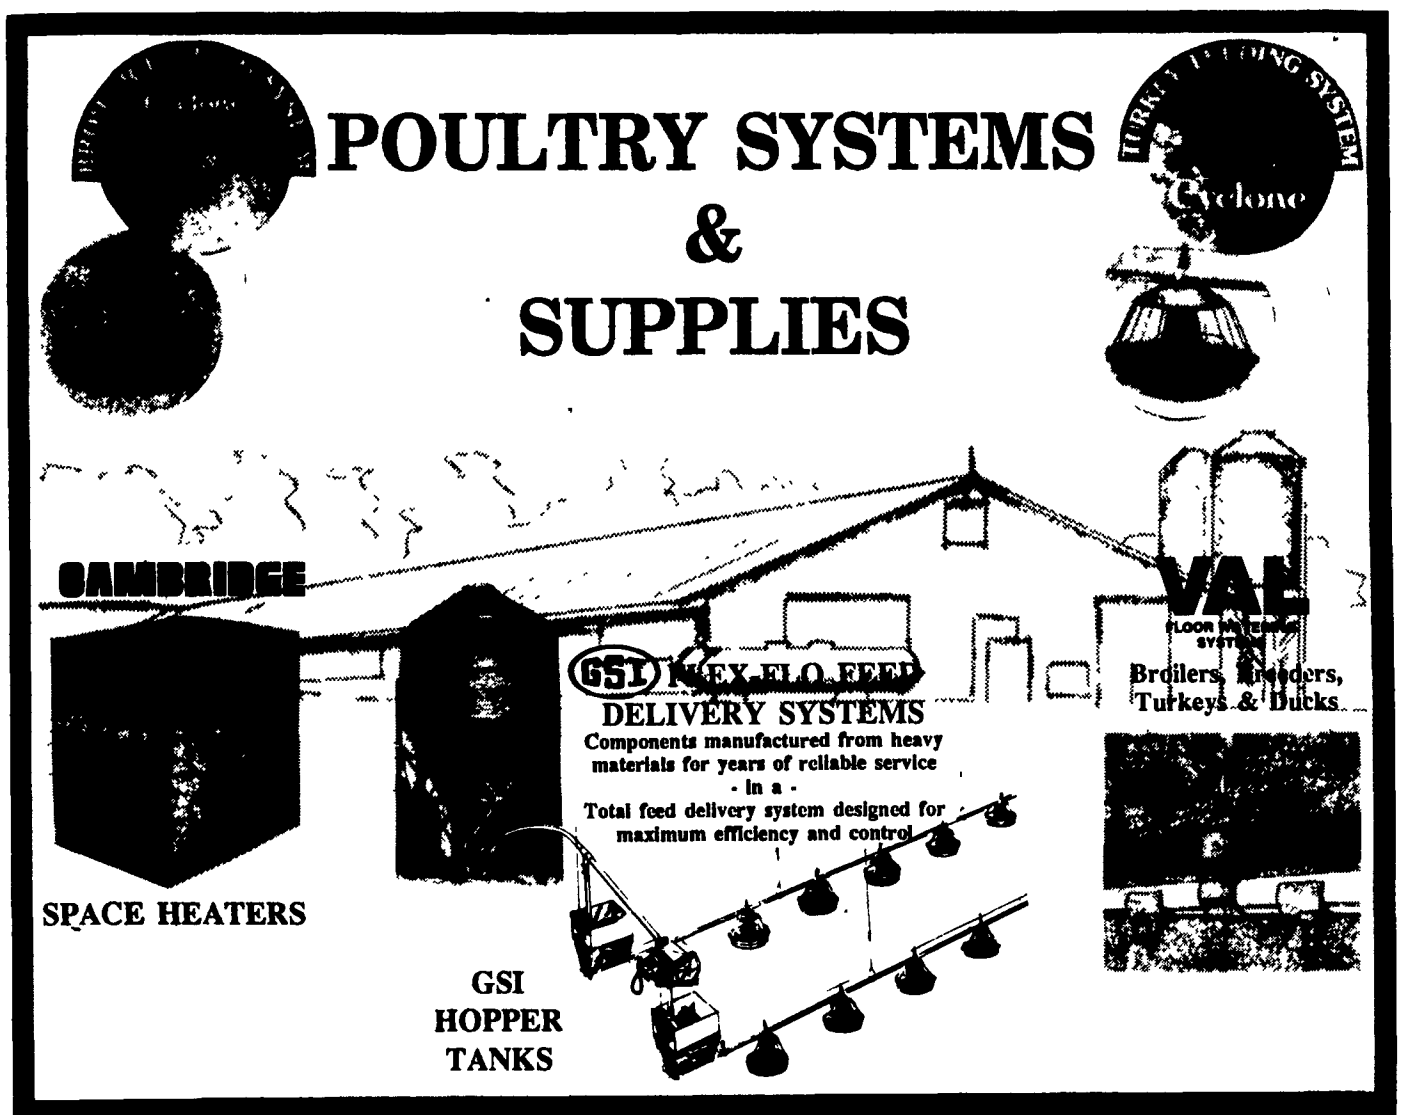
perpetuity, and the land will be "forever a farm." Mrs. Schantz seemed to be rejoicing over this fact as much as anyone gathered around the scrumptious buffet tables. Her love for the land and her love for early architecture and craftsmanship adds to her belief that the "earth is the Lords," and "we are stewards of the land." And she expresses a strong distaste for the loss of farmland to development. "There is no more land being created," said Mrs. Schantz. "And it's our duty to care for it."

The stone house and substantial barn were constructed of indigenous limestones not long after the signing of the U.S. Constitution. The original section, however, dates back to the 1750-1760 period. The conservation easements have been carefully drawn to provide for limited expansion and improvement of farming operations and for limited modernization of the historic buildings.

But it's Mrs. Mary M. Schantz's will that her 77 acre farm, situated in the path of expanding urban development, shall forever be a farm and shall retain its historic style and grace. And when you stand quietly with Mrs. Schantz on this shaded lawn on a cool evening in early spring surrounded by a poignant sense of deep rooted ties to earlier days, your mind's ear can almost hear the strains of joyous rejoicing of future generations too.



Educators Receive Deere Material

Over 15,000 vocational educators throughout the United States recently received information from John Deere concerning vocational educational materials.

Deere's catalogs outline over 30 vocational texts that feature more than 9,000 illustrations. In addition to the texts, there are additional teaching aids such as slide sets, workbooks, teacher guides, films, video tapes and computer programs.

All educational materials available from John Deere fall into three groups: Fundamentals of Service (FOS) related to mechanical technology, Fundamentals of Machine Operation (FMO) regarding agricultural machinery, and Farm Management Set dealing with general farm management principles. Two books outside of these categories are also available: Machinery Maintenance and Conservation Farming.

All information regarding these materials is available to the general public by contacting: Deere & Company, Service Publications, John Deere Road, Moline, IL 61265. Phone: 309-765-4757.

projects that protect the Chesapeake Bay.

In-depth tours also include urban gardens in Philadelphia, mushroom farms, Christmas tree farms, farmers' markets, a winery, a potato farm and a forest products manufacturer in Union County. More than just a sightseeing tour, faculty will spend part of their travel time in background seminars with Penn State Cooperative Extension staff who will discuss the impacts of various agricultural industries of that region.

"I wish we had had a program like this when I came to Penn State," says Dr. Richard Stinson, a professor of agricultural education and a member of the college faculty development committee. "It's important for faculty to have a feel for where their students come from and for the diversity of Pennsylvania's population and economy."

But aside from just getting to see a good cross section of the state, this tour has another purpose. "We would also like faculty to understand the relationships among their academic disciplines, the state's resources and its needs," says Thomson. In addition to encouraging faculty to explore connections between research and teaching and state needs, the college also would like faculty to explore areas that need cross disciplinary study.

According to Thomson, the College of Agriculture's faculty study tour is based on similar programs at the University of Wisconsin and the University of Georgia. It is supported by the College of Agriculture and its departments and will be offered every few years. Dr. Thomson also plans follow up seminars for this first group so other faculty can benefit from their impressions of the statewide classroom.

providing the test within the next 60 days. Equipment for running it was due to arrive at the group's State College laboratory by the end of the week.

The test is already on line in Virginia, according to Steve Frank, manager of the Virginia Federation of DHIAs' laboratory in Blacksburg. He said the service has been offered to DHI dairymen there since May 1.

In Maryland and West Virginia, DHI officials have not yet decided whether to offer the test, according to Bob Hope, manager of the Mid-East Milk Laboratory in Hagerstown, Md., which serves DHI dairymen in both states.

As an aid in fighting mastitis, DHI labs already are providing somatic cell counts on individual cows. The new test is different, however. It is more akin to the tests that herd-health veterinarians employ: laboratory culturing of milk samples from suspect cows.

Of course, the ProStaph test, which actually detects the antibodies that indicate the presence of Staph. aureus bacteria, is specific for just that one cause of mastitis. Culturing would still be necessary to pinpoint other causes. But the new test can be performed more quickly and cheaply than culturing, thereby making it easier for a farmer to screen his entire herd for the presence of Staph. aureus, according to DHI officials.

The ProStaph test uses the same two-ounce milk sample used to determine protein, butterfat, and somatic cell levels. It does not require a separate, sterile sample. In the lab, the test can be conducted in a matter of minutes. Clinical trials have shown it to be 96 percent accurate, according to ProScience officials.

It also is relatively cheap. In Virginia, the optional test is being offered for $2.65 a sample, Frank said. The Pennsylvania DHIA has not yet determined its price, but it will be under $3 a sample, according to Barth.

DHI groups have to buy new equipment to conduct the test, but the price tag is far lower than those associated with the equipment that measures protein, butterfat, and somatic cell levels. Frank said the equipment in place in Virginia cost about $12,000.

Moreover, DHI units that don't want to make this investment should be able to send samples to other labs, according to Phil Dukas, director of operations for National DHIA Services.

Local mastitis experts say the test should prove a boon to dairymen. Dr. Bob Peters, an Extension dairy specialist at the University of Maryland, said survey work has found Staph. aureus to be the most prevalent of the mastitis-causing organisms in Maryland herds. Contrary to the conventional wisdom of several years ago, new research suggests that the organism apparently can persist in subclinical form in cows that have somatic cell counts of less than 300,000 and in high-producing herds with no sign of clinical mastitis.

Because Staph. aureus is spread easily from cow to cow during milking, standard control strategies revolve around culling and segregation of infected animals in the milking string. This kind of mastitis does not respond well to antibiotic treatment during lactation, Peters noted.

DHI officials have offered some guidelines for how farmers should use the test. However, Dukas said, the major recommendation is to use it in consultation with a veterinarian. In Washington, where about 5,500 samples a month are currently being tested under a pilot program, various ways of using the results have emerged.

"The test represents a convenient, cost-effective way to track activity of this contagious organism," Dukas said, "and the local veterinarians in the Washington state program proved to be the key players in turning the results into an effective mastitis strategy."

One thing that shouldn't be necessary, Dukas added, is using the test on every cow every month.

National DHIA Services has been in business for three to four years marketing products such as eartags and progesterone kits, according to Dukas. However, the ProStaph test marks the first joint venture use of the heart of the DHI program: the milk sample collected by a nationwide network of herd testers. Further uses of the same sample are possible in the future.

"If the milk is already there," Dukas said, "what other factors can be tested for. In some cases, they're diseases. In other cases, they're things that affect production."

Farm Credit Bank Notes Improved Ag Economy

BALTIMORE, MD — The Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore and its affiliated Associations released operating statistics for the first quarter of 1989 that reflected improvement and growth in the mid-Atlantic region's farm economy.

The results, released today, show a 6.2 percent increase in loan volume. Total loan volume stood at $2.68 billion at March 31, up $157 million from the same period last year. Gene Swackhamer, president of the Bank, commented, "We are very pleased that our loan volume has shown such growth. Some of our newer, competitively priced loan packages are helping us to attract new customers." He continued, "In addition, economic expansion in the agricultural economy has spurred some of the increase."

Non-accrual loans, or loans on which no interest is being charged because of substantial credit weaknesses, decreased from $33.2 million (or 1.24 percent of the amount of loans) as of March 31, 1988 to 26.4 million (or .98 percent of the amount of loans) for the first quarter of this year. The decrease was attributed to an aggressive program of loan restructuring and an improving farm economy.

Net income stood at $14.5 million as of March 31, 1989, down from the March 31, 1988 figure of $22.6 million. Swackhamer noted, "We are not concerned over the drop in net income because in November 1988 the Bank fixed its lending rates to its affiliated Associations for the first quarter of 1989. Interest rates subsequently rose by over 1.5 percent. On April 1, 1989, the Bank's rates to Associations were adjusted to reflect current market conditions."

Swackhamer added, "Our increase in loan volume is ahead of our projections for the quarter and, if current growth trends continue, we expect to meet our year-end net earning goals."

First quarter delinquencies for 1989 on real estate loans were 4.2 percent of the number of loans, down from the March 31, 1988 level of 4.7 percent. Delinquencies as of March 31, 1989 on commercial (or short term) loans were 2.6 percent of the number of borrowers while the percentage for the same period in 1988 was 2.7.

The Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore and its affiliated Associations are currently providing loans and financial services to over 51,000 borrowers in Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

STOP HEAT STRESS FOR YOUR HOGS!

	HEAT STRESS	EDSTROM DRIP AND SPRAY COOLING
BREEDING BOARS	Heat stress allowed to continue for 72 hours in a boar reduces semen by 70% for up to 6 weeks. The empty crates in November are due to summer heat.	The national conception average is 70 to 80%. You can increase that by 10% with drip-cooling during breeding.
SOW DURING FARROWING	With heat stress during late gestation you can lose 4 or 5 pigs, and the live births will show a reduced weight.	Drip-cooling the sow reduces farrowing time and means 42% reduction in born dead. Birth weights will be 16% higher.
SOW AFTER FARROWING	Heat-stressed sows lose weight during lactation, reducing litter wean weight.	Less crushing of babies. Drip-cooled sows show 10% higher litter wean weights. Return to estrus on time.
GROWING/FINISHING PIGS	Heat-stressed pigs have inefficient feed to gain ratios	Spray-cooled pigs show a 34% faster gain on 10.6% less feed.

PA DHIA Elects Officers For New Term

At its board meeting on April 6, 1989 the Pennsylvania DHIA elected officers for the coming year. Elected president for the third year in a row was Clyde S. Robison of Washington County. Clyde, who manages a herd of registered Jerseys near Coal Center, PA with his son Robert, completed his 25th consecutive year as a director of PA DHIA at this meeting. The other officers elected were William Itle of Cambria County, Vice President, Frank Orner of Clearfield County, Secretary and Gary Truckenmiller of Northumberland County, Treasurer.

Bill Itle recently completed his first term on the board, being re-elected to a second term as a director from the Southwest District Association of PA DHIA. Bill is President of the Cambria County DHIA and is President of Highview, Inc. He operates a farm, jugging and retail sales operation with his father and brothers in Cresson, PA.

Frank Orner is serving in his second term as a director of PA DHIA and was originally elected to represent the members of the Northwest District Association of PA DHIA in 1985. He is a past president of Clearfield County DHIA which merged with PA DHIA on March 1, 1989. Frank operates a large family farm with a milking herd of 83 Holsteins near Rockton, PA.

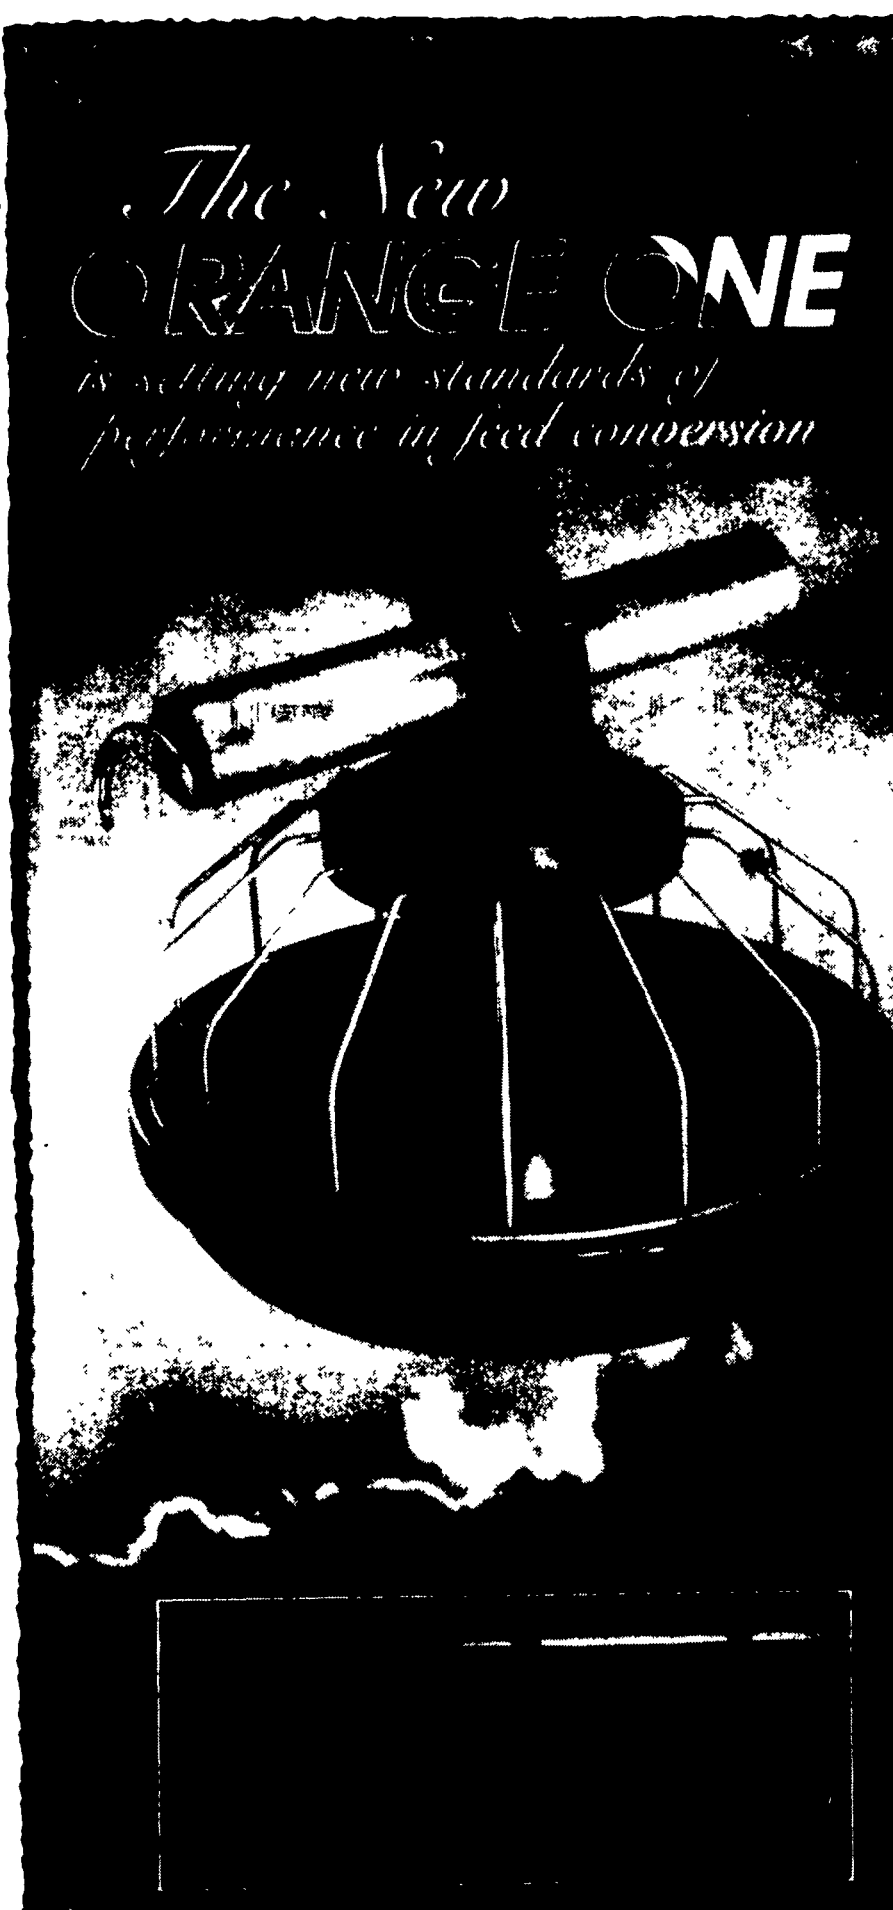
The New ORANGE ONE is setting new standards of performance in feed conversion



The results are excellent. We already hold the weight and feed conversion records for three major broiler companies. From start to finish, the New Orange One is rewriting the book on feed conversion.

The New Orange One is fully adjustable from "full flow" for starting baby chicks, to a "limited flow" as you finish your birds. It is unique in doing both well. At the same time we made it stronger, from top to bottom, so you can have the extra benefit of more rugged and reliable equipment.

Ask your Big Dutchman poultry equipment distributor about the New Orange One and how it can help you do your best.

PA Bred Bulls Enter Select Sires Proving Program

PLAIN CITY, OH — 7H3597 Brooks-Twain CASH-FLOW-Red-ET, a young sire bred by Walter Brooks, Springville, PA, and 7H3617 Highland-Farm Duncan-ET, a young sire bred by William Bryant, Honesdale, PA, have been chosen to enter Select Sires' Program for Genetic Advancement (PGA) sire sampling system. Based on their outstanding pedigrees, 7H3617 and CASH-FLOW have been selected as two of 160 Holstein bulls from throughout the United States to enter the program in 1989. In addition to being sampled through PGA Cooperator herds, CASH-FLOW has been selected as a Super Sampler. With this designation, he is also available to all interested Holstein breeders.

CASH-FLOW is sired by the high TPI red carrier, Enhancer. His dam is a Very Good (87) Tradition daughter with records to 31,932M with a 4.4% test and 1,397F. The next dam is a Very Good (87) GMD with a lifetime of 125,091M and a 4.1% test.

7H3617 is a Jesse son from a Very Good (86) Rotate. His dam has a 3-3 record of 22,262M and 831 of fat. The next dam is a Very Good (85) Wayne daughter with a 4-0 record of 22,528M and 725F. The third dam is a Very Good (88) Elevation with a 168,716M lifetime.

Select Sires is a family of 12 farmer-owned and controlled A.I. cooperatives, serving the largest number of co-op members in the United States. 7H980 Walkway Chief Mark, the most extraordinary type and production sire of the decade, is an example of the superior genetics Select Sires offers. These results assist the federation in achieving its basic objective - to supply livestock breeders with the industry's top genetics.

If Corn Is King, What About Sorghum?

BY GEORGE F.W. HAENLEIN
Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

NEWARK, DE — Corn used for grain, high-moisture-corn and silage have been a most convincing American success story for the past 30 years. No other crop comes close in yield per acre, especially when one considers the energy, or calories, supplied by corn.

No other crop has kept feeding costs for dairy cows as low. It's no wonder that corn has earned the nickname "King of Feeds" on dairy farms and possibly on other livestock farms, including poultry.

But corn has some shortcomings, too. Springtime, planting time, is the time to consider these shortcomings. Corn is low in protein. Corn silage cannot satisfy this nutrient need, even of low-producing cows, unless it is supplemented with extra protein from more expensive sources including soybean meal; brewers' grain; distillers' grain; and cottonseed; or cheaper sources such as alfalfa; grass; or small-grain silage; haylage and hay, if cut in the boot stage.

Interplanted legumes, such as soybeans in corn stands, or mixed harvests have succeeded in raising the protein of the forage 25 to 33 percent, to satisfactory levels. This is accomplished at a lower price than supplemental feedings. The drawback, of course, is that protein forages added to energy forages (corn) are extra field work.

Corn has some other drawbacks. It is not very drought resistant, and it has a narrow window at optimum harvest time. Perhaps we should consider sorghum as a safe and acceptable alternative to corn. We have done much research here at the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station with sorghum. As a grain alternative, it is even now becoming part of the poultry feeding program. As silage, it will outyield corn in tonnage and energy in droughty summers; and it has a much wider harvest window.

But sorghum has drawbacks, also. The white-seed varieties are notoriously popular with the hordes of blackbirds that plunder the crop before harvest. The bird-safe, black-seed varieties are not as nutritious for poultry because of the tannin content in the seeds. But for cows, tanning is not a great concern. However sorghum varieties, especially the tall ones, do not stand up as well as corn during late summer storms.

As for feeding dairy cows, sorghum silage is at least as palatable as corn because of its higher initial sugar content. Protein is at least as low as in corn, but fiber content is higher. Thus, a farmer with a low milkfat test because of fiber shortage in his ration would do well to feed sorghum silage. An additional plus is that sorghum does not contain the prussic acid poison that is present in sudangrass and sudex.

On the other hand, energy and digestibility are lower in sorghum than in corn silage, therefore more energy supplements are needed when feeding high-producing dairy cows.

You would think that with so many agronomic advantages of sorghum, the plant breeding geneticists should have come up with a sorghum variety by now that better rivals the nutrient content of corn, exceeds it in protein, or at the least is more bird-resistant. Until they do, corn is still king, but sorghum is the crown prince and heir to the throne, if a little more development work succeeds. In either case, dairy farmers will profit by including sorghum in their annual planting and feeding program.

Schenning Brothers Tops Harford DHIA

BY SUE CROW
Maryland Correspondent

LEMORY, MD — President David Keyes made the presentations to the top herds in milk and butterfat along with extension agent Brenda Holloway. The 43 herds made in Harford County have nearly 3,565 cows on test. The top herd in the county for milk production went to the Schenning Brothers with 20,727M 761F on 112 cows. My-Ladys-Manor-Farm took the award for top butterfat production on 181 cows with 20,399M and 808F.

State Holstein Assn. Lists Member Advantages

1. As a member of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, you are a part of one of the largest and most active state breed organizations in the country.

2. A full time six person staff is available to help you with almost every aspect of Holstein dairying. Staff attend numerous meetings annually to assist you. These include county meetings, workshops, and industry meetings. Annually, hundreds of members are visited by Association staff members. These visits include assistance in problem solving on registration, questions, herd evaluation, merchandising assistance, and advertising help.

3. As a member, you receive 5 issues of the Pennsylvania Holstein Profiles annually and the Farmshine newspaper on a weekly basis.

4. You can receive help in locating cattle to buy or get help in selling some of your animals. This can be accomplished through private-treaty sales or consignment sales sponsored by the state or county clubs.

5. As a member, you can participate in state sponsored shows. These include 5 Regional Shows, State Spring Show, and the Fall Championship Show. Staff members also assist with the Eastern National Holstein Show.

6. The top Holstein youth program is found in Pennsylvania. The activities and programs are designed to offer juniors increased opportunities for personal success. A diverse program that includes: Judging Schools, Trips, Contests, Awards and Recognition, and much more are available to junior Holstein breeders.

7. As a member, you have the opportunity to serve on various state committees that include: Sales, Show, Membership Activities, Program Development and Evaluation, Milk Promotion, Youth, Publication, Resolutions, and Finance.

8. The State Executive Committee, Board of Directors and staff represent the membership at a number of related industry activities. You are represented at the National level by two directors and 33 elected delegates. There are at least 11 other committees and boards that have PHA representation throughout the state.

You get all this and more for a base fee of $20.00. State Association memberships don't cost you money, they actually save you money. By being a State and National member you can save money on every calf you register. If you have two calves to register this year, you can save enough money by being a State and National member to pay your base fee of $20.00.

Possibly the most important membership benefit of all is the fact you can share your thoughts and concerns with other Holstein dairymen. You don't have to have a barn full of registered cows to take part and enjoy the fellowship that comes with being a member of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

For more information on becoming a Pennsylvania Holstein Association member, contact the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, 839 Benner Pike, State College, PA 16801 - 814-234-0364.

Seedway Employee Returns From Australia

HALL, NY — James J. Vizzard, Seedway sales representative serving the south eastern region of Pennsylvania, has recently returned to the United States after nine months in Australia.

Mr. Vizzard participated in an international extension program sponsored by "Communicating For Agriculture," a Minnesota based organization.

During his stay he worked for the Australian Revegetation Corporation which specializes in soil stabilization through the marketing of native and imported trees, shrubs, pasture grasses, and wildflowers. His duties as domestic marketing assistant allowed him to participate in Australian seed importing and exporting, as well as the domestic Australian seed business in general.

Rains Soak Pennsylvania's Farmland

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The rains of early May continued over most of the state during the week ending May 14, putting an end to the dry conditions that remained in some areas, the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service reported.

Throughout the state, topsoil moisture was rated adequate by 37 percent and surplus by 63 percent of PASS reporters. No one reported it as short, in contrast with two weeks earlier when 72 percent ranked soil conditions dry.

The survey of soil moisture by regions: northern, 38 percent adequate and 62 percent surplus; central, 44 percent adequate and 56 percent surplus; southern, 14 percent adequate and 86 percent surplus.

Seventy-three percent of the spring plowing was completed, compared with 84 percent last year. The five-year average was 80 percent. The completion rates by regions: northern, 61 percent; central, 78 percent; southern, 83 percent.

PASS issued the following report on crops:

CORN: Statewide, 17 percent of the corn acreage was planted, only 2 percent more than a week earlier. A year ago, 39 percent was planted and the five-year average was 43 percent. Growers were concerned that continued cool, wet weather might be detrimental to already planted seed.

OATS: By week's end, 81 percent of the crop was planted, compared with last year's 92 percent and the five-year average of 88 percent. The report by regions: northern, 70 percent; central 85 percent; and southern, 96 percent. The crop's condition was rated 17 percent excellent, 53 percent good, 24 percent fair and 6 percent poor.

POTATOES: The survey indicated that 53 percent of the potato acreage was planted. Last year's rate was 74 percent, and the five-year average was 70 percent.

BARLEY AND WHEAT: Statewide, 49 percent of the barley crop was listed in the pre-boot stage, 26 percent boot and 25 percent heading or headed. Last year, 45 percent was pre-boot, 28 percent boot and 27 percent heading or headed.

The wheat crop was estimated at 78 percent pre-boot and 22 percent boot, compared with 77 percent pre-boot and 23 percent boot a year ago. Statewide, 19 percent of the crop was rated in excellent condition, 52 percent good, 24 percent fair and 5 percent poor.

FRUIT: The PASS survey showed that 13 percent of the peach trees were in the pink stage of development, 12 percent pink and 75 percent full bloom or past. Last year's progress was 17 percent pre-pink, 15 percent pink and 68 percent full bloom or past.

Cherries were 16 percent pre-pink, 15 percent pink and 69 percent pink. A year earlier, they were 12 percent pre-pink, 18 percent pink, and 70 percent full bloom or past.

Apples were listed as 28 percent pre-pink; 28 percent pink and 44 percent full bloom or past. This compares with 1988 progress of 18 percent pre-pink, 26 percent pink and 56 percent full bloom or past.

HAY AND PASTURE: Forty-four percent of PASS reporters said alfalfa hay stands were in good condition, 52 percent rated stands fair, and 4 percent ranked them poor. Clover-timothy stands were rated good by 38 percent, fair by 59 percent and poor by 3 percent. The amount of feed being obtained from pastures was rated above average by 8 percent, average by 61 percent and below average by 31 percent.

Nationally, as of May 7, rain continued to slow fieldwork in the eastern Corn Belt and portions of the Southeast. Of the winter wheat acreage, 37 percent was headed, 7 points ahead of the five-year average. Corn planting was 43 percent completed, 8 points behind normal.

Spray a raincoat on your forage crops.

Growers and university research prove Nutri-Shield cuts forage losses and saves you money.

One lesson we all learned in 1988 is that a bale of alfalfa, or any other hay, is valuable enough to be protected Another thing we learned from forage growers coast-to-coast is that our product, Nutri-Shield, protects forage crops as well as three years of testing had already convinced us it would. In case you haven't yet tried Nutri-Shield, here's what it will do for you

1. Form a protective coat over your forage that repels water.
2. Retain more of the protein and TDN that is in your forage when it is harvested.
3. Preserve more of the nutritious alfalfa leaves.
4. Help keep your big round bales firm and round longer.
5. Inhibit mold and rot by shielding your forage crops from moisture.
6. Do the above for less money and labor than other methods.

Greenhouse Engineering For Optimum Crop Production

ITHACA, NY — operating a greenhouse that will provide an environment for optimum crop production and profit requires efficient planning, construction, and maintenance. Greenhouse Engineering contains eight detailed chapters targeted for those starting a greenhouse operation or those interested in improving operations and efficiency in current greenhousees. This 200-page authoritative text, written by extension specialists at the University of Connecticut, contains over 100 drawings of equipment and energy systems and over 60 tables of operational data.

Greenhouse Engineering first addresses the planning of an operation, including site selection, layout, assessment of utilities necessary, and types of growing systems available. A discussion of institutional greenhouses describes the different needs of schools, retirement centers, rehabilitation centers, and public facilities, including access for the handicapped.

The next chapter presents design and construction of greenhouses and related structures. A large section deals with materials and methods of construction, including foundations, floors, framing, and coverings. A thorough description of materials handling follows, including discussion of equipment selection for optimum efficiency in handling, shipping, and loading.

The greenhouse environment and its effects on plant growth are next introduced, followed by detailed sections regarding heating and cooling equipment, control systems, alarms and generators, lighting, watering systems, carbon dioxide enrichment, and media treatment. A discussion of environmental modifications also includes a description of pesticide application equipment and provisions for pesticide handling and storage.

A chapter on remodeling older greenhouses reviews the first six chapters of Greenhouse Engineering and discusses renovation in terms of economic and operational feasibility. The last chapter is devoted to energy conservation for greenhouses, presenting alternate fuel and energy systems, and is followed by an extensive energy conservation checklist.

Lastly, a large appendix includes references, construction companies, manufacturers of equipment and supplies, and sources of plans for greenhouse operators. Extensive tables and charts provide heating and cooling data, container capacities, labor and machine capacities, utility data, and conversion factors useful in calculations. A series of worksheets leads the reader through the planning of layout, storage, maintenance, labor, heating and cooling systems, and economics. A thorough index completes the text.

Greenhouse Engineering (NRAES—33) is available for $20.00 from the Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service. This price includes postage and handling; foreign orders must be prepaid in U.S. funds. Quantity discounts are available; also, ask about other greenhouse-related publications. Food Safety A Concern

MADISON, WI — "Our biggest problem is growing consumer concern about food safety," stated Mr. Edgar E. Fehnel, vice president, animal health - North America, Elanco Products Company, as he addressed the banquet attendees, as the keynote speaker at the annual meeting of Livestock Conservation Institute, held in Des Moines, Iowa, last month.

A large recent survey showed that consumers rank food safety, particularly in meat and dairy products, as one of their top concerns, according to Fehnel.

"Their top concern about meat is storage and freshness, but the next three concerns are all related to contamination. They worry about additives, hormones, preservatives, meat inspection, and other contamination. Along with these worries about food quality, consumers are worried about the treatment of animals used in food production," said Fehnel.

How can we reassure consumers that their food supply is safe? According to Fehnel, we need to give them safe food and inform them with the substantiation of that safety.

Founded in 1916, Livestock Conservation Institute is an international association made up of more than 170 agri-business and producer organizations encompassing several diverse segments of the livestock industry.

would hope that parents not limit the conversations with their children about drugs to just the illicit ones. For example, you do not directly mention alcohol, yet 100,000 deaths annually are attributed to its abuse in the United States. Not only is it the number-one killer of adolescents, but 31% of Lancaster County high school students report that they get drunk at least once a month, 8% at least once a week!

Because of our mission to conquer lung disease and to promote lung health, we feel it is important to call your attention to what the American Medical Association identifies as "our most deadly addictive drug:" nicotine. The U.S. Surgeon General's most recent report finds that tobacco is responsible for about one in six American deaths — amounting to an estimated 390,000 deaths every year.

The National Institute on Drug Abuse estimates that 67% of high school students have tried cigarettes at some time, and although Pennsylvania law supposedly restricts tobacco sales to individuals at least 16 years of age, regular daily smoking was initiated by 12% of high school seniors prior to the tenth grade. Fully half (51%) of high school seniors who smoke daily began smoking by the age of 14!

Finally, parents should remember the tobacco connection: An amazing 81% of tobacco smokers have tried marijuana, compared with 17% of nonsmokers, and the many users who smoke both marijuana and tobacco subject themselves to a far greater threat of lung disease.

Sometimes it's not easy to have a quiet conversation with your kids — particularly about drugs. But it's important, and we're one of many agencies here to help. For information on talking openly with your children about smoking, call your local Lung Association. That's one sure way to earn more than a blue ribbon.

A new look in spreader design.

More than 7 years ago, Hedlund/Martin introduced the Scavenger—a manure spreader based on an entirely new technology.

Gone were unreliable apron chains and "rooster comb" beaters. Gone were leaky endgates. Gone were the old-fashioned boxy shape. In their place—a unique patented square auger and side-discharge expeller reel. And with its welded Unibody construction, Scavenger looked like nothing before.

But even though it looked unusual, Scavenger worked. Scavenger proved itself where it counts—in the fields of farmers all across America.

And like all successful advances in technology, Scavenger invited a slew of competitors. Today, a wide variety of farm equipment manufacturers sell a Scavenger-like machine.

Unmatched performance.

While some of these look-alike units are perfectly adequate for certain manure-spreading application, none can match Scavenger's overall versatility. Scavenger spreads all kinds of manure—liquid, semi-solid, pen pack (even frozen)—all year 'round. In even spread patterns up to 50 feet. All in one machine.

So when you find it's time to purchase a new spreader, take a hard look at your choices. Don't be misled by spreaders that claim to do it all. Compare actual capabilities. We think you'll find your choice obvious. You'll choose the spreader with unmatched performance—Scavenger.

See for yourself.

For a firsthand look at Scavenger, see your local Hedlund/Martin dealer. Or write: Hedlund/Martin, Inc., A Gehl Company, 741 Kutztown Road, Myerstown, PA 17067. Telephone: 717-933-4151.

Scavenger's design and technology is covered by one or more of the following patents: U.S. 4,362,272; 4,467,967; 4,473,184; 4,479,608; Canadian 2,262,876; 1,161,468; 1,167,078.

Gaithers Lead Frederick and Montgomery DHIA

Maryland Correspondent

MIDWAY, MD — David and Brenda Gaither were the leaders for both counties in production on their 135 Holstein cows. Their herd in Frederick County was the top for milk, fat and protein with a record of 20,950M 798F 682P. Valecreek Farm had 91% of their cows in the low range of somatic cell count and were the top herd from both counties.

President Leon Enfield and extension agent Kenneth Wisner announced that the counties' herd averages were up this year over last year with an annual production of 16,010M 524P 591F on 17,191 cows in the 195 herds that comprise the two counties.

The top herd for Holsteins from Montgomery County was Savage-Leigh Farm. Their 142 cows averaged 18,652M 678F. The top herd for Guernsey from Frederick went to O. Clayton Smith. Their nine cows had an average production of 12,640M 554F which also was the top herd for butterfat.

In Montgomery County it went to Bill Slater and Sons with 13,550M 599F on 10 cows. Homestead Farms was the top Ayrshire herd in Frederick for milk and fat with 11,700M 473F. Seneca Ayr Farm was the leader in Montgomery on 49 cows with a record of 12,761M 485F.

In the Brown Swiss breed the top herd for Frederick was Long View Farm with a record of 16,114M 636F on 34 cows. In Montgomery County the top herd was Rudell Beall and Sons with a record on 19 cows of 14,402M 602F. The two top herds for Jerseys in both counties were Glenn Beard from Frederick and Flag Valley Farm from Montgomery. Their records were 11,519M 516F and 12,545M 573F respectively.

The following is a listing of the top herds by breed and age for milk, butterfat and protein production.

Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf Sale Is A Success

FREDERICK, MD — Sponsored by the MD-DE Brown Swiss Breeders Association, the Mid-Atlantic Calf Sale was held at the Frederick Fairgrounds on Saturday, April 29, 1989. Although it was a dreary day outside, the rain did not dampen the bidding inside as 17 head, ranging in age from 5 weeks to 10 months, sold for an average of $966.47.

The Sale Committee, consisting of Harold Long, Howard Fleming, and Webber Bell did an excellent job of selecting consignments for this years sale. Auctioneer Wayne Sliker, noted Brown Swiss breeder, commented on the quality of animals and pedigrees that come out of the Mid-Atlantic Calf Sale each year.

The top selling animal of the 1989 Calf Sale was Meadow Hill Jupitor Cory, consigned by Gary Mase, Lebanon, PA. At the final bang of the gavel, she was sold for $1540 to Jeremy McDonald, Stephens City, VA. The second high selling animal was consigned by Dwayne Bell, Westminster, MD. Bell's Dotson Kristy-twin was purchased by Kimberly Fleming, Hollywood, MD for $1420. Brandi McDonald, Stephens City, VA put the final bid of $1400 on the third high selling animal. Dear Heart Bell's Darling was consigned by Dawn Bell Raver.

A Fun-Auction was held to benefit the Junior Brown Swiss Association. Donated items from area businesses and friends netted the Juniors nearly $300 that will be used for activities.

Leadspersons for the Calf Sale were Junior members: Mark Valentine, Jennifer Keilholtz, Michelle Harbaugh, Amanda Valentine, Chris Birch, Robbie Bassler, and Chris Cogan. The MD-DE Association would like to thank everyone involved with making this a successful Calf Sale.

The remaining animals were sold as follows:

Brookedale, Dayton Share Top DHIA Honors

Maryland Correspondent

CUMBERLAND, MD — Chairman Neal Cessna and extension agent Karen Holloway presented the top production awards in protein and butterfat to Brookedale Holsteins with Calvin and Philip Dayton taking the honors for top in milk. The Brookedale herd had 16,957M 631F 548P. The average for the top herd in milk production was 17,420M 628F 548P. The Brookedale herd of Holsteins also had the lowest average somatic cell count with 123,000 and 84% of the cows were in the low somatic cell count group.

There were many herds with cows averaging over 100,000 pounds of milk. The Brookedale herd had the most cows which produced over 150,000 pounds of milk and at least 5,000 pounds of butterfat with five. Leaning Pine Farm and C and P Dayton both had 2 cows in this range with Richard Evans having one.

The following is a list of cows top in their age group for milk production.

2 year old: Cessna Brothers - 19,950M 716F
3 year old: Brookedale Holstein - 23,630M 772F
4 year old: Evans - 28,340M 993F
5 year old: Evans - 25,950M 927F
Aged cow: Evans - 23,600M 836F

Restoring Old John Deere Tractors Is Family Hobby

BY RANDY WELLS
Indiana Co. Correspondent

KITTANNING (Armstrong Co.) — As his son Dan was sliding the last of $20 worth of decals onto the shiny new green paint, Bob Heilman pointed out one of the trivias of his hobby: On the modern-day models, the stag on the decal is a perfect silhouette, only two legs are visible. But on the decals of the great old models, you can see all the legs of the leaping buck.

At the Heilman homestead near Kittanning in Armstrong County, the family hobby is collecting and restoring old John Deere tractors. And the knowledge of the old tractors among the three generations of Heilman men runs a lot deeper than the decals. They currently own 60 of them. And they don't even have a farm.

Bob, 58, is a millwright at the Allegheny Ludlum steel plant in West Leechburg. His son Dan, 37, is an electrician for West Penn Power. Dan's son Lee, 15, is a sophomore at Elderton High School. Bob said his father ran John Deeres for years when he was a kid, but the Heilmans didn't get into the hobby in a big way until about four years ago. With the placement of the decals as the finishing touch on their latest project, a 1937A, they are ready to begin work on their sixth restoration.

The proper restoration of an old John Deere, and the Heilmans place a lot of emphasis on the word proper, can require as many as 1,000 hours of labor and perhaps $2,000 to $3,000, Bob said.

But the rejuvenation of the old green tractors is not a business for them, it is truly a hobby. According to Bob they haven't sold any of their restored John Deeres, and they don't really plan to. For them, the enjoyment is in the restoring, the appreciation.

And in the finding.

"We've bought more of them off local people than at sales," Rob said. "There's too much competition at sales, and friends of ours watch for them."

While many of their rusty prizes have come from neighboring farms just down the road, the Heilmans also have traveled to Maryland and Indiana to acquire specimens. Sometimes an old John Deere can't be bought at any price. Some of them hold too much sentimental value for their owners, Bob said, and sometimes there's some jealousy involved.

"Sometimes the owners are afraid you'll make a buck on them," he said. "But to restore them right, you can't make any money. There's too much time and money involved."

In addition to the 1937A, they also have restored a 1935B, a 1949A, and a 1950G, which they enter occasionally in local pulling contests. The oldest tractor they have on hand now is a 1927D, while the newest model awaiting restoration is a 1960, the last year of JDs with two-cylinder engines. Also in their collection is a rare 1942BO orchard tractor.

The less powerful B models are the most common variety around western Pennsylvania, Bob said, probably because of the smaller farms that are common there.

As in any other antique-collecting hobby, knowing what you're looking for is very important. One man's junk John Deere is another man's major find. "Sometimes you can buy an old clunker, sell three parts and get your money back," Bob said. "One guy might say, 'You paid $1,000 for that?', and the next guy might say, 'You only paid $1,000 for that? I'll give you $2,000!'"

A round-spoke front wheel for some of the old tractors still commands as much as $200 to $300, he said.

Once the clunker is back in the Heilman's well-equipped workshop, the restoration process often begins with a putty knife and a tub of gasoline -- scraping off an inch of 40-year-old grease and rust. A steam jenny is high on the list of future purchases for the workshop.

Then the tractor is completely disassembled. "Not any two things are left bolted together," Rob said. The parts are sand blasted, and a decision made on which ones will have to be replaced.

"John Deere is excllent on that end of it," Dan said. "Seventy-five percent of the parts are still available." He credits Miller Equipment in Fairmont City, Clarion County, with being able to locate many of the needed parts. But sometimes really old parts, such as the main bearings for a 1939G Bob now is looking for, are found only on other old tractors. So in a lot outside the workshop is the Heilman's John Deere graveyard, a collection of 12 or 15 JDs reduced to skeletons after being cannibalized for usable parts.

To protect and preserve valuable rare parts, such as crankshaft bearings, Bob said they often don't even try to start old tractors that have been idle for years. They first tear them down to retrieve whatever might be usable. The parts then are given two coats of paint, the tractor is reassembled and tested, and finally two more coats of paint are applied.

The Heilmans are member of the Two-Cylinder Club, a group of John Deere enthusiasts across the country. Dan said he knows some other tractor collectors in the Armstrong County area, but none an involved as his family. And more enthusiasts seem to be collectors of John Deeres than other makes, he said, possibly in part because of the old tractors' distinctive putt-putt sound.

One of the Heilmans' rarest tractors awaiting restoration is a 1930 GP, which they purchased in Maryland.

They haven't entered any of the restored tractors in competition, but they have attended such events, and Dan said he really hasn't seen any he considers to be as good as the ones they produce.

If they do decide to sell any of their restored pieces, Bob said the best place to take them would be to some of the southern states, where restored tractors bring top dollar.

Bob said he plans to retire from the steel mill in a couple of years, and will then have time to really get serious about the old tractors. But for the time being, it's just a pleasant way to spend some evenings each week with his son and grandson.

"It's a family affair," he said. "We've got three generations involved. Maybe four someday."

As a finishing touch, Dan applies a decal to a tractor.

Have You Heard?

By Doris Thomas

Lancaster Extension Home Economist

Are Your Important Papers Safe?

One way to be better prepared for a fire or other disaster is to make sure your family's important papers -- especially those that are difficult to replace -- are safely stored.

A good rule to follow is to keep legal documents and any other papers that are difficult to replace or duplicate in a safe deposit box.

Documents that should be secured in a safe deposit box include your auto title and bill of sale, birth certificates and marriage and divorce records, government securities, corporate securities, insurance policies, mortgages, property and real estate papers, and for Pennsylvanians, the original copy of your will.

Choose a safe deposit box in a commercial bank that's close to your home, offers convenient business hours and provides maximum protection from fire and theft. These boxes are easy to rent and cost $10 to $50 per year, depending on their size. Owners are given two keys to their box and can open it any time during the bank's business hours.

While the contents of a safe deposit box are not insured by Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC), many homeowner's insurance policies provide coverage for the contents of a box.

Cleaning Up After A Fire

After a house fire you may be tempted to throw everything out and start over. But don't be hasty - most draperies, clothing and upholstery can be saved.

Most insurance policies cover the cost of professional dry cleaning and your dry cleaner may be able to recommend firms that can deodorize furniture and clean mattresses.

Often these are greasy kinds of residues, and these are hard to clean.

If you insurance doesn't pay for dry cleaning, however, you can clean much of your fabric by yourself with some extra effort. The only fabrics that must go to a dry cleaner are wool, silk and rayon.

Other fabrics should be soaked overnight in a mixture of one cup of automatic dishwasher detergent to one gallon of warm water. They should be totally submerged in the mixture in an enameled container such as the washing machine tub or an enamel bathroom or kitchen sink. The next day, drain and launder them as usual.

Take care using the detergent mixture. Don't let it near your eyes. If you plan to treat several loads of wash this way, wear protective plastic gloves.

Items that cannot be laundered, such as upholstery, can be scrubbed with a disinfectant solution. Liquid chlorine bleach, diluted as recommended on the container is effective and safe for all fibers except wool and silk. Scrub the items thoroughly and be sure to get into corners and crevices. Let dry completely.

Never combine two or more household cleaning products. Chlorine bleach and ammonia, for example, combine to form an irritating gas that could be poisonous. If a cleaning product contains ammonia, it will say so on the label. Look for the words sodium hypochlorite or statements such as "chlorinated," "contains bleach" or "bleaches as it cleans." Scouring powder often contains a chlorine-type bleach, and should not be used with ammonia.

To get rid of a general burnt odor, try placing small dishes of pure vanilla extract (not imitation vanilla), wine vinegar or activated charcoal around the house. Any of these will help absorb odors.

Even if your cleaning efforts fail in some cases, they are a show of good faith to your insurance company and may help in the final settlement.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

There are none so blind as those who do not see.

That thought summarizes my feeling of sadness for years lost in not pursuing an interest which has become very special to the Farmer and me. I sometimes feel regret at all that time missed in enjoyment of a special kind of natural beauty just outside the doorstep.

In the words of the youngest, we have become "birdbrains."

Rarely a week goes by that the most used book in our farmhouse (excluding the checkbook, of course!) isn't yanked from the bookshelf and studied. And, since the searching hands often come direct from the grease, grime and dust of field machinery or gardening, our FIELD GUIDE TO THE BIRDS EAST OF THE ROCKIES, by Roger Tory Peterson, is soiled and dog-eared from loving use.

Pursuit of this hobby has infiltrated our every trip between house and barn, fieldwork, and pleasure jaunts. Sounds of an unfamiliar bird song or the flash of feathers not immediately identifiable affer a constant challenge to learn more.

Sunday afternoon drives are invariably accompanied by two pairs of field glasses, Mr. Peterson's works, and a less dog-eared copy of BIRDS OF NORTH AMERICA. Rivers, lakes, parks, rural countryside, and our beloved meadow all offer abundant birdlife, just begging to be enjoyed for only the cost of our time.

An "I brake for birds" bumper sticker needs to go on our little car, not as a statement of philosophy, but a safety warning to other motorists. That has become glaringly apparent in the wake of increasingly frequent sightings along busy highways of such bird notables as hawks and ospreys.

We take great personal pleasure - despite that fact that we had nothing whatsoever to do with it - in the environmental accomplishments that brought eagles back to the lower Susquehanna River and bluebirds and hawks into our own little meadow.

So we've made a move to give Mother Nature a helping hand.

Almost a year ago, the Farmer requested a bluebird house as a pattern to build a few more. Unable to lay hands on a bluebird house, I did pick up patterns and directions on building and locating them from our favorite local nature resource, Nixon County Park.

One chilly, late-winter Sunday afternoon, the Farmer disappeared into the shop with patterns and a supply of old odds-and-ends of barn lumber. Three hours and nineteen bluebird houses later, he ran out of raw materials.

Our Bluebird Trail is scattered pretty much from one end of the farm to the other, with a few of the houses visible from the back yard. Though sparrows promptly set up housekeeping in many of them, bluebirds eventually claimed at least two.

Last summer, we took great pride in the raising of one offspring by a pair of red-tailed hawks, nested high up in the meadow woodlot's tallest oak tree. It was thrilling to hear the hatchling's calls, watch the adults soar over the meadow with snakes dangling from their talons, and later glimpse the youngster on practice flights.

Recently, I spied a red-tail perched on the fence which runs along the edge of the heifer's pasture down in the meadow. The large predator bird was quietly sitting, not far from one of the bluebird houses.

Maybe it was just coincidental.

Maybe hawks don't even like bluebirds.

On the other hand, maybe we have a classic example of complicated environmental balance here in the making.

It is not uncommon for black snakes, I'm told, to slither up wooden fence posts, into bluebird houses, and prey upon the hatchlings.

I prefer to think that the hawk was not selecting from a buffet of bluebirds, but merely waiting to snag a snake for supper.

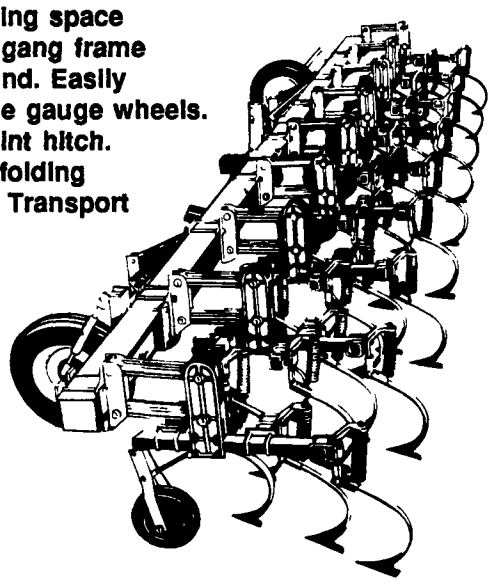
RO-CROP CULTIVATORS

ON THE MOVE.. IN THE 90's

NOT JUST ANOTHER CULTIVATOR

THIS HEFTY BRILLION "RO-CROP" CULTIVATOR has extra weight that other units don't have. Digs down... and stays down. Destroys deep-rooted weeds; doesn't dodge them. Four, six, eight and 12-row models. 30" or 40" row spacing. Non-twisting, high clearance shanks with 20" working space between gang frame and ground. Easily adjustable gauge wheels. Three point hitch. Rigid or folding toolbars. Transport kits.



THE EXCLUSIVE "NO WOBBLE" PARALLEL LINKS

One of the weaknesses of many cultivators is that the parallel linkage is light weight and bearing areas are small. All too soon the assembly starts to wear and break down. Brillion's NO WOBBLE links are made of cast iron (12 lbs. each). Each end is equipped with full 2" wide non-lube sleeve bearings.

The Brillion "S" tine cultivator (model BRS) with four-way tooth movement is designed for high speed cultivation, especially in conjunction with chemical weed control. The "S" tines also mulch the soil and level the ground for easier harvesting. Available in rigid and folding models for four to 12 rows.

Strawberry Delights For Fruit Lovers

As temperatures steadily become warmer and the world becomes lush and green, gardens relinquish one of its first fruits: the strawberry.

Red, succulent, and sweet, strawberries avidly are awaited, and often the first harvest doesn't even make it to the kitchen as hungry hands stuff them into open mouths.

Strawberries are great in desserts as well as alone. They can be dipped in sugar or chocolate for an elegant after-dinner treat or hidden between layers of pancakes for breakfast fun. And nothing can beat the taste of fresh frozen strawberries pulled from the freezer and served in cereal or over cake.

Readers have sent in their most scrumptious strawberry recipes. There's sure to be several to tempt any palate. Try one or try all, but while you cook and bake, be sure to pop a few fresh ones in your mouth!

Strawberries work well in desserts particularly if eaten with ice cream. Try making a meringue shell and filling it with vanilla ice cream and fresh strawberries and other fruits.

STRAWBERRIES BRULEE

6 ounces cream cheese, softened
1 cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 quart fresh strawberries
¼ cup packed brown sugar

In a bowl, beat cream cheese with electric mixer until fluffy. Add sour cream and 2 tablespoons brown sugar. Beat until smooth. Reserve one berry for garnish. Halve remaining berries and arrange evenly in bottom of shallow 8-inch round, broiler-safe dish. Spoon cream cheese mixture over berries. Sift remaining brown sugar evenly over cream cheese. Broil 4-5 inches from heat for 1-2 minutes or until sugar turns golden brown. Slice reserved berry and arrange on top of dessert. Serve immediately.

STRAWBERRY TAPIOCA

1 quart water
⅔ cup tapioca
1½ cups sugar
1 pint cream, whipped or vanilla ice cream
1 quart crushed, sweetened strawberries

Boil water and tapioca until clear. Add sugar and let cool. Add whipped cream or ice cream and berries. Beat with a mixer.

STRAWBERRY CAKE

1 package white cake mix
½ cup water
4 unbeaten eggs
3 tablespoons flour
½ cup salad oil
1 package strawberry gelatin
½ cup frozen strawberries, thawed
¼ pound butter
1 pound confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup strawberries

Combine cake mix with water. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Stir in flour, salad oil, and gelatin. When blended, fold in strawberries. Pour into 13x7-inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes.

Cream butter and sugar. Add vanilla and berries. Spread over cake. Cool cake several hours in refrigerator before serving.

STRAWBERRY BAVARIAN CREAM

1 tablespoon lemon peel
1 pint strawberries, rinsed and hulled
½ cup strawberry preserves
½ cup sugar
1 envelop unflavored gelatin
¼ cup water
½ cup heavy cream

Place strawberries, preserves, sugar, and peel into blender. Cover and blend until smooth. Pour into medium bowl. In small pan, soften gelatin in water. Stir over low heat until it dissolves. Stir gelatin mixture into strawberry mixture and chill until it begins to thicken. Whip cream and fold into strawberry mixture. Spoon into serving dishes and chill until set.

STRAWBERRY YOGURT FONDUE

10 medium strawberries
3 tablespoons honey
4 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon vanilla
2 cups plain, unsweetened yogurt
6 cups assorted fruits, cut into ½-inch cubes

Wash and hull strawberries; crush with a fork or puree in blender. Combine strawberry pulp with honey, 1 tablespoon of lemon juice, and vanilla.

Fold into yogurt, blending well. Cover and refrigerate until chilled, 1 to 2 hours. Arrange fruit on serving platter and sprinkle with remaining lemon juice. At serving time, spear fruit cubes on skewers and dip into chilled yogurt mixture. Serves 6.

STRAWBERRY DELIGHT

1 large package strawberry gelatin
1 pint frozen strawberries
4 mashed bananas
1½ cups boiling water
1 can crushed pineapple
1 pint sour cream

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add frozen strawberries, pineapple, and bananas. Place half the mixture in the bottom of a dish and add the sour cream. Add remaining strawberry mixture. Refrigerate several hours.

FAIRY STRAWBERRY PUFFS

½ cup butter
1 cup boiling water
¼ teaspoon salt
4 large eggs
1 cup flour
2 cups miniature marshmallows
¼ cup sugar
1 cup sour cream
1 quart fresh strawberries

Add butter to boiling water and cook until butter melts. Add flour and salt, and stir vigorously until mixture forms a ball and leaves the sides of the pan. Remove from heat and cool slightly. Add the eggs, one at a time, beating after each one until smooth. Drop by heaping tablespoon onto a greased baking sheet, drops should be 3 inches apart. Bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes; reduce heat to 325 degrees and bake for 25 minutes. Cool on wire rack; split and remove webbing.

Combine marshmallows, sugar, and sour cream. Chill covered for several hours. Wash and hull the strawberries. Crush 2 cups berries and slice remaining ones, reserving eight for garnish. Fold the crushed and sliced berries into the sour cream mixture. Spoon about ¼ cup into each puff. Top with one tablespoon of filling and garnish with a whole berry. Serves 8 to 10.

Dairy

June is Dairy month. Send in a recipe using at least one dairy ingredient such as milk, butter, cheese, cream, and yogurt, and your name will be entered in a drawing to win a free cow.

Admittedly, these do not give milk, but local artists have created a variety of the bovine creatures to hang on your wall or set on a shelf. A towel, a note pad and a coffee mug featuring a cow will also be given away. A furry cow that actually walks, moos and wags its tail will delight young and old alike.

Only one recipe per family allowed. Be sure to include your name, address and phone number. We'd also enjoy hearing about you and your family. If you have a picture, include that also. Picture and write-up are not required to be eligible for the drawing. Entries must be postmarked by May 27.

Winners will be announced in the June 24 issue of Lancaster Farming. Send your recipe to Lou Ann Good, Lancaster Farming Dairy Drawing, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522.

ANSWER — Ruth Kuhns, Millmont, requested a recipe for a moist white cake made from scratch. Thanks to Marlene Martin, Wilma Lehman, Bernville, Patricia Haycock, Ruth Thomas, Lititz, and two anonymous readers for sharing their recipes.

Ice Water Cake

½ cup shortening
2 cups sugar
3½ cups cake flour
¾ teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon almond extract
1½ cups ice cold water
4 egg whites

Cream shortening. Add sugar gradually and beat until fluffy. Sift flour, baking powder, and salt. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with ice water and flavorings. Beat thoroughly after each addition. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into two 8-inch cake pans or a 9x13-inch pan. Bake in 350-degree oven for 30-40 minutes.

Quick White Cake

2½ cups flour
1⅔ cups sugar
⅔ cup shortening
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup sweet milk
4½ teaspoons baking powder
½ cup milk
5 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine first six ingredients. Add ½ cup milk and mix well for 2 minutes. Add egg whites; beat 2 more minutes and add vanilla.

Pour into cake pans. Bake 25 minutes in moderate oven. Freezes well.

Snowflake Cake

2¼ cups flour
4½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups sugar
½ cup shortening and butter
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 large egg whites, unbeaten

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour two 8-inch layer pans or a 9x13-inch oblong pan. Blend flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt. Add shortening, ⅔ cup milk, and vanilla. Beat 2 minutes, scraping the bowl frequently. Add remaining milk and egg whites. Beat 2 minutes. Pour into pans. Bake layers 30-35 minutes, oblong pan 35-40 minutes, or until cake tests done. Cool.

ANSWER — Ruth Nolt, Leola, requested recipes for using table bran. Thanks to D. Weaver, Ephrata, and Elizabeth Beilre, Paradise, for each sending one in.

Bran Bread

3 cups scalded milk
3 tablespoons oil
4 teaspoons salt
1 cup sugar
2 packages yeast
1 cup warm water
1 cup cold water
2 cups bran flakes
12 cups flour

Mix milk, oil, salt, and sugar. Dissolve yeast in warm water. Add cold water to milk mixture. Add bran, then yeast and flour. Let rise 2 hours, punch down, and let rise another 1 hour. Punch down and put into four loaf pans. Let rise 2 hours. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 minutes. Lower temperature to 325 degrees and bake for 20 minutes.

6-Weeks Bran Muffins

6 cups table bran or 1 box (15 ounces) raisin bran cereal
2 cups boiling water
1 cup melted shortening
3 cups sugar
4 eggs, beaten
1 quart buttermilk
5 cups flour
5 teaspoons baking soda
2 teaspoons salt
Dates, raisins, or chopped apples (optional)

Pour boiling water over 2 cups bran and let stand while assembling other ingredients. Mix in melted shortening. Mix remaining bran with sugar, eggs, and buttermilk. Sift flour, soda, and salt. Combine all ingredients. Bake for 20 minutes at 400 degrees. Makes 6 dozen.

This mixture keeps 6 weeks or more in the refrigerator. Bake as needed. Apples, dates, or raisins may be added at baking time.

ANSWER — A Mount Joy reader wanted to know how to freeze cauliflower that is not mushy when cooked. Thanks to Ruth Thomas, Lititz, for sharing her tips.

When blanching cauliflower, don't leave in the boiling water for more than a minute. Cool rapidly and drain well before packaging. When cooking frozen cauliflower, it should be partially thawed so the pieces will separate easily. Drop pieces into boiling water and cook to desired tenderness watching carefully. It doesn't take long to cook cauliflower.

ANSWER — Ruth Kuhns, Millmont, requested a recipe for batter-dipped onion rings. Thanks to Mrs. Stoltzfus, Leola, Barbara Randall, Holcomb, NY, and M. Cunfer, Lehighton, for sharing theirs.

Batter-Dipped Onion Rings

3-4 onions, sliced thin
1 egg
1 tablespoon milk
1 cup pancake mix

Separate onion rings and dip in egg mixed with milk. Dip rings in pancake mix and coat thoroughly. Deep fry to golden brown. Sprinkle with salt.

Deep-Fried Onion Rings

1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup milk
1 teaspoon melted butter
Onions, thinly sliced

Separate onion rings. Mix flour, baking powder, and salt. Mix egg yolks and milk. Beat egg whites; add with butter to milk mixture. Dip rings in egg mixture then flour mixture. Fry in deep fryer.

Strawberry Delights

STRAWBERRY CHIFFON SQUARES

⅓ cup butter
1½ cups crushed vanilla wafers (about 45)
1 (3-ounce) package strawberry gelatin
¾ cup boiling water
1 (14-ounce) can sweetened condensed milk
10 ounces frozen strawberries in syrup, thawed
4 cups miniature marshmallows
1 cup whipped cream

In a small saucepan, melt butter; stir in the crushed wafers. Pat firmly on bottom of 11x7-inch baking dish. Chill. In a large bowl, dissolve gelatin in boiling water; stir in sweetened condensed milk and undrained strawberries. Fold in marshmallows and whipped cream. Pour on top of crushed wafers. Chill two hours or until set. If desired, garnish with whipped cream and fresh strawberries.

STRAWBERRY CHEESE PIE

9-inch graham cracker crust or baked pastry shell
8 ounces cream cheese, softened
14-ounce can sweetened condensed milk
⅓ cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 quart fresh strawberries, cleaned and hulled
16 ounces strawberry glaze

In a large mixer bowl, beat cheese until fluffy. Stir in milk, lemon juice, and vanilla. Pour into prepared pie crust. Chill three hours or until set. Top with strawberries and desired amount of glaze.

To make graham cracker crust: Combine 1½ cups graham cracker crumbs, ½ cup softened butter, and ⅓ cup confectioners' sugar. Press firmly into pie pan.

JUNE DAIRY MONTH · MILK · REAL · A GOLD MEDAL WINNER

ANSWER — Mary Wingert, New Bloomfield, requested a recipe for Kentucy fried chicken. Thanks to a reader who says that the recipe came from relatives in Kentucky.

Kentucky Fried Chicken

1 whole chicken, cut up
1 cup flour
1 tablespoon oregano
1 tablespoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon black pepper
1 teaspoon salt or onion salt
2 tablespoons parsley, finely chopped
1 egg
2-3 tablespoons milk.

Wash and dry chicken parts. Combine flour, oregano, salts, pepper, and parsley. Mix egg and milk. Place chicken parts in egg mixture and coat well. Place flour mixture in a bag and put chicken pieces in, one at a time. Shake to coat. Deep fry in oil or shortening until done, approximately 40 minutes.

ANSWER — Fran Beale of Loveville, MD, requested a a recipe for canned pizza sauce. Thanks to Helen Miller, Mrs. Christ King, Kinzers, Mrs. Stoltzfus, Leola, Ruth Thomas, Lititz, and an anonymous reader for sharing theirs.

Pizza Sauce

1 basket tomatoes, quartered
5 large onions, chopped and browned in ½ cup oil
5 large cans tomato paste
½ cup plus 2 tablespoons parsley flakes
5 teaspoons basil
5 teaspoons oregano
2 tablespoons thyme
5 teaspoons garlic salt
5 teaspoons onion salt
5 teaspoons salt
1 cup brown sugar (more or less according to taste)
1 tablespoon pepper

Put tomatoes in blender until they are juice. Cook approximately 1½ to 2 hours. Add remaining ingredients. Cook an additional hour. Put in jars and seal. Cold pack for 15 minutes.

Canned Pizza Sauce

2 onions, chopped
3 quarts tomato juice
4 tablespoons salad oil
2 tablespoons garlic salt
2 tablespoons chili powder
1½ -2 tablespoons oregano
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons sugar (more may be added according to taste)
Dash pepper

Brown onion in oil. Add salts, then remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil and simmer 20 minutes. Thicken with Clear Jell. Makes 7 pints.

Pizza Sauce

6 quarts tomato juice
3 green peppers, chopped
4 onions, chopped
3 (18-ounce) cans tomato paste
2 cups catsup
2 tablespoons oregano
2 teaspoons garlic powder
2 tablespoons salt
1 tablespoon pepper
½ cup granulated sugar

Brown onions and peppers in ⅓ cup oil.

Add remaining ingredients. Simmer for 4 hours or until desired thickness. Stir occasionally. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

Swap Your Skills For Training

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Are you interested in increasing and updating your clothing and textiles knowledge, increasing your consumer skills or learning about starting a home sewing business? Would you be willing to share your skills with others in return for training? If so, then you may be interested in the Clothing and Textiles Master Volunteer Program being offered by Penn State Cooperative Extension. This is a newly updated program designed to educate skilled hobbyists and professionals on the latest advances in the clothing and textiles field. It also provides an opportunity to support extension's educational programs in your community.

Clothing and Textiles Masters are volunteers who are trained by professional extension staff and resource persons. In exchange for approximately thirty hours of training, the Clothing and Textiles Master "pays back" forty hours of volunteer time to extension in their respective county within one year. Volunteers may spend their time performing a variety of tasks such as working with 4-H clothing leaders, planning related clothing activities, recruiting other volunteers and teaching adult or youth workshops.

Each person taking the course will receive up-to-date, in-depth and hands-on training and information in the field of clothing and textiles. This year participants may opt to specialize in one of two areas: home furnishings or clothing for special needs. Home furnishings topics include: window treatments, home accessories, and carpets. Clothing for special needs will cover physical problems, special patterns and altering ready-to-wear. In addition, updates on fabrics and fibers, products and notions, teaching techniques and planning a program will also be featured. The training also includes a special segment on starting a home sewing business.

For further information or to apply for the Master Volunteer Program, contact Michelle S. Rodgers at Berks County Extension, Berks County Ag Center, P.O. Box 520, Leesport, PA 19533 or call 378-1327 for a program application. Applications are due in to the County Extension Office by August 1, 1989.

Taming Our Fear of Predators

National Wildlife Magazine

Ever since the Massachusetts Bay Colony began paying a bounty on wolves in 1630, we've poisoned predators, shot them, and trapped them at every opportunity. In the 1930s, wolves and cougars were being shot and poisoned throughout our national parks. Between 1917 and 1952, Alaska paid bounties on 128,273 bald eagles.

In the past two decades, however, something has happened, according to National Wildlife magazine. As a nation, we have generally gome from persecuting predators to encouraging their survival, from loathing them to, in many cases, loving them. Conservationists can only cheer this long-overdue change in public perception and policy.

To biologists, a predator is an animal that kills and eats other animals. That definition encompasses an enormous number of species, including most birds, frogs, and even sponges. Cotton rats, which prey on quail eggs, are predators. So are people, although most of us ordinarily leave the killing to others.

To many nonscientists, however, predation implies tooth and claw, blood and terror. Predators are the creatures from our nightmares that can terrorize people, menace children, and devour livestock. Instead of songbirds we think of the large carnivores -- wolves, mountain lions, grizzly bears, and eagles. Not so long ago these creatures were considered harmful, if not downright evil.

By the sixteenth century, any flesh-eating creature that competed with European fishermen, falconers, or gamekeepers had a price on its head. In England, bounties were placed on crows, hawks, cormorants, mergansers, kingfishers, weasels, wildcats, and other "ravening birds and vermin." Over time in western culture, predators acquired, through folk tales and fables, a reputation for greed, cunning, and viciousness.

Europeans brought this heritage to the New World, and the attitude stuck. By the mid-twentieth century, bounties and poisons had exacted a heavy toll on some species. Timber wolves disappeared from all states except Alaska and Minnesota. The red wolf was gone from the Southeast, and the Mexican wolf no longer roamed the southwestern states. Grizzlies, once widely distributed, were confined to parts of Montana, Wyoming, and Idaho. Where poison baits were left, chiefly in the West, ferrets, martens, fishers, and badgers faded from the landscape.

Only in the 1930s did scientists begin to look closely at predators. Eventually, many authorities concluded that not only did predators have a legitimate place in nature -- they were an essential part of it.

A dramatic example of what happens when predators are eliminated from the environment occurred with the deer population of Arizona's Kaibob Plateau, which was set aside as a game preserve in 1906. Government authorities killed mountain lions, wolves, coyotes, and eagles in a misguided effort to protect the deer. Instead, the deer population exploded and then crashed as the animals exhausted their food supply and starved. Conservation pioneer Aldo Leopold concluded that the loss of predators had allowed the deer herd to grow beyond its ecological limits.

On the strength of biological studies, game managers' attitudes toward predators gradually changed. In the 1930s, the National Park Service -- which in the preceding decade had assiduously shot and poisoned wolves in Yellowstone -- adopted a new policy to protect predators. In 1940, the killing of bald eagles was outlawed nationwide; golden eagles were added to the protected list in 1962. Poison baits, once commonly used by the federal government to kill predators, were banned in 1972. And although some local communities still pay bounties on predators, all states have stopped.

Perhaps the ultimate indication of change came in the mid-1980s when two pairs of captive-reared red wolves were released in North Carolina's Alligator River National Wildlife Refuge. The event marked the first time that a predator extinct in the wild was restored to the wild.

Despite these strides, a battle still rages over the emotional issue of predator control. While the overall perception of killer species has improved, predators continue to feed on livestock, particularly in the West. The problem is especially notable in Nevada, where predators, chiefly coyotes, cost ranchers the equivalent of half the total value of their sheep and lamb flocks each year. Although Western sheepherders continue to hunt, trap, and, on their own land, poison coyotes, the public tends now to disapprove.

Likewise, efforts to reintroduce animals where they have been eliminated often encounter great resistance. After a 50-year absence, wolves recently reappeared on the west side of Montana's Glacier National Park. State officials, however, now fear that there is insufficient game to support both wolves and sportsmen in the area. The officials also oppose a plan by the National Park Service to reintroduce wolves into Yellowstone National Park, in part because neighboring ranchers oppose it.

If eventually we can resolve these issues and come to terms with predators, it may well be evidence of rare human wisdom. For as Purdue University biologist Durward Allen suggests, "Curious impartial sympathy toward all creatures, regardless of their diet, is an attitude of the cultivated mind."

Wildlife Facts

Paying their own way: In Rwanda, Africa, foreign tourists are going ape over a unique sightseeing safari. They are paying more than 100 dollars per person for the privilege of trekking deep into the bush to spend an hour with the world's last tribe of wild mountain gorillas. International Wildlife magazine reports the monies raised by these excursions help preserve the gorillas' fragile habitat and protect the big primates from poachers. The success of the project has spurred efforts to save other threatened species by opening up their habitats for a fee.

Speed records: The fastest creature on land is the cheetah. This cat can run at speeds up to 70 miles per hour for a short distance. Ranger Rick magazine reports the fastest moving animal of all is a bird of prey. A peregrine falcon diving through the sky was once clocked at 217 miles per hour.

Sick list: In France, the oyster has fallen on hard times. The delicate, flat oysters Europeans have enjoyed for centuries are in decline. The culprit is a pesky waterborne parasite that destroys the oysters' immune system. But International Wildlife magazine reports the parasite doesn't just harm oysters. The poor harvests of recent years have put thousands of French watermen out of work.

Heat treatment: Forget the pesticides. Researchers have devised an extermination technique that uses hot air to cook household pests on the spot. International Wildlife magazine reports they cover a house with tarps, then pump in heated air. During the half hour heat treatment temperatures can rise to 160 degrees. The advantage is that the heat won't harm furnishings and people can move right back into the treated house.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

Microwave heating and thawing are easy. Microwave cooking is easy too, when you know the basics. Practice them and you'll be able to micro-cook just about any food.

Twelve years ago when I started teaching microwave cooking classes, real cooking in a microwave oven was new. Cooking was mostly on High power for speed, thawing was the only microwaving done on Defrost power, and microwavable foods were limited. Today, cooking still is mostly on High power, but lower powers are more often used for delicate foods, such as eggs and meats. With this more sensible method, food cooks a bit slower, but with much better results. Back then, the number of microwavable convenience foods was limited. I used to bring a few empty cartons to class; today, I'd have to bring thousands.

Unchanged, though, in those 12 years are the basic techniques for successful microwave cooking. Those same dos and don'ts, modified only slightly, are still true today. Practice them, and you're on your way to becoming an experienced microwave cook.

Undercook. Timings in microwave recipes are approximate and are just a guide. Cook the least amount of time — or even less than the recipe says — and allow standing time before checking for doneness.

Use less cooking time if you have smaller pieces or less food than the recipe calls for. Cook less time if food is warmer than normal — for example, when vegetables are fresh from the garden on a warm day, rather than taken from the refrigerator.

Allow standing time. Once microwaving time has ended, food continues to cook by conduction. (Heat travels from the hottest parts of food to the cooler parts.) After cooking, let food stand, covered. Small foods are done cooking — or done standing — in a minute or so. Larger foods, like a whole squash or pork roast, continue to cook about 10 minutes.

Arrange food with the thickest parts to the outside edges of dish (or to the area of your microwave where fastest cooking occurs). If possible, arrange foods in a doughnut shape, with the center left open. For example, individual foods — such as potatoes or muffins — can be set in a circle; cakes or meat loaf can be made in a round dish with a glass in the center.

Cover food correctly. Tight covers, such as plastic wrap or a tight-fitting lid, hold in the most heat and moisture. These are used when steaming vegetables or cooking casseroles. Waxed paper or a loose-fitting lid holds in less steam and is perfect for chicken or micro-stir-frying. Paper towels prevent spattering when cooking bacon and sausage, or help prevent sandwiches from becoming soggy.

Most new microwave ovens cook more evenly than older ones, so you may not need to rotate or rearrange food during cooking. However, if you have problems with food not getting done in the center or in certain spots, try rotating the dish or rearranging food towards end of cooking.

To rotate, turn the dish so the side closest to back of oven is closest to front of oven. Do this about halfway through the cooking time. Rotating is most often done for foods that toughen easily (such as meats), for micro-baking, and for other foods which can't be stirred.

To rearrange, turn food so the most-cooked parts are repositioned in dish or in oven. Do this, too, about halfway through cooking. Rearranging is done to individual foods — like hamburgers, corn-on-the-cob and small custards.

If directed in a recipe to stir or turn food over, do it at the recommended time, and cooking time will be less because food will heat more evenly.

Casseroles, vegetables and scrambled eggs should be stirred. And, of course, stirring is necessary in puddings and sauces for proper thickening. Large meats, serving-size pieces of meat, and whole vegetables benefit from being turned over halfway through cooking.

Recipes in 1989 often reflect a change to healthier cooking. Some call for ingredients not commonly used 12 years ago. Some may call for a lower power setting to give best results.

Cereal Snack Squares (below) have the added nutrition of bran cereal and peanut butter. Melting marshmallows is still done almost instantly on High power and with no cover. One trick: Melt butter or margarine first; stir in marshmallows and then microwave to melt the marshmallows. Marshmallows will melt faster (especially large not-so-fresh ones) and need less stirring.

Cereal Snack Squares

¼ cup margarine or butter
1 package (10-½ ounces) marshmallows
¼ cup peanut butter
5 cups corn flakes cereal
1 cup bran cereal

Butter a 9x13-inch cake pan; set aside. Melt margarine in microwave-safe 2-quart measure or 3-quart casserole by microwaving (High) 30 to 45 seconds. Add marshmallows, stirring to coat. Microwave (High) 1½ to 2 minutes, stirring after 45 seconds, or until marshmallows puff. Stir until smooth; stir in peanut butter; quickly stir in cereals. Press into prepared pan. Cool. Cut into squares. Makes 24 squares.

Each square: 98 calories, 2g protein, 3g fat, 17g carbohydrate, 112mg sodium, 0 cholesterol.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

There is nothing like having company to make one get the spring cleaning completed. We invited my four sisters and their husbands for Sunday dinner, but only three couples were able to come.

Now my curtains are all washed, and I've crawled and climbed to reach almost inaccessible spots. And, the house is as clean as it is going to be because I'll have sugar peas and strawberries to pick, that is, if another flood doesn't appear and almost cover my garden. this past Saturday the Conestoga River covered between 10 and 15 acres of our meadow and slowly crawled up to our front yard.

I've had a big problem with chickweed in flower beds and also in the old strawberry bed. Being away in Ireland didn't help any as I've had lots to pull since I'm home. There are certain plants that can take care of themselves. These grow so abundantly and overrun everything. Especially aggressive are mint balm, tarragon, cherry tomatoes, larkspur and marigolds. I feel about these plants as a gardener told me this spring, "From now on I'll consider violets to be weeds." I guess any plant that grows where you don't want it, is a weed.

I am hoping that soon I can clean my 26 windowsills for the last time as I will plant most of the houseplants in the garden. Here they will have to fend for themselves and survive with an occasional weeding. It takes time to water all of them in the winter but I enjoy doing it.

Now I can look forward to enjoying a meal in one of my sister's homes as it will be her turn to entertain. We usually have a picnic gathering of our family in the summer. But, as the children scatter, we see fewer young people at these family functions each year.

Lancaster County Woman Becomes Wisconsin Extension Agent

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster County native Melinda Habecker has become an extension agent for Dane County in Wisconsin. An ag and natural resources agent, Habecker will develop innovative educational programs.

Habecker has a bachelor's degree in history from Millersville University, which she used to teach Mennonite and Amish adults before receiving a degree in agronomy from Penn State.

She worked for the U.S. Department of Agriculture fruit research station in West Virginia before getting her master's degree in soil science at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Centurian Thresherman Going Full Steam Ahead

BY LISA RISSER

KINZERS (Lancaster Co.) — For nearly all of his 100 years, Titus Brubaker has been fascinated by steam engines. His greatest love is the Peerless "S" Engine, which he first saw being unloaded at the train station in 1903.

The Peerless was the first steam engine he bought and one of the last, which he purchased just five years ago.

"My wife says they're old men's toys," he chuckled. But Erma, his wife of 39 years, understands his delight.

Brubaker began a working relationship with the great engines when he was 16 years old. His father had purchased a threshing rig, which he gave to Brubaker who then purchased an engine to run it.

Working as a thresherman appealed to Brubaker because it allowed him to work with engines, which he equates to humans. "When it works hard, it makes a lot of noise, and when it doesn't work hard, it doesn't do much."

Equipped with the thresher, an engine, and a baler, Titus and four other men began doing custom work for farmers. They threshed within a 10-mile radius north of Lancaster on farms in towns such as Kissel Hill, Fruitville, Eden, and Landis Valley.

Guy helps Titus stoke up the fire in the Peerless "S".

Titus Brubaker recently celebrated his 100th birthday at the Rough & Tumble Museum where his steam engines are located. Titus spent nearly 50 years working as a thresherman north of Lancaster County. He worked in a 10-mile radius including villages such as Landis Valley, Kissel Hill, and Fruitville.

"We worked for about 60 farmers a season," Brubaker said. "One year we serviced 72 farms."

Brubaker worked where he could do the most good, which was usually at the baler. He found he was adept at dropping boards to separate bales, mostly because he had more practice at it. "I dropped boards because we could make better time with me there and get a little more done."

Some of Brubaker's fondest memories are of the friendly farmers and the good food he and his crew were served. "The farmers furnished our food, and often we'd see the wife cleaning the chickens we were to eat," Brubaker remembered. "My favorite meal was a ham dinner."

Threshing season would begin in July and last sometimes into October. During the winter Brubaker would keep busy repairing equipment and occasionally steam

Increase Vegetable Production Without Increasing Space

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co) — Vegetable gardeners can increase their production without expanding the size of their garden. By using non-traditional cropping systems, more plants can be grown in a given space.

Standard row spacings are geared for large scale agricultural practices. There are many alternatives for the home vegetable garden. Intensive gardening systems aren't new, just not as familiar as the traditional row system.

Double-row and wide-row seedings are simple modifications of the row system. Seed is sown either in close double rows or in a 10- to 12-inch band. Plants are then thinned to recommended plant spacing in all directions.

Crops established as transplants, such as tomato, pepper, and broccoli, etc., can be planted in beds in a staggered arrangement with equal spacing in all directions. Ease of harvest should be kept in mind in planning the size of beds.

Fast and slow growing crops may be interplanted for more efficient use of space. Plants may be alternated within rows or row to row. Some possible combinations include pea and carrot, lettuce and corn, spinach and tomato.

Succession plantings should be planned to make full use of space throughout the growing season. For example, early lettuce might be followed with snap beans, or spring-planted broccoli might be followed by late zucchini.

Take advantage of vertical growing space with suitable crops such as cucumber, squash, tomato, beans, by using trellises and cages. Be aware, however, of the shade that will be created and place the crop accordingly.

There are some special considerations and cautions to be noted with intensive gardening. The more dense plant cover reduces air circulation and may aggravate disease problems. Fertilizer and water requirements will be increased. Weed problems may be reduced because a larger portion of the soil is shaded by crops. Make sure to leave enough space for moving around in the garden when the crops are full grown.

Centurian Thresherman

open frozen pipes. In the spring he would hire out to steam tobacco beds. Other work he did included baling straw and hay and shredding and baling corn fodder.

In 1951 technology forced Brubaker to quit threshing. He opened an electrical contracting business, which he operated until a massive heart attack in 1972 led him to retire.

During this time, his thoughts were never far from steam engines and after only five years of retirement, he purchased an Eclipse with his good friend of 30 years, Guy B. Stauffer of East Petersburg.

The two engine enthusiasts also purchased a Peerless "S" in 1984. "I bought them because I wanted to play with them!" Brubaker said with a laugh.

During the summer Brubaker and Stauffer visit the engines several times a week. The engines are located at the Rough & Tumble Engineers Historical Association Museum, of which Brubaker is a founder. Brubaker often can be seen tinkering with the engines, stoking the fires, and even taking out the ashes.

Because parts are no longer manufactured for the engines, Brubaker and Stauffer make parts or have them made. "Bet I know almost every machine shop in Lancaster, York, and Lebanon counties," claimed Brubaker. "That's where we go to find the parts or have them made."

Brubaker and his wife live at Moravian Manor and have been active with the Rough & Tumble Museum. A exhibition building was named for them.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 8

Farm Women's Society #8 met at the St. Johns Lutheran Church in Maytown on May 10 at noon. Society #9 was invited to a covered dish luncheon, and forty persons attended.

A special musical program was given by Anna Mary Herr, pianist, with Mrs. Kleckner as vocalist. Special spring-time songs were chosen plus other cheerful melodies.

Hostesses were Anna Mae Derr, Estie Swarr, Elizabeth Shuman, Anna Mae Ney, Ruth Felty and Nellie Blake.

The next meeting will be held June 14, at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Helen Mariner. A Legislative Program is planned.

Lancaster Society 14

Farm Women #14 of Strasburg, Lancaster County met Wednesday, May 10th at the home of Elma Barge.

For roll call each member and guest named their favorite flower.

The program was "Color Analyzed Spiritually" by Joan Hershey, former Lancaster County president of Farm Women.

Hostesses were: Polly Stoltzfus, Mary Louise Landis, Irma Brubaker, and Elizabeth Herr.

Last month members went on a bus trip to Virginia and toured Historic Michie Tavern. Next stop was the University of Virginia in Charlottesville.

Green Valley Society 26

The Green Valley Farm Women Group #26 will hold their June 13 meeting at the home of Reba Wise. Program and games will be by Bartel Reity and Naomi Cashner. There will be five going to the Spring Rally at Seven Springs, Somerset County. They are Betty Bertolette, Mabel Miller. Reba Wise, Ruth Traver and Mary Lantz. Twenty members attended the group's 23rd Anniversary held at Family Time Restaurant.

Berks Society 1

The Berks Society of Farm Women Group 1 held their monthly meeting at the home of Donna Hetrich in Oley. The topic for the evening was safety.

Seventeen members answered to roll call with their favorite spring flower.

Esther Berndt, president, reported on the County Board Meeting and conducted the business meeting.

Members made final plans to attend the Spring Rally in Seven Springs on June 8.

Next meeting will be held at the home of Ella Richard, Oley, R.D.2, on June 14 and we will "Chat and Sew" as our entertainment for the night.

Lancaster Society 34

Lancaster Farm Women Society #34 met on May 8 at the Mechanic Grove Church of the Brethren where they entertained Society #35. Ralph and Mena Layman presented a slide program about their Alaskan trip.

The next meeting will be on June 19 at the Little Farmer Boy where members will be given ideas on using antiques in our homes.

Six Finalists Vie For Beef Cook-Off

HARRISBURG (Dauphin) — Six Finalists will vie for more than $1,000 in prize monies, plus an opportunity to compete for a grand prize of $15,000 at the National Beef Cook-off, at the annual Pennsylvania Beef Cook-off, slated for Friday, May 26, at Boscov's Department Store, in the Colonial Park Mall, Harrisburg.

This year more than 70 recipes were submitted for consideration, with the top six finalists in the conventional category competing in the state cook-off. Contestants will begin preparation at noon, and the winners will be announced at 3:30 p.m., at Boscov's community auditorium.

Each recipe will be evaluated for taste, ease of preparation and practicality, originality, contribution to a nutritionally balanced diet, and appearance. The panel of five food experts who will judge the competition include Dian Thomas, Food Editor of ABC's Home Show; Betty Groff, owner/operator of Groff's Farm, Mt. Joy, and cookbook author/publisher; Marcia Shore, home economist and former owner/operator of the Pennsylvania Academy for Culinary Arts; Marcia Hajduk; former assistant professor of Food Service Management, and present interim assistant dean, Business and Management Services Division, Harrisburg Area Community College; and Barbara Ford, a registered dietician at the Hershey Medical Center.

Preschool Play Group

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — What do you do this summer when your preschooler catches "What Can I Do Blues?" What do you do when your child doesn't want to read, paint or help you match socks? It takes work and effort to find worthwhile creative activities for your child. You, too, may be looking for a little adult stimulation and conversation! If so, a play group may be just what you are looking for.

A play group has many advantages for parent and child alike. A rotating schedule may provide a free morning for mom and socialization for your child. Penn State Cooperative Extension is providing a "Play Group Production" workshop to help you start a summer play group.

This workshop, held June 1 from 10:00-noon will be held at the Berks County Ag Center. Penn State Home Economists, Michelle Rodgers and Nancy Stevens, will focus on skills for organizing a play group, creative activity ideas, nutritious snack recipes, hands-on experiences and a resource notebook full of ideas to get you started. Cost is $5.00 for the session and notebook. Advance registration is required and can be made by contacting Berks County Agricultural Center, 378-1327.

Heart's Desire Brings New Enterprise To Stone Farmhouse

BY LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

NEW ENTERPRISE (Bedford Co.) — Two women in the rural, farming community of New Enterprise have combined their talents to form a unique gift shop shown as "Heart's Desire." It is housed in the basement of a rambling old stone farm house.

Della Mae Grubb is the wife of Morrison's Cove farmer, Ray Grubb. The couple farms about 259 acres and, until last year, also tended and milked a large herd of Guernsey cattle.

A portion of the acreage farmed by Grubb is owned by Jane and Wayne Muntain. Jane is Della Mae's partner in the gift shop venture and the location is the basement of their picturesque home.

Wayne, an elementary teacher, grew up in Martinsburg and eventually ended up in Glen Burnie, Maryland, where he met Jane. "He always wanted to move back here," his wife says. "And, I told him, if he could find a stone house in New Enterprise, I would move. I really didn't think it would be possible, but it only took two weeks to find one."

It was a few years later that Jane and Della Mae teamed up to open their gift shop. "My girls had all gone off to college and it was good timing for me," says Della Mae.

Jane's boys were also growing up and into country life raising chickens, cows and pigs as 4-H projects as well as fish in the stream which flows through the Muntain property and into the basement.

The basement shop also comes equipped with a huge piece of limestone emerging from a corner of the floor and a quaint old fireplace. The stream keeps the shop so cool, it is necessary to keep the fireplace busy even in the summer time.

Both Della Mae and Jane enjoy crafts and sewing and both were certain they wanted a shop which would carry items unique to them. One of their specialities is a loose fitting jumper of their own design. It comes in a variety of paisley and calico prints and is complete with heart shaped buttons to keep in tune with the name of the shop.

A neat accessory for the jumpers is a stenciled t-shirt with a, what else?, heart design!

The ladies also do counted cross-stitch sweatshirts emphasizing the country life with designs such as sheep, ducks, and Holstein cows. "The cows are our best seller," says Della Mae.

They also make their own dolls, bunnies, placemats and quilts. ."We do as much of the crafting as we can ourselves," says Della Mae.

"And, then we look for local folks to help us out."

Many of their items come from the hands of farm wives or even farmers who enjoy a hobby as well as an extra income. Della Mae teaches a craft class at the New Enterprise Church of the Brethren which helps to seek out hidden talents.

Marketing has probably been the most difficult part of this entrepreneur venture. "We participate in juried shows in Richmond, Va., Timonium, Maryland, and several local shows," Della Mae explains.

"When we do a show, we realize that it is important to present ourselves well," Jane says. "We hand out cards and do all we can to promote our work and the shop."

"We have also worked with the local Tourist and Promotion Bureau," says Della Mae. "That was a good move as we often have customers getting out of the car carrying the local tourist promotion magazine with our ad in it."

Being off the beaten track has not stopped these two country women from having customers from many countries representing all six continents.

"But it keeps us busy to come up with new and original ideas," Della Mae admits. One of their latest has been to help area women with their shopping by holding in shop shows. A hostess can have a gift shopping party. She provides the refreshments and the shop is open at unusual hours. Guests are invited and can shop as long as they like. The hostess is then rewarded for her part in the venture.

"New Enterprise is a quiet town of about 500 people including the rural areas," Jane says quietly. "Sometimes I find myself complaining if I have to wait for three or four cars before I can pull out from my driveway."

"It takes a lot of hard work and long hours to make a business thrive in this type of environment. But farmers are used to that."

Pictures include one of Della Mae and Jane working on their own creation of a bunny mother and baby. Jane is wearing of their original jumpers and t-shirts.

Yeutter To Speak At Farm Women's Forum

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter will be the featured speaker at the Farm Women's Leadership Forum, June 8-10. The Forum is held each year in Washington D.C., to help farm women become better informed on key agricultural issues and better prepared to deal with some of today's agricultural challenges.

This unique program allows any interested farm women to hear from Congressmen, USDA staff, farm organization representatives, and agribusiness persons on a variety of agricultural issues. The program is still being finalized, but we've also received confirmations from Cooper Evans, President Bush's Special Assistant on Agriculture, Congressman Charles Stenholm, and Elizabeth Whelan, nationally recognized expert on food safety and "toxic terrorists."

Participants will also join in several "hands-on" workshops. For example, we will visit NBC studios in Washington, D.C., for a behind the scenes look at network news. During the legislative workshop, you'll see a demonstration of how "grassroots" lobbying has entered the computer age.

Last year's Forum attracted women from 32 states. Participants represented American Agri-Women, American Farm Bureau Federation, Associated Milk Producers, Inc., National Cattle Women, National Extension Homemakers Association, National Pork Council Women, National Rural Electric Cooperative Women, National Wool Growers Auxiliary, Women Involved in Farm Economics, and several others.

The Forum is sponsored by several companies who contributed time, money, and other valuable resources to make this unique training program possible. Sponsors include: Abbott Laboratories, American Cyanamid, Monsanto, American Council of Life Insurance, Chicago Board of Trade, Deere & Co., DuPont, Cargill, Case IH, Elanco, FMC Corporation, Ford New Holland, Pioneer, ICI Americas, Miller Brewing Co., Geo A. Hormel & Co., Dow Chemical, National Agricultural Chemicals Association, National Pork Council Women and National Pork Producers Council, Northrup King, The Upjohn Company, Rhone Poulenc Ag Company, Sandoz Crop Protection Corporation, Kent Feeds and Agri-Pulse Communications.

The 1989 Forum will be held at the Capitol Holiday Inn, Washington, D.C. Participants is open to the first 150 farm women who register before May 19. For more information, contact Coordinator Sara Wyant for registration materials. Write: FWLF, 63 Harbor Bend, Lake St. Louis, MO 63367; Or call 314/625-3013.

The Chapter Received Two Awards: Good House Keeping Award at the South Central District Dairy Show and a Honorable Mention for the 1989 Sales from

Forbes Road

Awards were presented recently at the Forbes Road FFA banquet in Fulton County. Scott Knepper received the Star Farmer award in recognition of the many projects he's completed on the Knepper 175-acre family farm. Knepper completed projects in beef breeding and finishing, swine breeding and finishing, and sweet corn production.

The Star Greenhand award was presented to Kevin Long, son of Virl and Twila Long of Hustontown. An honorary chapter farmer degree was conferred upon Charles Dunn, superintendent of the Forbes Road School District. Dunn has assisted the chapter in many ways during his tenure. He found a buyer for the storage barn that the students built in shop and assisted with delivery. Dunn also arranged for the FFA'ers to supply locally grown hay for drought-stricken farmers in Wisconsin.

Todd Grace, president of the chapter, was presented the Gold Award for ag sales and service. Grace has worked two summers at a home building and supply center.

Mohrsville Girl Is Berks Dairy Princess

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — In front of 275 people, Anne Mitchell of Mohrsville was crowned the 1989 Berks County Dairy Princess earlier this month at the Berks County Ag Center.

The daughter of William and Sallie Mitchell, Anne is a senior at Schuylkill Valley High School. For her presentation, she played a convincing inspector of detectives. Anne succeeds Tammy Balthaser of Bernville.

Rebecca Snyder of Oley was chosen by the panel of three judges to be the alternate Berks County Dairy Princess.

Other candidates for the crown were Heidi S. Schlegel of Boyertown, Theresa S. Bashore of Oley, and Jina Leatherman of Hamburg.

In the Li'l Miss Berks County Dairy Princess Contest, Pamela Sue Werley, 5, of Hamburg was voted the winner. She is the daughter of Phillip and Donna Werley.

Creativity Tackles Problems

NEW YORK, NY — "Today's American youth are demonstrating their initiative, ingenuity and responsibility in solving others' problems as well as their own," reports an executive of one of the nation's largest youth programs.

Carla Mikell, a judge-- with Phylicia Rashad, Alex Trebek, John Stamos and Jackie Joyner-Kersee-- of Colgate-Palmolive's 16th annual "Youth for America" campaign, says "Millions of today's youth are more socially responsible than they are given credit for and they're using their creativity to tackle real problems facing their communities."

For 16 years now, thousands of youth clubs and troops across the nation have been developing unique community projects in the annual "Youth for America" campaign established by Colgate-Palmolive. The company rewards the best executed ideas with grants of up to $2,000.

"The winners in the recently concluded 1989 campaign reflect the creativity of today's youngsters," says Ms. Mikell. One Boy Scout troop created an anti-drunk-driving campaign, persuading businesses to provide free non-alcoholic beverages to customers wearing Designated Driver buttons. A 4-H group raised money to construct a therapeutic playground for handicapped students. A Camp Fire unit organized a local seat belt safety campaign. A Boys Club used chess as a unique form of psychotherapy to correct anti-social behavior. One Girl Scout troop established a Senior Olympics for nursing home residents, while a Girls Club raised funds to purchase medical insurance for children of needy parents.

Ms. Mikell points out, "The 'Youth for America' campaign encourages young people to develop responsibility toward their hometowns-- and to use their imagination in doing it."

The youth-aid program has been honored by The White House, Congress, and countless governors and mayors across the nation. Through it, Colgate-Palmolive Co. has contributed close to $5 million to U.S. youth.

4-H HAPPENINGS

York County Livestock

YORK (York Co.) — Sixteen members of the York County 4-H Livestock Clubs recently participated in a livestock judging contest at Delaware Valley College near Doylestown, PA.

In the overall competition, Cathy Shive, Seven Valleys, won the contest with Sue Eisenhour, Wellsville placing third with Karena Rankin, Abbottstown and Edwin Livingston, Dover placing fourth & fifth respectively.

In Beef Judging, Cathy Shive place second with Ed Livingston placing third, Karena Rankin placed fourth and James Fitzgerald, Jr., Etters, placed fifth. In Sheep Judging Cathy Shive placed third and Edwin Livingston was fourth. The Swine Division of the contest saw all top five placings won by York Co. 4-H Members with Karena Rankin, first; Sonja Shearer, Abbottstown, second; Cathy Shive, third; Sue Eisenhour, fourth, and Karena's brother Jason Rankin picked up the fifth place spot. In the Oral Reason Division Cathy Shive placed first, Sonja Shearer, third, and Sue Eisenhour placed fourth.

Besides Individual Awards the Contest consisted of Team Competition. In Beef Judging Team scores the York County Teams placed first, second, fourth and fifth. The Sheep Team scores saw York Teams placing first, third, and fifth. The Swine Team scores of York Co. 4-H'ers were first, second, and third. In Overall Oral Reasons York Co. placed first, second and fifth.

After all the species team scores were added up, the York Co. Team of Cathy Shive, Sue Eisenhour, and Edwin Livingston placed first team overall. The team of James Fitzgerald, Sonja Shearer, and Karena Rankin placed third team overall.

The other members who participated in the contest from York Co. were: Robin Shive, Seven Valleys; Elizabeth & Suzanne Bishard, York; Jason Stein, Wrightsville; Matt Sellers, Thomasville; Jodi Dutrey, Dallastown; Jennifer Altobelli, Dover and Cindy & Lisa Dehoff, Glen Rock.

Round Valley Riders

At the last meeting of the Round Valley Riders members discussed new business. The club plans to participate in the 4-H Window Display Contest on May 20-27. The display will be in the window of the Clinton Drug Store. The club will be going on a trip to the Dressage Clinic of USET in Gladstone, N.J. they will also attend a rodeo in Cowtown, N.J.; this will give members a taste of rodeo riding. Members participated in the Clean Up at Round Valley Youth Center on April 29. The club sponsored a Horse Show on Mother's Day, with a special class just for mothers. State public presentations will be held on June 10, at Rutgers Cook College for all members who received a blue ribbon on County level. The tentative date for the State Horse Judging is June 20.

York County Lamb

The York County 4-H Lamb Club met on May 2 at the Marlan Klinedinst's farm. He talked about feeding and management of market lambs. The meeting was brought to order by President Amy Dutrey. The American Pledge was led by Jodi Dutrey and the 4-H Pledge was led by Kenly Myers. The 4-H'ers were told that the weigh in will be held on May 27 at The 4-H Center and on June 3 at Steve's Ebersole's farm. A few members attended the Delaware Valley Judging Contest.

The next meeting will be held on June 4 at Larry Funt's farm. The program will be on blocking and grooming.

Hunterdon County Herpetology

At the last meeting of the Hunterdon County 4-H Herpetology members welcomed five new members; Seamus Heaney (Lebanon), Bradford Muir (Flemington), James Kanola (Flemington), Dale Rush (Hampton), and Melanie Tromba (Bethlehem Township). Mr. Sanchis talked on the Rainbow Boa that belonged to Dale Rush; the snake is four feet long and four years old. Shane Mohr (Califon) brought his ball python, which is two years old and three feet long. Members talked about how to care for this and other snakes, and the danger of mite infestation. Mite infestation ended the life of the 16-foot pet python owned by Bob Sutton a frequent lecturer and friend of the club. At one of the last meetings Bob brought a Cuban Boa from a pet shop and unfortunately this snake contaminated his snake and several others, they all died. The trip to PEEC was discussed. Ariane Sanchis (Hampton) discussed workshops offered at PEEC. A field trip is planned to Amwell Lake early in May. Josh Chou was congratulated as our most outstanding member. Josh was one of the 1,300 students nationwide to win a merit scholarship. In PEEC we will be participating in pond study, fossil trail, survival skills, astronomy and wild life study.

Conodoquinet Sheep

The Conodoquinet 4-H Sheep Club recently held a meeting on April 19 at the Dickinson Township building.

Robert Holtry told the club about a ham sandwich sale on May 25. The sandwiches are $1.50 each. Holtry reported there will be a spring preview show for lambs on June 3 at Shippensburg fairgrounds. If anyone wants to be in the rate-of-gain contest, they will have to take their lambs to the Shippensburg fairgrounds and have them weighed in on June 3.

There was a discussion about insurance for 4-H Club members and leaders. The Club decided to pay for insurance for each member and leaders.

The New Carlisle Fair will be held August 9-12. The lamb roundup will be held on August 12 at the Carlisle Fair. Holtry talked to the Club on how to choose a market lamb. He warned members to look for sickle hock, which is when lambs' knees turn in and feet turn out.

Cumerland County Goat

The Cumberland County Goat Club met May 3 at the Newville Borough Hall with 11 members present for a short business meeting. Club President Kelli Zeigler opened the meeting by leading the members in the Club Pledge and the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag. The main item of business discussed was the Ham Sandwich Sale, which will be held on May 23. This will be a fund raiser for the club.

Following the business meeting, the members and parents drove to the home of Gerald & Jodi Varner where they viewed the goats and discussed goat husbandry. Refreshments were then served by the Varner family.

The next meeting of the club will be held June 7, 1989 at the home of Justin & Derrick Carpenter. Fair entries, health papers and registrations as well as plans for Newville's "Old Fashion Days" will be discussed.

Cumberland County Youth between the ages of 8 and 18 interested in goats are invited to attend and join. For more information contact the Cumberland County Extension Office at 249-7220 or either of the following leaders: Red Allen at 776-5097 or Suzie Leib at 697-5374.

New Holland Baby Beef

The New Holland 4-H Baby Beef Club met at the home of Heather Yoder on March 21. President Krista Martin called the meeting to order. The secretary, Jodi Weaver read the minutes of the last meeting. The treasurer's report was given. New business was planning meetings for the coming year.

Paws Dog Obedience

On April 29, the New Jersey State 4-H Dog Show was held during Ag Field Day at Cook College, New Brunswick. Sarah Johnson and her dog Danny of Lebanon won first place in the puppy class. Charity Jones of Pittstown and her dog Luke, Jen and Blizzard of Lebanon, Andrea Prosics of Lebanon all won first place in Junior showmanship of different divisions. Jeff Bowley (Flemington) and Deogee won third place in sub novice and Greg Bowlby and his dog won fourth place also in sub novice; Andrea Prosics and Blossom won first in novice and Danielle Prosics and Daisy won second in novice. Carrie Regan (Flemington) and Freckles won first in sub novice and with her overall score won Best in Show for Dog Obedience. At the business meeting on May 3 members in Dog Owners Educational League of Flemington talked to members about the breeds of dogs and caring for dogs. Demonstrators included Mr. Levy and his Komandor Boc of Princeton, Mrs. McGee and Norfolk Terrier Winslow of Hopewell, Mrs. Sweet and her Great Dane Double Trouble of Lebanon, and Denise Garber and her Siberian Husky, Wheeler of Flemington. At the next meeting members will resume in Dog Obedience Training.

Unraveling Fact From Fiction

PITTSBURG — Judging by the amount of attention given to fitness, health, diet, and nutrition, it may seem that we are a nation of persons obsessed with eating to stay healthy. Judy Dodd, a registered dietitian with Dairy & Nutrition Council points out that although the interest is up, the misinformation seems to be at an all time high. She notes, "There is a sincere interest in health and fitness, especially in controlling weight, but this has opened the door to entrepreneurs willing to provide people with 'the quick fix' and easy answer."

It is estimated that health fraud and quackery costs this nation over $25 billion a year. A chunk of these dollars can be traced to misinformation and faulty interpretation about food and diet. Another portion of the bill can be charged to outright fraud.

One look at the magazine counter or book store reinforces the fact the nutrition and diet information is a hot topic. And, mixed in with the legitimate messages are the bizarre schemes. Knoxing how to separate one from the other may require seeking out an expert. The American Dietetic Association recently issued the following guidelines that can give you a start when you are judging the reliability of books and articles in print.

1. Consider the author's qualifications. Is the educational background from an accredited university?

2. What evidence is provided to support any claims made? Sources of information should include references to respected scientific journals that published the original research. Most scientists will indicate any conflicting opinions or potential problems.

3. Ask yourself: Why was this published or issued? Is the author trying to sell something? Has this influenced the message?

4. What do knowledgeable professionals say about the information? Registered dietitians and qualified nutritionists will assist you in judging the information. In some cases reviews or background material are available immediately.

The best offense to nutrition misinformation may be to identify credible sources in your area and use them! Contact your local health department, universities and colleges with a nutrition component, hospital nutrition services department or Dairy & Nutrition Council when you have a question on nutrition information. Many times, reviews of "hot topics" and background information are already prepared and waiting for your request!

To make an informed decision, start with nutrition experts who have reliable information. Expect that the advice they provide will require you to get involved since "quick fixes" and overnight success plans are the stuff nutrition misinformation thrives upon. If the advice or the diet sound "too good to be true," it probably is... too good to be true!

Host International Visitors

HILLSDALE, NY — American Farm Families are being asked to host young visitors from Europe and South America who are offering to help out during the coming summer months.

Farm families with an interest in learning more about this project are invited to contact the Program Director, Mrs. Penny Tarplin, International Farmstay Project, Box 190 R.D. 1, Hillsdale, New York 12529, Phone: (518) 325-FARM,

These young visitors are between 19 and 29 years old and they will be arriving from Finland, Germany, Spain, Brazil and Belgium. They are males and females, and are not, for the most part, real farmers. But they are serious about making a real contribution with their services, will rise early, breakfast with the family and work at whatever chores are needed.

They are also eager to practice their English skills and to make American friends. They may remain in America for one, two or three months and are protected by comprehensive accident and health insurance.

They will fly to the airport nearest to their Farm Hosts. Host Families may specify male or female and may indicate their preferred country of choice, but this is not always possible to arrange.

The Farmstay Visitors have submitted detailed applications including photographs and identifying their backgrounds and interests.

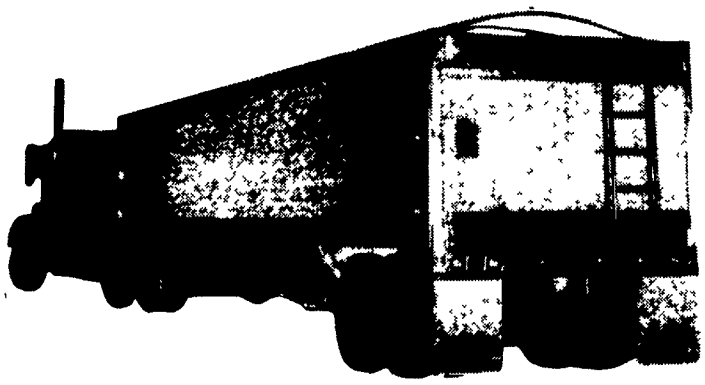
NEW

REDESIGNED 1989 TIMPTE GRAIN HOPPER



Got Grain? Then get the trailer that is Timpte tough... the Super Hopper. It's not only built to take it...it's also built to cut fuel costs. The Super Hopper is lightweight and aerodynamically designed to reduce wind drag. When there's grain to be hauled, Timpte does the haulin' best and pulls a lot easier than the rest.

24 foot Ruff Neck trailer on left is Eby's workhorse. Trailer on the right is an economical, 16 foot Wrangler.

Get outstanding value in EVERY Eby trailer.

Whether it's a top-of-the-line Ruff Neck or an economical Wrangler, you know your livestock trailer is built to last if it's from Eby.

Aluminum construction is one of the main reasons these trailers are so durable and reliable. They'll never rust through or need welding. In fact, without ever being painted, an Eby livestock trailer will stay looking new for years.

Standard features make your Eby trailer a profitable investment. Extra-heavy axles, brakes, wheels and tires. Thick aluminum sheet flooring. Sturdy posts and rails. Even an aerodynamically designed front end is standard.

And, while standard features make even the economical Eby Wrangler far more than an average economy-model, we custom-build everything we make. So you tell us what you want. Choose from a long list of options. Select those features you need for your particular operation. Whether it's a Wrangler or deluxe Ruff Neck, the trailer you buy will be the trailer you need.

Call or write for more information.

Lancaster

BRAND FEEDING SYSTEM EQUIPMENT

Lancaster* BELT FEEDER AND "NEW" Lancaster CONVEYOR. Modern dairy and beef feedlots can be automated with the use of bunk feeders using "belt feeder" units. Corn silage, haylage, high moisture corn and other feed material can be distributed quietly, evenly and with no separation. A traveling plow unit places the feed directly to the center of the bunk trough. Simple operation and very low horsepower requirements make this Lancaster belt feeder popular with dairy and beef operators. Rubber belt and wooden trough design—keeps silage from contacting or corroding metal.

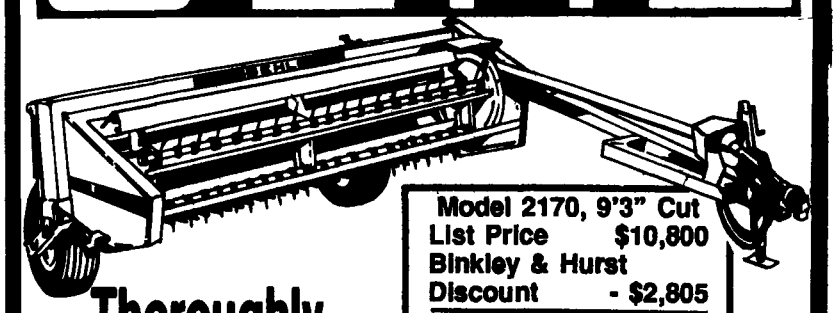
Don't Overlook A Super Deal If You Like Quality In A Mower Conditioner!

GEHL



Thoroughly Conditioned

Model 2170, 9'3" Cut
List Price	$10,800
Binkley & Hurst Discount	- $2,805
Gehl Factory Rebate	-$750
Your Cost	$7,245

The Gehl 2140/2170 mower conditioners will thoroughly condition your hay. These pull-type mower conditioners are built for fast cutting, fast drying and worry-free performance. The wide, intermeshing rubber rolls with intermittent ribs give you 35% more working edges than continuous-ribbed rolls, for more thorough conditioning. That means shorter drying time with less leaf damage. See Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc. today on how the 2140, with a 7 ft. cutting width, and the 2170 with a 9 ft. 3 in. cutting width, will fit into your haymaking operation.

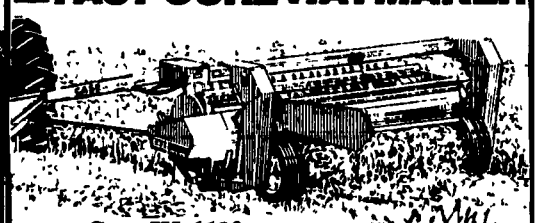
How About A Used IH Model 1190 FAST-CURE HAYMAKER



Case IH 1190 Mower Conditioner

When Lifting Into Transport It Automatically Opens Crushing Rolls In Case Of Plugging

You'll preserve more nutrition when you cut fast, crush and crimp hay the 1190 way. Crop feeds straight in, even on rough ground, since rolls are mounted on the header, not on the frame.

- 9-foot sizes
- Clear slugs from your tractor seat
- "Over-the-top" frame design for unrestricted hay flow

GEHL

High Capacity... Fast Unloading

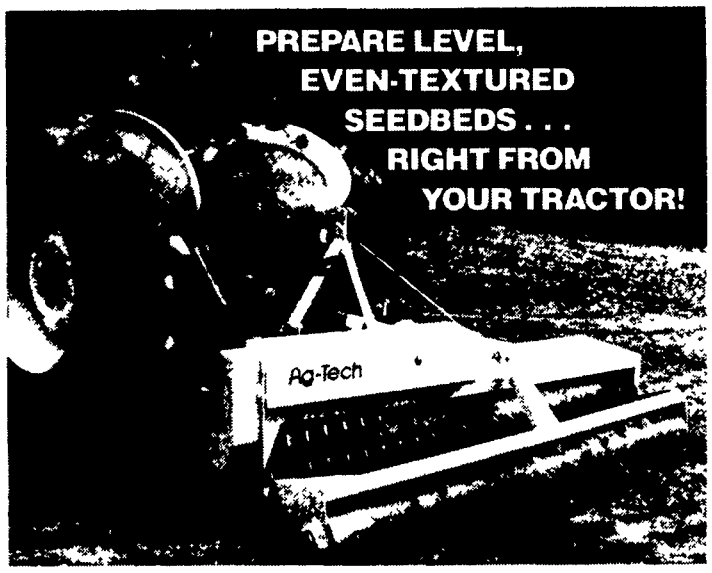
The Gehl 970 Series self-unloading forage box is a winner! You can't beat it for unloading speed, capacity, strength, ease of maintenance — and price! Ten-year warranty on sides, endgate, stakes and platform tells you a lot about its superior construction. And the Even-Flow third beater plus a wide 23½-inch cross conveyor give you the speed and capacity you're looking for. Available in five sizes. Stop in and look one over today!

GEHL Unparalleled Performers

The ultimate forage blowers are here - the Gehl 1540, 1560 and 1580. These blowers have been developed around the high capacity tradition of famous Gehl blowers. In addition to unmatched capacity, these blowers boast many convenience features - swing-away blower outlet, removable tunnel covers, replaceable rim sheet liner, adjustable left axle, quick-adjust air vents, PTO storage hanger and more. PUT A GEHL BLOWER TO THE TEST ON YOUR FARM TODAY!

Super Duty Small Drum Direct Drive 1000 RPM Models 1560 In Stock! Also 540 Drive Model 1540 Blower At Economical Prices!

Ag-Tech SEEDER



Take any rough-graded lot. The Ag-Tech PRESEEDER can transform it into a flat, finished seedbed—quickly, easily!

The PRESEEDER attaches to any tractor equipped with PTO drive, 3 point hitch and remote hydraulic valve. Large front rotor with heavy duty tines can be adjusted to low on first pass to loosen surface and fill in holes with soil from higher areas. Horizontal angle of rotor displaces rocks and other debris into windrows. On final pass the PRESEEDER can be set high for smoothing. Evenly-spaced teeth on rear roller punch into finished soil to speed germination of grass seed.

Your end result... a beautifully-prepared seedbed—fine textured, even and ready for planting!

TORQUE AMPLIFIERS & CLUTCHES

Over the past 8 years, we have sold thousands of T.A.'s to satisfied customers across the U.S. Some of our best customers are I.H. Dealers.

We do complete job or center housing while you wait or will sell you the parts.

Our prices on T.A.'s with the Dana Spreg, are now $645.00 with a 2 year warranty.

We also have units and parts available to rebuild old style T.A.'s, including Ramp & carrier sets for $300.00

Clutches, Pressure Plates PTO Drives & Water Pumps

We have clutches available for most all IH tractors; including many heavier than original. We also have clutches for many other brands.

- Compare Our Prices -

All clutches & T.A.'s will ship U.P.S. and are sold on an exchange basis. Core charges Apply.

QUALITY USED PARTS

We specialize in IH tractors but we also have Case, Oliver, White and Massey tractors in our inventory.

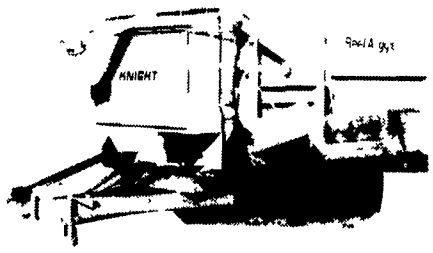
Reel Auggie

2000 Series

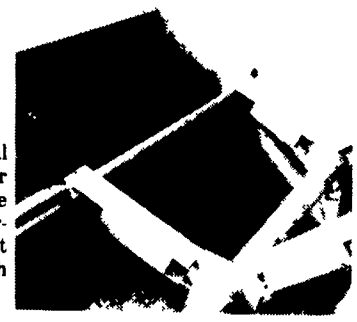
A new concept in TMR Mixers



The Mixer/Blender/Feeder that handles your TMR ingredients including long stem hay. Pictured is the RA2250.

Reel Auggie Mixing Chamber

The reel turns slowly and gently lifts material into the two blending augers. The lower auger is notched and moves the material forward. The upper auger, which moves the material rearward, features replaceable knives which assist the blending of long baled hay or other tough roughage materials.



Advantages of the Reel Auggie Design

*Reduced mixing time with lower horsepower requirements.

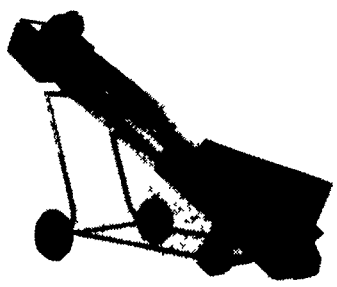
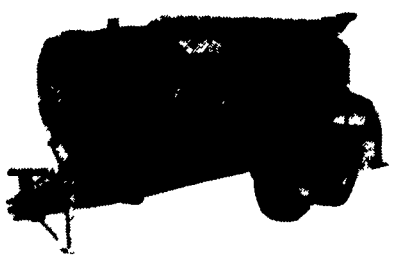
WEIGHT CONTROL
Capacity: 8 bushels

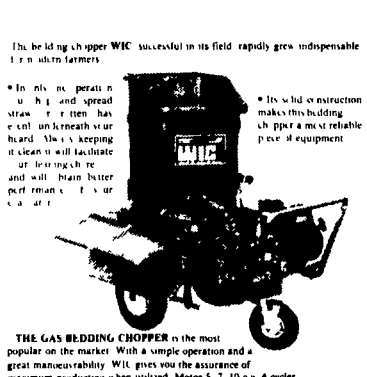


- Horizontal or inclined
- Sturdy pintle chain (test: 8500 lbs. with rubber flight (D-662)
- Available wheel system for easy handling
- Supported by adjustable legs
- Hopper for inclined or horizontal conveyor



Wic low profile allows excellent rear visibility for better control. Because Wic load at the rear & unload from the front, the need for inside agitation is eliminated in most operations

Also because liquid is forced through a line over the top of the spreader the need for leaky valves is totally eliminated.



THE GAS BEDDING CHOPPER is the most popular on the market. With a simple operation and a great maneuverability WIC gives you the assurance of maximum production when utilized. Motor 5 7 10 c v 4 cycles

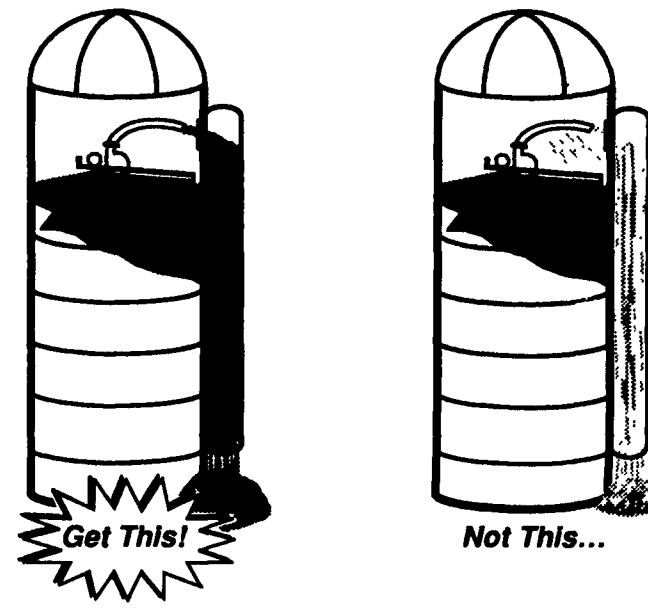
Get the Power You Pay For With Van Dale DURAGLIDE™



The newest innovation in silo unloading—from Van Dale, of course—is the DURAGLIDE Impeller System, which dramatically increases throwing power while reducing power requirements.

The DURAGLIDE paddle and wrapper inserts are slicker than glass and more durable than stainless steel.

See this revolutionary system today at your local Van Dale dealers.

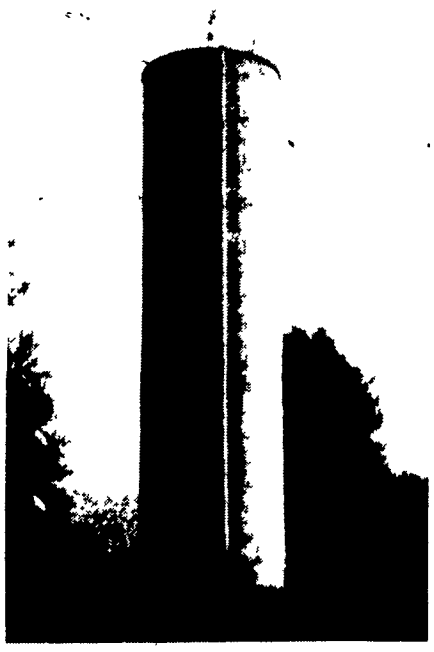
"Consider The Concrete Advantages"



The best storage system for high moisture cob corn is a poured concrete SOLLENBERGER SILO, with bottom unloading. The feed can be safely stored at less than 30% moisture, air is effectively excluded limiting mold growth, the silo is equipped with a distributor to keep separation to a minimum which means more efficient unloading and consistent ration. The 6" solid concrete wall reflects heat meaning that heat damage is minimized and feed is kept cooler. Now Is "Decision Time". Make Plans Now To Have Your Sollenberger Silo Erected In Time To Store Your High Moisture Ground Ear Corn.

SLANT BACK J BUNK H-BUNK

Let Us Know Your Needs. We Can Deliver From Our Large Inventory And Set On Your Prepared Site. OR: We Can Load On Your Truck To Help Save On Freight Costs. We Have Several Sizes And Styles To Choose From, Plus Metal Posts, For Cable, Which Can Be Bolted To The Bunk To Keep Cattle Out.

MANURE STORAGE SYSTEMS

- Manure Storage Systems For The Small Herd - or The 400 Cow Herds And Larger.
- Systems Adaptable To Any Type Equipment
- SCS Approved
- Circular Tanks Poured-In-Place Above Ground - In Ground - Or Uneven Backfill.
- Pre-Cast Concrete panels Delivered And Set On Your Prepared Site.

CONSIDER THE ADVANTAGES OF HIGH MOISTURE EAR CORN

Farmers who use ground shelled corn rather than ground ear corn when putting up high moisture corn (HMC) are not only leaving the cob in the field, but they are leaving at least $150. worth of milk per acre of corn in the field.

These remarks were made by Dr. Howard Larson, noted Mid-Western dairy nutritionist and management specialist.

Further comments based upon years of research included:

* Any amount of cob is better than none.
* It is not economically feasible nor best for the cow to feed high moisture shelled corn.
* It is not necessary to feed hay to dairy cows.

When cob is included with the grian, you not only get an extra 10 to 12 percent HMC by weight, but you get better digestibility in your cows. By adding the cob to the ration, you keep a floor of fiber under the total ration and fiber can supply a lot of energy; and you get better rumen action.

PRE-CAST BUNKER SILOS

"THE ECONOMICAL CHOICE"
STORAGE FOR ANY FORAGE
Also Suitable For Grain Storage, And Practically Any Other Bulk Material.

The Sollenberger Pre-Cast Bunker Silo Panel Is Designed To Be Free-Standing. With The Tongue and Groove Edges. It Can Be Coated With Mastic & Bolted Together To Give An Air-Tight Smooth Wall That's Easy To Pack And "Keeps Feed Good." Delivered And Set On Your Prepared Gravel Base.

Give Your Pigs A Headstart To Market.

There's an old saying that goes, "well begun is half done." Those are words to remember if you want to get the most for your pigs come market time. Something else to remember is the Master Mix line of starter feeds: Crate-Mate, Premawean and Premapig.

Crate-Mate is the sow replacer that gets even your smallest runts and orphans off to a healthy, profitable start. And Premawean/Premapig is the two phase program that gets your pigs in and out of the nursery with the fastest, leanest gains in the business.

Talk to your Master Mix dealer today. Because if you want to give your pigs a healthy headstart to market, you'll want to give them the Master Mix line of starter feeds.

CRATE-MATE™
THE SOW REPLACER

Premawean™
EARLY WEANING RATION

Premapig™
STARTER RATION

This Little Piggy Went To Market.

If you're looking to increase your operation's profits, getting runts and orphaned pigs to market is a whole lot better than the alternative. And thanks to Crate-Mate, the pelleted sow replacer from Master Mix, little guys like this can get off to a healthier and potentially more profitable start.

But Crate-Mate does more than just reduce your litter's mortality rate. It can be an integral part of your entire early weaning program. Crate-Mate's special formula allows your pigs to extract more nutrition from the feed, for faster and more efficient gains. And the quicker they get into the nursery, the faster you realize your profits.

If you're looking to increase the efficiency of your early weaning program, talk to your Master Mix dealer. Because when it comes to getting little piggies to market, nothing works like Crate-Mate.

Shepherds From Across Nation Attend Maryland Festival

SHARON B. SCHUSTER
Maryland Correspondent

Howard, Co., MD — The sixteenth annual Sheep and Wool Festival drew shepherds from across the national to particpate in the event, which was sponsored by the Maryland Sheep Breeders Association. The Howard County fairgrounds was the setting for sheep shows, sales and booths showcasing clothing, crafts, and foods.

This year the shows for black and white Lincoln sheep were designated as national level shows. Breeders from as far west as Washington and east from New York were joined by a host of others from points in between and from Canada, seeking national recognition for their large wooly breed of sheep.

Steve Kruse of Decatur, Il., was named premiere exhibitor in the white Lincoln class. He captured the championship in both the ram and ewe shows with his yearling animals.

The long trip from Ontario proved to be worthwhile for William Gardhouse whose yearling ewe and ram took champion and reserve champion places respectively. He also was named premiere exhibitor in this national show. Gardhouse's yearling ewe brought the top bid of $450 at the sale following the shows. Ron Chacey who traveled from Ohio showed the champion ram in the black Lincoln show.

While more than 600 sheep were shown over two days, the crowd enjoyed more than 30 exhibits of exotic breeds of sheep, and more than 200 displays of crafts, lustrous fleeces tied in fluffy bundles, spinners, weavers, photographs, art and savory lamb dishes.

Karen Mullen of Frederick County was named Maryland Lamb and Wool Queen. The 15-year-old daughter of Barbara and Sam Mullen, who was named princess at last year's festival, raises Border-Cheviot sheep. The bright eyed queen with the flashy smile is quick to promote the sheep industry by wearing wool fashions that she has made using her spinning and weaving skills. One question about the petite Border-Cheviots in her display pen yielded a wealth of information about the history of this mountain breed from their knowledgeable shepherd.

Wolves in Sheeps clothing took first place sheep-to-shawl contest. In the three-hour time allotted, the all-male group sheared the sheep, carded the wool, spun the fleece, and wove the yarn into a beautiful shawl in hues of rose and heather. The group also took first place in the sheep-to-shawl contest at the Maryland State Fair.

Eleanor Grivakis of Ellicott City won first place in the Grand Lamb Cook-off with her Stuffed Zucchini Avgolemono. Marilyn Cooney of Westminster and Connee Sheckler of Arbutus took second and third places in the cook-off.

Lisa McWilliams of Ohio was named Best All Around Junior Spinner.

Results of the various sheep shows are below.

Karren Mullen, Festival Queen, hands a first-place ribbon to Teresa Kruse, whose sheep was tops in the national Lincoln show.

Graduate Scholarships Offered

Two $2,500 scholarships for graduate-level work in sheep-related studies are being offered by the National Wool Growers Association's Sheep Heritage Foundation. The scholarships are given annually to students showing promise in sheep research. Applications are available through the American Sheep Industry Association, NWGA Memorial Scholarship, 200 Clayton St., Denver, CO 80206. Applications must be postmarked by June 1.

Rabbit Conference Scheduled

EBENSBURG (Cambria Co.) — Mark your calendar and come to the 1989 Pennsylvania Rabbit Conference, Saturday, June 3, at the fairgrounds in Ebensburg on US Rts. 219, 422 and 22, west of Altoona. REGISTRATION DEADLINE is May 24. Registration is $10 for adults, youth under 16 are free, and $7.50 is the cost for dinner. Make checks payable to Cambria County Cooperative Extension. No fee is being charged for Rare Rabbit Show or the Wet Lab — but registration is required with Ron Hostetler. Limited space for Show and Wet Lab so a limited number will be taken. The program includes talks on health, disease, parasites, nutrition, breeding preparation for show, market development and management. Linda Claar will be present to speak on the Pennsylvania Rabbit Breeders Association.

Mail registration materials to: Ron Hostetler, Cambria County Extension, County Services Building, Box 390, Ebensburg, PA 15931; 814 472-7986.

New Use For Medium-Grade Wool

Medium-grade wools are being transformed into "supersoft" yarns through a chemical softening treatment developed by Wellman Industries of Johnsonville, N.C. The process, trademarked "Lustersoft" by Wellman, can be used on combed wool and sliver. The new process make 25 micron wool feel like 22 micron wool and 22s feel like cashmere with a washable end product.

Kent Manufacturing Co. is using the Lustersoft process in production of their "Kensoft" wool yarn. "Another promising application of the Lustersoft process is the comfort sleep industry," said Tucker Woodbury, wool marketing and promotion director of the American Sheep Industry Association. "It's a natural for mattress pads, pillows, blankets, and comforters."

HAVE YOU CHECKED YOUR SHEEP MINERALS LATELY?

It has been said that a stockman must pay whatever the cost for a mineral that is needed or go out of business. On the other hand, a mineral that is not needed could be costly even as a gift. Some minerals in excess are bad.

The following brief discussion will be on which minerals your sheep need.

The animal body contains approximately 40 mineral elements, many of which are present just because they are constituents of feeds. There are only 15, however, that can be described with certainty as nutritionally essential. Nutritionally essential means that they have been shown to have a specific metabolic role and that animals cannot live and reproduce unless they are present in the diet.

These 15 essential minerals are divided into major minerals and trace minerals depending entirely on the relative amounts needed by the animals. The seven major minerals include sodium (Na), chlorine (Cl), calcium (Ca), phosphorus (P), magnesium (Mg), potassium (K) and sulfur (S). Because they are needed in larger amounts, we measure their need as a percent of the diet.

The other eight minerals are trace minerals and are measured in parts per million (ppm) in the diet. They are iodine (I), cobalt (Co), manganese (Mn), zinc (Zn), selenium (Se), copper (Cu), molybdenum (Mo) and iron (Fe). Sheep obtain minerals from only three sources—feed, water, and supplements.

Three of the 15 essential minerals are classified as toxic when consumed in large amounts; they are Cu, Se and Mo. Four nonessential toxic minerals are flourine, lead, cadmium and mercury.

•P for bone growth and energy metabolism.

SALT

—Requirement: Na is .09-.18% of diet, Cl is unknown.

—Forage contains .10-.15% Na.

—This probably supplies 2X requirement.

CALCIUM, PHOSPHORUS

—Needed with Vitamin D for bone growth

—20% P in body

—Good feed sources: Ca in legumes, P in grains and protein supplement

—Crucifer pasture increases need.

—Great Lakes Region is a "Goiter Belt".

ZINC

—Requirement for reproduction 33 ppm.

—Alfalfa hay has 18-27 ppm, bluegrass 22 ppm, oats 37 ppm, corn 14 ppm

MANGANESE

—Requirement for reproduction higher than growth.

New York Sheep Producers, USDA Unite In Coyote Control Program

ALFRED, NY — Last month, New York's Coyote Damage Control Program began operating under a new one-year cooperative agreement with Empire Sheep Producers Cooperative.

The interim agreement is between the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) and Empire, according to Professor Lee LaRochelle of the animal science faculty at Alfred State College and Tom Tomsa of Avoca, USDA district supervisor, who signed the formal pact.

LaRochelle, a director of Empire and chairman of its animal damage control committee, said an interim agreement was necessary because a previous three-year agreement between USDA and the NYS Dept. of Agriculture and Markets was terminated after two years. State funds for the third year of the program were not appropriated.

The one-year agreement with USDA calls for Empire to fund a portion of program costs through member dues, LaRochelle explained.

LaRochelle and Tomsa report that based on figures compiled by the New York Agricultural Statistics Service, sheep producers lost an estimated 4,100 sheep, with a value of $321,300 to coyotes from 1985-87.

They said the estimate may be low due to a bias toward attributing losses to dogs because of existing dog damage indemnity payments.

In 1987 and 1988, cooperative program staff received 57 reports of coyote depredations on 181 sheep from 33 sheep producers and entered agreements to conduct operational control activities on 15 sheep farms.

Preventive management recommendations, including pasture mowing, carrion removal, night confinement, guard dogs, scare devices, and electric fencing were made where appropriate, and 12 coyotes were taken on or near 8 of these farms, the two reported.

They said that this year, program assistance will continue in the form of recommendations and operational control activities to remove offending coyotes where sheep losses are occurring.

LaRochelle said sheep producers should be aware that this control program will be operating at a reduced level during the one-year period. If industry and/or state funds are not restored to a matching level during this time, the cooperative agreement will not be renewed and the program will be terminated March 31, 1990, he announced.

For further information or to report sheep losses to coyotes, Tomsa may be contacted at his home at Avoca RD 1, Box 79, or reached by phone at 607/566-2082. To report sheep kills only, the number to call evenings and weekends is 607/583-2745.

What Would It Be Like Without Technology?

By Dr. Richard Barczewski
Extension Agent
University of Delaware

With all the hoopla about animal rights that's been in the press and on T.V. lately, have you ever wondered what life would be like without some of the technologies and practices that we currently employ? We don't have to wonder any more about animal production without sub-therapeutic levels of antibiotics. We can look at Sweden and see the results. A recent issue of "Large Animal Veterinarian" contained an article on Sweden's ban of sub-therapeutic levels of antibiotics for use as growth promoters.

Before I get to the article, let's review the anti-biotic feeding concerns. Many groups think that feeding low levels of antibioitics to pigs for their growth-promoting effects may result in resistant strains or bacteria that would pose a threat to public health. Another common concern is drug residue in meat and all of its ramifications.

Recently, reported levels of antibiotics found in certain food products have been a concern. After all, if proper guidelines and procedures were followed, residues should not have been in the food products. Fortunately, things are getting better on that front as evidenced by the recent sulfametazine scare, and the pork industry's quick action to request producers to voluntarily stop the use of sulfamethazine.

Now back to the article. Three years ago Sweden banned the use of sub-therapeutic levels of antibioitics for growth promotion in an effort to reduce public concern about residues in the meat. Producers themselves believed that doing this would help to increase the demand for pork.

The only increase that they got, however, was in the cost of producing pork. The profitable advantages associated with increased feed efficiency as a result of sub-therapeutic levels of antibiotics were lost. Feed needs increased at least by 70,000 tons at a cost of $20 million. The most surprisingly factor was that the need for therapeutic uses of antibiotics increased!

Prior to the ban, piglet scours affected 10-15 percent of the herds. Scours soared up to a 50 percent rate after the sub-therapeutic levels were eliminated. The article also reported that some individuals in Sweden believe that the ban on sub-therapeutic levels of antibiotics for hogs has not affected the total amount of antibiotics used. In other words, therapeutic levels of antibiotics used to produce hogs have increased, even though the sub-therapeutic levels were eliminated.

I can't help but wonder whatever made the pig producers in Sweden think that eliminating low-level antibiotics from the feed would increase pork demand by any great extent. It was obvious to any researcher who has studied the effects of antibiotics as growth promoters that their elimination would result in poorer performance. This occurrence in Sweden gives us some key things to think about. As I mentioned earlier, there have been numerous public concerns over antibiotics and antibiotic residues in food. Recently, when I was involved in a program to discuss the ways in which the livestock industry is changing to meet consumer demands, two key issues were brought up by the consumers in the audience. These were concerns over drug residues in meat and the concern of hormonees in meat.

We know that by adhering to the proper withdrawal times of feed additives, residues are not a problem. Why then do residues occur? The reason for the problem is that occasioinally people goof. Certain types of additives tend to adhere to mixing equipment and can contaminate the next batch of feed mixed in the mixer. Additionally, contaminated feed from one batch that remains in the bin can result in residues. Finally, manure and urine from treated animals is also a source of possible contamination.

That's why we need to do our best to avoid any problems. I honestly believe that we have one of the safest food supplies in the world. All livestock producers have an obligation to do their best to see that it stays that way.

We now have an actual situation where sub-therapeutic levels of antibiotics were eliminated and can study the results of that decision. We know that consumers are concerned about residues, and we know how to avoid residues. By eliminating these residues we'll also eliminate some of the public concerns that directly affect our industry.

Lancaster County Firms Fined By New York

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — R.W. Sauder Inc. of Lititz and Full Spectrum Farms of Manheim received a slap on the hand from New York state for marketing their eggs as being lower in cholesterol than average.

The Lancaster County egg dealers are being fined a total of $2,980, according to Joseph Ferrara of New York's Department of Agriculture & Markets.

Sauder claims to have eggs with cholesterol levels 25 percent lower than current the U.S. Department of Agriculture's standards, a claim substantiated by Lancaster Laboratories Inc and Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

The company withdrew its lowered-cholesterol eggs from New York after receiving written notification from the state earlier this year.

Full Spectrum Farms, the first firm in the nation to advertise lower-cholesterol eggs, packages its eggs in cartons declaring 185 milligrams of cholesterol per egg versus the 274 milligrams found in regular eggs.

John H. Albright, president of Full Spectrum, said he pulled his eggs out of New York after notification from the state in late February or early March.

New York officials feel that because the 274-milligram cholesterol level isn't a benchmark set by the USDA, the Lancaster County companies' claims are false. In addition, because USDA is expected to release new data this month reporting the cholesterol level of large eggs as 220 milligrams, New York state officials claim the eggs should be under 150 milligrams to be considered lower in cholesterol.

PDA supports the egg dealers, however.

"In the opinion of the department, based on random testing we've done, we've never found them to be misrepresented," said John W. Scott, chief of poultry, egg, fruit, and vegetable inspection. "Our contention is, compared to the USDA standard, they have not been misleading ever. The customer has not been hoodwinked."

Self-Propelled Mower Conditioner Offered By Gehl

WEST BEND, WI — Gehl Company's diesel-powered Model 2650 self-propelled mower conditioner can handle even the biggest hay harvesting chores.

"Even the longest, hottest haymaking day is easier thanks to the Model 2650's high capacity, smooth hydrostatic drive, and operator comfort features," according to Gehl Company Haytool Product Manager Jim Phillips.

The unit's cab is located out over the header for maximum visibility and confident control over the entire cutting operation. Maneuverability is excellent.

"The Model 2650 cab helps the operator work at maximum efficiency, too, and features full instrumentation, standard air conditioning, and a quiet, "easy chair" cockpit," explains Phillips.

The smooth 14'3" auger header gently transfers crop to the conditioning rolls for thorough crop conditioning. Hinged panels provide complete access to all service and maintenance points.

"The 2650 is designed with fewer moving parts than most competitors, so it delivers greater reliability with less maintenance," according to Phillips.

For more informationa contact Richard Burckardt, Marketing Services Manager, the Gehl Company, West Bend, WI 53095, telephone 414/334-9461.

Hesse Named President Of Automatic

PENDER, NE — At its annual Stockholders and Board of Directors meeting, Jay Hesse was appointed president of Automatic Equipment Manufacturing Co.

Automatic manufactures roller mills, mist sprayers and soilmover scrapers for the agricultural industry. The company also manufactures several products for the automotive industry and recreation field.

Hesse, formerly vice president and director of marketing & sales, succeeds his brother, Selwyn, who now serves as chairman of the board. Gerald Karlen will serve as vice president.

Other changes within the company include the promotion of Ed Nemecek from project engineer to material and production manager, and Roger Hoefs, formerly shipping foreman, is Automatic's customer service manager. Tom Nitzschke will remain as physical distribution manager and Marty Krohn as engineering manager.

"We're very excited to have this young, aggressive leadership within our company," said Hesse.

For further details contact Automatic Equipment Mfg. Co., Department NR, One Mill Road, Pender, Nebraska 68047.

Worksaver Presents Hopper Seeder/Spreader

Litchfield, Il. — Worksaver Inc. is introducing its new three-bushel capacity Poly Hopper Seeder/Spreader, Model EPHS-33 HD, that is ideal for year-round use to spread various materials such as dry sodium chloride for ice control and fertilizer and seed.

The Poly Hopper is translucent to allow quick checking of content level, resists rust, corrosion, and punctures and does not crack or loose its shape in extreme temperature changes.

Engineered with adjustable brace rods that provide quick rigid mounting, the Poly Hopper can be attached to pick-ups, tractor draw bars and a variety of other vehicles. The unit features a heavy-duty 12V electric motor with hopper agitator and a positive seed gate control with adjustable lock scale plate.

The seeder/spreader comes complete with wiring harness. An optional extension that increases the Poly Hopper's capacity to six bushels is available.

For more information contact Worksaver, Inc., P.O. Box 1000, Litchfield, IL 62056, telephone 217/324-5973.

BACS Accepting Nitrogen Soil Test Requests

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — If you live in southeastern Pennsylvania and would like a Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service (BASC) field technician to take a nitrogen soil test in one or several fields, call the office at 717/627-0065.

BASC will be receiving a Penn State nitrogen soil test meter on May 20. From that point on, nitrogen soil test results may be available two days after the test is taken. The test will determine the amount of available nitrogen in the soil from manure. This information will allow for a more accurate sidedress nitrogen rate to be determined. The cost for results on each sample is $8.

Farmhand Offers One-Step Tillage Machine

EXCELSIOR, MN — A one-step primary tillage machine for conservation tillage has been introduced by Farmhand, Inc. The new Glencoe SS7400 Soil Saver slices crop residues, then incorporates it into an erosion-resistant blanket. It protects the valuable topsoil as it retains essential plant nutrients to promote healthier, more uniform plant stands and higher yields. Alternate shank spacing offers the choice of ridged or non-ridged soil surface. The Soil Saver is available with auto-reset, spring-cushion or rigid shanks and working widths from 6'3" to 21'3".

Farmhand manufactures loaders, grinding and tillage equipment at its manufacturing facility in Grinnell, Iowa. For more information, contact the corporate office at Farmhand, Inc., P.O. Box 1500, Excelsior, MN 55331.

Conagra May Boost Bid For Holly Farms

NEW YORK, NY — Officials of the Memphis-based Holly Farms Corp. said that they had received indications that Conagra Inc., one of its two would-be purchasers, was prepared to pay substantially more than the $63.50-a-share offer from Tyson Foods Inc., the other bidder.

The latest skirmish in the wars over ownership of Holly Farms, this newest move is in response to a hurried auction of the company last weekend. The auction, scrapped at the last moment, was to have picked the best bid from Tyson or Conagra with a winner being announced on Sunday.

When asked why Holly had announced a plan to conclude the auction so quickly, Ted Bailey, a Holly vice president, said the company wanted to bring a quick resolution, but added that it would not rule out pursuing its own reorganization plan.

Until last week's flurry of activity, the three companies were stalemated as an agreement between Conagra and Holly blocked an earlier Tyson bid. The agreement, which gave Conagra the right to buy a large part of Holly if any other company buys 50 percent of the stock, is keeping Tyson from completing its tender offer unless the agreement is thrown out by the courts, a process that could take months.

Walter H. Casey, a Conagra vice president, said Tyson had offered a monetary settlement to induce Conagra to cancel the lockup deal.

PDA Announces Ag-Research Projects For Possible Funding

HARRISBURG — Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff today announced that 63 research projects have been selected for potential funding in the 1989-90 fiscal year.

The projects, which include 40 new studies and 23 continued from previous years, would be conducted by researchers at Pennsylvania State University, the University of Pennsylvania and the Delaware Valley College of Science and Agriculture.

"This is an example of Pennsylvania's continuing commitment to its No. 1 industry, agriculture," Wolff said. "Research represents the seed for the growth of agriculture and the state's prosperity.

"Hand-in-hand with the Commonwealth's farmland preservation program, research will help us meet today's challenges and prepare for a better tomorrow."

The 63 projects were sejected and approved by tahe department's Agricultural Research Committee, consisting of four members of the General Assembly, Wolff and other department officials. The projects are selected before the start of the new fiscal year so there is no delay if funding is provided in the 1989-90 budget.

Most of the 40 new studies represent two- or three-year projects, which will be reviewed annually. The 23 studies begun in previous years were deemed worthy of renewed funding, Wolff said.

The new projects and their funding for the 1989-90 fiscal year are:

PENN STATE

Mushroom storage to increase shelf life, $31,003; improved quality of Pennsylvania wines, $38,717; reproductive responses of swine to somatotropin withdrawal, $31,287; extended sheep forage, $35,410; computerized sorting of fruits and vegetables, $47,129; veal research, $30,401; grazing systems for beef cattle and sheep, $35,501.

Tomato spotted wilt virus, $33,2067; maize response to drought, $34,950; biological controls for mushroom diseases, $32,222; survey of integrated pest management, $30,375; potato blight disease, $20,203; biological control of leaf diseases, $27,256; chemical spraying equipment, $9,098; integrated weed management for row crops, $23,662.

Christmas tree integrated pest management, $37,514; orchard pesticide safety, $24,626; integrated pest management of Colorado potato beetle, $33,156; water quality and pest management for intensive production, $34,640; pesticide runoff and leaching from tillage, $31,175; uses for spent mushroom compost, $35,000; improved poultry processing, $34,206.

Cooking consumer-ready beef, $19,023; egg cholesterol genetics, $41,681; detection of avian influenza viruses, $34,039; pseudorabies virus in vaccinated pigs, $39,772; swine housing ventilation, $15,268: and salmonella enteritidis in egg-laying hens, $37,764.

UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Poultry salmonella epidemiology, $34,100; mare superovulation, $33,844; bovine leukemia virus in heifers, $27,102; sheep pneumonia, $36,255; DNA study of laryngotracheitis, $39,641; breeding and economic efficiency in lactation dairy cattle, $19,430; sexual dysfunction in bulls and boars, $29,070; DNA vaccines against cattle respiratory diseases, $45,500; and genetics of pig litter sizes, $42,355.

DELAWARE VALLEY COLLEGE

Early maturing tomatoes for southeastern Pennsylvania, $32,000; adaptability of peach trees to soil conditions, $39,800; and composting organic wastes on farms, $34,553.

Continuing projects approved for renewed funding are:

PENN STATE

Biological control of forage diseases, $29,500; corn production, $34,533; growth in broiler chickens, $35,013; mushroom packaging, $34,558; poultry layer-house gases, $28,315; spent mushroom compost, $35,825; plant disease control, $15,967.

Also, control of tufted apple bud moth, $18,031; mile-a-minute weed control, $3,899; crop management, $35,088; fruit and vegetable post-harvest loss, $83,628; mastitis in dairy cows, $23,372; and salmonella detection, $15,953.

UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Drug detection in animals, $125,000; bovine leukemia virus in dairy cows, $25,836; pneumonia virus in sheep, $54,765; wildlife pseudorabies, $62,786; salmonella infection in egg-laying hens, $39,750; bovine leukemia virus protection, $39,750; swine litter size, $34,448; and epidemiology internship, $300,000.

Corn Refiners Shipped 40 Billions Pounds

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Member companies of the Corn Refiners Association, Inc., shipped 38.7 billion pounds of refined corn products in 1988, up 5.6 percent from record 1987 levels.

"Despite problems like the drought, the corn refining industry is continuing to grow and use more corn every year," said Robert C Liebenow, president of the CRA "With new developments like degradable plastics, cyclodextrins and citric acid, we expect wet milling to become even more important to the corn economy and to consumers in the 1990s."

Domestic shipments of starches increased to 4.6 billion pounds in 1988, while sweetener shipments reached 21.5 billion pounds. Shipments of 42 percent high fructose corn syrup made major gains, reaching 6.3 billion pounds; 55 percent and higher HFCS shipments totalled 8.7 billion pounds.

Industry exports totalled over 10.4 billion pounds, according to Department of Commerce statistics The greatest growth occurred in starch and sweetener exports, up a striking 14 percent, followed by oil exports, up 13 percent. Feed product exports, however, increased only one percent.

Total shipments, domestic and export, of corn gluten feed, the industry's most important co-product, reached 9.5 billion pounds. Corn gluten meal shipments totalled 1.7 billion pounds, and corn oil shipments reached 1.1 billion pounds.

CRA shipment statistics, in pounds commercial weight, are compiled for the trade association by the independent accounting firm of Ernst & Whinney

30 YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

-Lancaster County farmers are being reminded once again of the profit offered to hay products through the use of controlled curing methods. Joseph McCurdy, Penn State Extension engineer, visited in the county recently with several local farmers, in company with County Agent Max M. Smith.

McCurdy urged farmers producing reasonably large hay crops or fifty tons or more to consider "artificial" or forced-air drying of their crops.

This system, he pointed out, eliminates some of the weather risks in hay making, freeing the farmer from dependence on field curing to enable him to get his crop in while retaining quality.

-Society of Farm Women No. 6 met May 10, in the home of Mrs. Milton Eberly, Elizabethtown R3. Society president Mrs. Clayton Frey presided, with Mrs. Paul Hess in charge of devotions.

Members voted donations to International Farm Youth Exchange and Meals for Millions. It was voted to entertain Society 14 at the June 6 meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Eberly showed slides of the 1958 European trip.

Cohostesses were Mrs. Hess, Mrs. Jacob Miller, and Mrs. John Gray.

-Lancaster-"The migration to suburbs by thousands of families continues to create new problems in the nature of water supply and waste disposal," according to Cliff Lehman, Water Conditioning Consultant for Century Appliance Co., 15 W. Chestnut Street. Many suburban and fringe area dwellers live beyond the municipality protected water sources and must rely on their own private water and sewage systems.

With the wide adoption of chlorine-treated water, the civil population have enjoyed a freedom from typhoid and other waterborne diseases. But the rapid shift of population to rural areas has brought back the fearful spectre of typhoid.

-Dairy scientists at the Pennsylvania State University are studying the chemical nature of fresh milk flavor.

By identifying thge chemical compounds responsible for the "fresh" flavor of milk, they hope to find means of preserving them in concentrated milk products, thus giving the latter the "fresh" taste of regular milk.

At present, it is explained, the concentrated milk products tend to lose some of the comnpounds that product the fresh flavor.

To date, ten compounds have been isolated from distilled fresh milk and are being analyzed.

-Lancaster County Soil Conservation District directors this week accepted applications of 11 new conservation cooperators for membership in the district. The new members increased the district roster to 1784 county farmers.

Those signing conservation agreements and their farm sizes were:

John H. Charles, Millersville-1, 91 acres; Lester R. Hackman, Lititz 1, 14; Harold M. Zimmerman, Ephrata 1, 48; John S. Brubaker, Lititz 1, 39; John Habecker, Lanc 1, 62; Marion and Clifford W. Holloway, Peach Bottom, 2 acres.

Also, Martin E. Peifer, Christiana 1, 141; W. Loyd Brabson, Peach Bottom, 21; Maurice G. Herr, Refton, 99; Allen K. Risser, Bareville 1, 70; and Charles Ranck, Leola, 116 acres.

Betonte Named Cumberland County Extension 4-H Agent

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — Anthony Betonte has been appointed Penn State Cooperative Extension agent for 4-H/Youth in Cumberland County.

Betonte's primary duty is implementing and organizing informal education programs for adult volunteer leaders and 4-H members. He would like to see current 4-H programs in Cumberland County offered in urban areas. "Four-H programs can help kids understand the world around them."

"Meet the Plants" is one 4-H project he would like to redesign for the city environment in Cumberland County. Betonte envisions adding a component where youth can evaluate the local environment. "Looking at ways of dealing with waste and litter, for instance, would help 4-H'ers develop their own sense of what's needed in their community."

Before his appointment Betonte served as a county extension agent at West Virginia University. He was responsible for the formation of the Boone County 4-H Foundation. He chaired a campaign to clean up illegal dumping areas and conducted intercultural weekend camping and summer day camps.

Betonte has received awards from the West Virginia 4-H Extension Agents Association for outstanding service in fund-raising.

Before becoming a 4-H agent Betonte worked in Australia, Italy, Canada, and several U.S. cities in various community development projects.

Call Issued For 5-Acre Corn Club Entrants

Pennsylvania's Five Acre Corn club has announced its requirements for membership during the 1989 award season.

The club provides farmers with the opportunity to compete for corn-growing awards and compare the results of their production efforts with other state growers. The Five Acre Corn Club's yield summaries provide information on the yield effects of soil types and fertility levels, pH levels, plant populations, row spacings, weed control, crop rotations and other variables.

Local farmers can enroll in the club by completing an official entry form before July 1 at their Penn State Cooperative Extension office. Enrollees must be at least 18 years of age. Only one entry is permitted per farm or farm operator.

The production field must have an area of no less than five acres. If the field area is contoured, two or more strips on the same slope may be included in the five acres. At harvest, all strips must be sampled in the yield determinations. The acreage must be planted with a single variety of corn.

The production field also must have had a Penn State University soil test within the past two years. Tests done in 1989 must be dated by May 1.

Participants may enroll in one of five class categories: shelled corn harvest, ear corn harvest, irrigated field and three acre harvest samples for both shelled and ear corn.

There is also a three-year average award category. All participants are eligible for these awards as long as they have competed for three consecutive years in the same harvest class. A class must have five or more entrants for an award to be given.

Last year's champions are ineligible for any of this year's awards. However, they may participate this year to maintain continuity for the 1990 three-year average award. Last year's three-year average champions are ineligible to compete for a Corn Club trophy this year.

For more information contact your crops agent at the County Extension Office.

PFU Purchases New Headquarters

HARRISBURG — Late last week the Pennsylvania Farmers Union purchased a property that will become its new headquarters.

"Our new location is centrally located about half a mile from the Capitol in a highly visible area," said Allen Dieter, president of the organization.

The property is located at 1337 N. Front St., Harrisburg.

Protect your Poultry all year round with DURACOOL

DURACOOL's white elastomeric roof coating system is designed to solve roofing problems including heat buildup, rust and general deterioration and water leakage

1 DURACOOL keeps out heat Interior house temperatures are reduced by 4 to 12 degrees meaning cooler birds, less mortality, better feed conversion and potential energy savings

2 DURACOOL coating extends life of current roof by many years Containing a strong rust inhibitor, DURACOOL may be applied directly over a rusty surface and has a design life of 12-15 years

3 DURACOOL seals the roof of any minor pre-existing leaks Nails stay tight

4 DURACOOL is sold by the square foot, installed, and with a five year warranty by authorized distributor/applicators

DURACOOL gives you a new roof with a cooler inside temperature at a fraction of the cost of new metal! References furnished upon request

Revised Manure Haulers Directory Available

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — The revised "Custom Manure Haulers Directory for Southeastern Pennsylvania" now is available. The directory lists both individuals and businesses that haul manure in southeastern Pennsylvania.

This year's updated and revised directory is based on a survey of custom manure haulers in southeastern Pennsylvania, an area where animal agriculture is prominent. Dr. Les Lanyon, Penn State associate professor of soil fertility, guided the revision of last spring's original directory.

The directory is designed to give area farmers alternatives for dealing with excess manure. It consists of a list of haulers organized by manure type and county of operation, with descriptions of the haulers' services and equipment.

Farmers can look up their county and the manure type they have on their farm and find a list of haulers to meet their needs. The directory features information on contacting listed businesses, and also includes questionnaires to be filled out by any area manure haulers who are not represented in the new directory but would like to be listed in future editions.

One copy of the directory is available for use at all Penn State Cooperative Extension county offices and conservation district offices in southeastern Pennsylvania. Personal copies can be ordered free of charge directly from Dr. Lanyon, 216 Tyson Building, University Park, PA 16802.

Rodeo Comes To Lancaster County

LANCASTER — Saddle Cinches 4-H Club is sponsoring a professional championship rodeo at the Buck Tractor Pull Stadium on Monday, May 29, at 2:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m.

The rodeo will feature 100 to 200 cowboys from across the nation to compete in events such bareback bronc riding, steer wrestling, saddle bronc riding, brahma bull riding, calf roping, cowgirl's barrel race, and team steer roping.

In addition, 19-year-old S.L. Pemberton, a trick roper and Roman rider will perform. Pemberton was voted the best in the nation by the International Professional Rodeo Association. Other featured performers include Steve Harpster, a professional rodeo clown and bullfighter, and "Johnny Angel", the American Rodeo Association's Bucking Bull of the Year.

During each show, a stick horse race will be held featuring children six years old and younger from the audience.

Cost of admission is $6.50 for adults in advance and $7.50 at the gate. Tickets for children four to 12 years old are $2.50 in advance and $3.50 at the gate. Children under four are free.

Tickets may be purchased at the Leather Attic in Park City, Maplehofe Farm Dairy in Quarryville, Cape Horn Corner in Red Lion, and Deerskin Leather in Intercourse.

The stadium is located 10 miles south of Lancaster on Route 272.

Veterinarian Speaks At Local Cattleman's Meeting

Leesport (Berks Co.) — The Berks County Cattlemen's Association held its spring meeting on Thursday, April 27, 1989 at the Berks County Agricultural Center. Dr. Lynn Sammons, of Willow Creek Animal Hospital, Reading, was the featured speaker. He discussed a new method of parasite control for cattle on pasture, rabies vaccination, and bovine herd health programs.

Sammons led off the discussion of parasite control by referencing information provided by the manufacturers of Safe-Guard dewormer. A map of the United States showed that cattle producers in most of Pennsylvania should be deworming their cattle in early May and then repeating the deworming in three weeks in order to control the brown stomach worm. This schedule corresponds to the grass growing conditions, and is therefore later for the most norther regions of the state. Sammons noted only certain products will kill the brown stomach worm during the inhibited stage. He cited Safe-Guard and Ivomec as two which do have positive results.

Sammons told the cattlemen that if their cows are exhibiting diarrhea, they should suspect parasites as the cause before blaming the condition on Johne's disease. "The number one cause of diarrhea in cows is parasites," he stressed. Sammons also noted six-month-old calves are the greatest risk for parasite damage since they have not developed the natural immunity of adult cattle. He stressed the need to deworm young replacement heifers in the fall.

Along with the brown stomach worm, Sammons listed several other economically important parasites: coccidia and crytosporidia. "Coccidia loves a dark, moist environment," he said. "It can be dealt with by treating sick calves for five days once the symptoms occur, or by preventing the occurrence by drenching the calves for 21 days with a Corid solution." Other drugs which work on coccidia include Rumensin and Bovatec, he added.

Sammons cautioned the cattlemen that there is no treatment for cryptosporidia. "This parasite hits when calves are three or four days old," he said. "The best way to avoid it is to keep the calving area clean and dry." Sammons cautioned the cattlemen to avoid touching the contaminated feces of an infected calf, especially those who are undergoing chemotherapy, who have no spleen, or who suffer from AIDS, since this parasite can affect humans.

On the subject of rabies, Sammons advised cattle producers to consider vaccinating their animals, especially those located east of Route 183. He noted that Berks County is second in the state for positive rabies cases. Last year, Sammons said, their clinic vaccinated more than 7,000 cattle. He advised that rabies vaccinations are protection for the farmer more than for the cow. "You vaccinate not because of the rabid skunk you see bite a cow in your herd, but for the one you didn't see," he observed. "You don't want to find out that sick cow whose mouth you've got your hand in has rabies after she bites you."

Finally, Sammons recommended a herd health program for cattle producers should include vaccinating against IBR and Leptospirosis in the fall, and vaccinating against brucellosis when heifers are four to nine months old. Other diseases, such as bluetongue and anaplasmosis, have not been a problem in the Berks County area.

The Association's board of directors discussed several business items, including: a summer field trip; the selection of a youth representative; participation in the Scenic River Festival; propoosed store promotion programs; future changes to the Meat Animal Evaluation Center at State College; a membership directory; and the audit report.

This year's Berks Cattlemen's field trip will be on July 15. The Association will be sponsoring a bus trip to Gettysburg for the state Cattlemen's Association Field Day. Young people interested in serving as a Berks Beef Industry Representative will be asked to voluntarily participate in the activities of the association during the Scenic River Festival, Reading, in July. The Association will select the county representative at its October Annual Meeting. The Association will be participating in the state Beef Council's point-of-purchase promotion program in August. And, preliminary details for an Association membership directory are being developed.

Anyone interested in more information about the Berks County Cattlemen's Association, raising beef cattle, or cooking beef should contact Sheila Miller, president, Berks County Cattlemen's Association, 215-589-5617.

SIMPLE ECONOMY.

The Kubota L2050 compact diesel tractor was designed to combine versatility with operating economy, pure and simple.

With eight forward speeds, the Kubota L2050's powerful, four-cycle 20PTO HP diesel engine delivers ample power for most farming tasks. Direct fuel injection increases fuel economy.

Versatility is guaranteed by optional quick attach implements like a front loader, box scraper, mid-mount mower and tiller.

KUBOTA

THE QUICK REVERSE.

You might say the L3750 is quick on its tires With eight forward and eight reverse speeds plus your choice of a mechanical or hydraulic shuttle-shift, all kinds of front loader jobs go quick

The L3750 is even a smooth mover under the hood A new 5-cylinder diesel engine improves performance over a smaller engine, without the fuel consumption of a bigger engine

Other features that help make the work go quickly include a cleanly designed operator platform with the gearshift controls within easy reach at your fingertips Not underfoot

So see the 36 PTO horsepower Kubota L3750 soon Or make that quick

KUBOTA

DIRECT INJECTION DIESEL.

Kubota has a compact tractor with direct fuel injection. The L2250 has a 3-cylinder engine with 21 PTO horsepower. Plus it has direct injection for improved starts in cold weather and better fuel economy, too.

Other standard features, not so standard on most tractors of this size, include rear- and mid-mount PTO for maximum versatility when it comes to attaching implements. Surprising, wet disc brakes are standard, too. Power steering is standard on the deluxe model.

Our operator platform is designed for increased comfort, with all the important controls at your fingertips. Not underfoot.

To find out more about the Kubota L2250, please direct your questions to us.

KUBOTA

WORK A SHORT SHIFT.

The Kubota L4150 makes short work out of shifting from forward to reverse And that makes loading, leveling, grading or any other kind of work on a construction site go faster, too.

It comes with an 8 × 8 partially synchronized manual transmission. Or choose an optional hydraulic shuttle shift for quick reverse capability. You never have to touch the clutch.

There are also eight forward and eight reverse speeds. So it's easy to select the best speed for any job.

So come see the Kubota L4150. It could help shorten your workday.

Pasture Species An

Prepared By Alton Homan, Bradford Co. Extension Agent

Last week was the beginning of a series of articles discussing pasture management. The following is the second of the series.

Grazing Management- Grazing management involves the control of grazing animals on pasture. The two most important tools for influencing the level of animal output under grazing are: concentration of animals per unit area (stocking rate) and the system of grazing management.

Grazing pressure and stocking rate - The closeness to which a pasture is grazed is defined as grazing pressure. Grazing pressure is affected by both stocking rate (animals per acre) and available pasture (pounds of forage per acre).

High grazing pressure causes close grazing with short pasture stubble. Animal performance is reduced because all portions of the pasture, including the poorer quality forage, are consumed (Figure 22). Excessively-high grazing pressure results in overgrazing.

Low grazing pressure encourages selective grazing, with much forage available to animals and higher animal performance per head (Figure 22). Very low grazing pressure, or undergrazing, results in wastage of pasture and lower animal production per acre.

An optimum grazing pressure is one in which pasture productivity and quality matches animal needs; this would be analogous to the quantity of forage offered daily to animals in confinement when rations are balanced. In order to maintain an optimum grazing pressure, it is important to adjust stocking rate so that pasture is maintained within an optimum range of available pasture.

Available pasture not only influences stocking rate, but can also affect dry matter intake. As the amount of forage decreases, intake per animal decreases. Reduction of pasture from 1000 pounds per acre to 500 pounds per acre has been shown to reduce average intake by almost 40%. For optimum grazing, available pasture should be maintained at 1000 to 1500 pounds of dry matter per acre. Available pasture is normally measured in pounds per acre but the simplest way to assess availability is by pasture height and density. On average, a 3-to-4-inch blue-grass/white clover sward will have about 1000 pounds dry matter per acre; in tall grasses and legumes, this may be about 6 to 8 inches high.

Degree of grazing pressure on a pasture will affect the pasture plants as well as the animals. Long periods of low grazing pressure commonly cause loss of legumes from the stand. At the other extreme, long periods of high grazing pressure can result in a temporary or long - term decrease in pasture growth.

Short periods of high grazing pressure can serve useful purposes. One to two weeks at high grazing pressure, three or four times through the grazing season, can help maintain legumes in the stand and utilize forage that might otherwise be wasted. It is important not to expose growing animals (calves, yearlings, lambs) to long periods of high grazing pressure. Cows and ewes can tolerate high grazing pressure after breeding.

Grazing management practices- Management of animals on pastures can have strong effects on forage production and persistence, as well as on animal production. Selection of grazing management practices is a key decision in designing a pasture management program. Some important grazing practices are listed below.

Continuous grazing- The entire pasture area is grazed continuously for periods from 6 weeks to the whole growing season. This method appears simple because it requires few fences and water sources and less monitoring of the pasture condition.

Uncontrolled continuous grazing uses a fixed stocking rate on a fixed land area and often leads to under-or-over-grazing and poor pasture utilization.

Controlled continuous grazing methods try to maintain an optimum grazing pressure. Grazing pressure can be increased by increasing the stocking rate (adding animals) on a pasture or by temporarily fencing out part of a pasture for hay harvest. High grazing pressure may be relieved by removing some animals from the pasture, by allowing access to other pastures or hayfields, or by feeding harvested feed to the animals on pasture. For Kentucky bluegrass and perennial ryegrass, maintain a grazing height of 2 to 3 inches. For tall grasses, maintain a grazing height of 4 to 5 inches.

Close continuous grazing can lower pasture production and decrease persistence of many grasses and legumes. Therefore, it is important to use forage species adapted to continuous grazing.

Clipping pastures with a rotary mower is a good practice if pastures are undergrazed and growth gets ahead of the grazing animals. Clipping removes this tall, rank vegetation and encourages new growth of higher quality forage.

Since animals tend to congregate at water, soil nutrients from their wastes become concentrated in one area of the pasture. Providing more than one source of water and shade helps distribute nutrients more widely across the pasture.

To maintain a productive pasture in a continuously grazed system, it is important to avoid overgrazing. During periods of dry weather, remove the animals and give the pasture a rest.

Rotational grazing- The pasture area is divided into two or more subpastures, also called "paddocks", with each subpasture being grazed and "rested" in turn. Putting the whole herd in a small paddock results in rapid use of available forage. When a paddock is grazed off, animals are moved to a fresh one, allowing each paddock to be grazed clean and have a rest period. The rest period is critical to the continued productivity of some forage species.

Time that animals are on a paddock is referred to as the grazing period; time off the paddock is the rest period. Rotational grazing systems vary in design and intensity. Typical rotational grazing systems usually have less than seven paddocks with a grazing period of one to two weeks. Animals will have a high degree of selectivity during the first part of the grazing period. With these lax systems, plants grazed at the beginning of the grazing period are likely to have regrowth that will be eaten before the grazing period is over resulting in lower pasture productivity.

Intensive rotational grazing systems- usually have more than seven paddocks with grazing periods of less than one week to as little as one half day. There is more control of what the animal eats and normally better growth and persistence of pasture plants. When managing an intensive rotational grazing system, it is important to remember that the stocking rate is very high within one paddock and overgrazing can occur very rapidly. Animals must be moved when the available pasture falls below its optimum range. Allow grazing to begin when tall grasses reach 7 to 8 inches, and remove animals when grass heights fall below 3 inches. Begin grazing short grasses such as Kentucky bluegrass or perennial ryegrass when they reach 5 to 6 inches; remove animals when grass heights are 1 to 2 inches.

Rest periods should be based on the growth rate of the pasture and will vary depending on the season and weather conditions. (Table 86) Growth rate will be affected by soil productivity and fertility levels. In most pasture systems, areas will vary in soil productivity, and growth rate also varies. Therefore, even within a pasture system rest periods will vary. The best way to manage this situation is to not use a set rotational scheme, but move animals to those paddocks which have reached their optimum available pasture. Keep animals off a particular paddock until it reaches its desired optimum.

Paddock size depends on the number and class of animals being grazed, the amount of available pasture at the beginning of grazing and the desired grazing period. Table 87 shows how to calculate paddock size for intensive rotational grazing. Adjustments may be necessary if the stocking rate changes. For flexibility, the use of temporary interior fences is recommended.

The number of subdivisions needed for a rotational grazing system will depend on the number of days the animals graze in a paddock and the maximum summer rest period needed.

Note: Species and class of grazing animal may determine the grazing period. Lactating dairy cows need consistent quality forage; therefore, the grazing period may be anywhere from .5 to 2 days. Beef cows, brood ewes and most other ruminants do not require as consistent a quality forage and a grazing period of 3 or more days may suffice.

When managing a rotational grazing system, stocking rate and available pasture are still important. Spring management usually involves diverting some of the pasture for hay or silage.

"Creep" grazing- Fencing out and establishing a small pasture area of a high-quality, highly palatable forage to be grazed only by young calves and lambs. Young animals have access to high-quality pastures. A special gate (Figure 23) is designed to allow the young animals to graze the "creep" pasture and to return for suckling, much like a creep grain feeder. In rotational grazing systems, the "creep" gate can allow young animals to graze the next fresh subpasture before mature cows or ewes.

Mixed grazing- Grazing of pastures by two or more species of animals (beef and sheep, sheep and goats, etc.) has advantages. Animal species differ in the types of forage they prefer. Beef cattle prefer legumes over grasses, while sheep prefer immature grasses and weeds over legumes. Goats will consume shrubby vegetation, in addition to forage plants. Sheep, goats and cattle tend to be complementary in their grazing habits; thus two or more animal species together can better utilize the forage. Goats also aid in the control of weedy vegetation. Co-grazing does not increases the overall animal equivalent carrying capacity of a pasture. For purpose of stocking, a cow and calf may be considered equivalent to six average size ewes and lambs or nannies and kids. Co-grazing systems with sheep or goats should use rotational grazing (14 days or less per pasture) to minimize parasite larval survival and reinfection.

Corn Disease Consumed By Beneficial Fungi

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Stalk rot fungi, which cost U.S. corn farmers about a half-billion bushels a year, become victims themselves when corn is sprayed with beneficial fungi, a U.S. Department of Agriculture scientist has reported.

Entering and living inside the corn plant, the good fungi — a naturally occurring type — make the rot fungi sick by eating away at them.

"The research stirs hope for countering stalk rots with a biological control scheme that would be inexpensive, environmentally safe and applicable to the Third World as well as to U.S. farms," said plant pathologist Nader G. Vakili of USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

In field plots, he sprayed spores of Melanospora damnosa on foliage of inbred corn lines for four years. In the first year M. damnosa infected only about one half of one percent of the stalk rot fungus, Fusarium moniliforme, in the stalks. But after five years, 50 to 80 percent were infected, because applications of the good fungi steadily built up in the field, said Vakili, of the ARS Cereal and Soybean Improvement Research Unit in Ames, Iowa.

In another study, one corn line protected by M. damnosa has yields as much as 65 percent higher than a line lacking this beneficial fungus.

The results, he said, suggest a package plan for biocontrol. "Strains of biocontrol fungi would be picked for compatibility with a given corn line, and the corn would be bred to support large numbers of these fungi," he said.

The payoff could be big. "In the U.S. alone," he said, "stalk rots reduce yields by some 500 mililion bushels annually." Quality suffers too, he added. As weak cornstalks fall, the ears touch the ground and deteriorate.

Vakili presented his findings at the 14th annual symposium sponsored by the ARS Agricultural Research Center in Beltsville, Md. The topic this year is the rhizosphere, the zone of soil surrounding plant roots.

The beneficial fungi, or mycopathogens, naturally coexist with stalk rot fungi in the soil and in corn plant debris, he said. In the soil, the rot fungi — some infected by the good fungus — invade germinating seeds and roots.

Rain striking the soil may splash both fungi onto leaves, where Fusarium enters the plant, sometimes carrying hitchhiking mycopathogens.

While scientists have known about the mycopathogens for decades, about five years ago Vakili was the first to find them living inside corn plants. He later learned that their numbers were related to compatibility of genetic strains of both fungi and corn.

He said successful biocontrols for stalk rot and other diseases of grains may come through further studies of complex three-way relationships between genetic strains — or genotypes — of plants, disease fungi and beneficial fungi.

He found inspiration for his latest research by observing farmers grow open-pollinated corn in Honduras, El Salvador and Guatemala. There, he saw stalks healthy and strong enough to support two and even three accompanying crops of pole beans each year.

He reasoned from this that tropical corn varieties might favor the growth of the beneficial fungi, which in turn defended them against diseases that would weaken the stalks.

"Some modern corn genotypes developed from tropical ancestors should still express this control mechanism to varying degrees," he said. "And as the desired corn genes are identified, they may become valuable to breeders."

But, he added, large acreages of higher yielding hybrids are supplanting open-pollinated corn to feed growing human populations in the tropics.

"That could mean more fungal disease will show up. It also means that new hybrids to support biocontrol of stalk rot could be especially important in those areas," he said.

PatzGard liner

For mangers, feed bunks, conveyors, slides, gutters and more.

- Nonporous and super slick for easy cleaning.
- Will not rust, rot or corrode.
- Avoids rebuilding worn mangers and gutters.
- Avoids sour odors and feed waste.
- Feed savings could total $30 per cow each year.
- Cows eat better off PatzGard for higher production.
- Reduces fly feeding and breeding in mangers.
- Slick surface reduces power requirements for gutter cleaners and conveyors.
